GRAF SET FOR WORLD TRIP

Today

Almost England.
You Ought to Get This.
Prohibition.
But It Works.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 5.

SEATTLE is about 3,000 miles from New York, 4,255 miles, nautical, from Tokio and less than four hours from real British territory via Canadian Pacific boats to this capital of British Columbia.

This place is as British as Basingstoke, and as beautiful, in scenery, luxuriant growth of flowers and peaceful quiet, as any place on earth.

WITH time enough to see only one Canadian city, Vancouver was selected but American friends' remonstrated, "Vancouver? That is simply a junior Detroit, another hustling American city. Go to Victoria, and you will see how Britishers live and do business."

THEY were not doing business yesterday, it was Sunday. But they live happily, every day. Here men on $4,000 a year look prosperous and contented instead of looking dyspeptic and worried on $100,000 a year, as we do in "the states."

THEY have time to live, their faces are pink, no deep lines running from the eyes towards the chin, such as you see on United States faces, reminding you of Wall street running from Trinity down to the East River docks.

IN GOOD times and bad, American investors pay high prices for stock in the Canadian Pacific Railroad. They are wise.

The Canadian Pacific knows how to run railroads, steamboats and hotels. It can't help succeeding. And for the "ferry" running here from Seattle, it builds boats that cost $1,500,000 each. That shows intelligence.

VICTORIA, in proportion to population, bought more bonds than any other city in the British empire. B. C. Nicholas, editor of the able Victoria Times, and George I. Warren, of Victoria's Chamber of Commerce, tell you that proudly. This place is prosperous.

MANY from the Far East, from China, India and also from England, come here to live and bring their money with them. They get a great deal for it.

At the edge of the water, looking over Puget Sound, you can buy a lot 60 by 120 with a well-built eight-room house for $6,000.

THIS column exists to tell the world of real estate wonders and opportunities inside the United States. But it is only fair to say that some intelligent Americans are laying the foundation for big fortunes in land here.

WHEN they build houses arrivals from Yankee land are inclined to straighten out the old English lanes that wind picturesquely over the hills. Something ought to be done about that.

Every American, soon or late, ought to come here, then travel along the great sound to Vancouver, if only to know this magnificent body of water. We own it jointly with Canada, and young people in the Northwest know it and use it.

HERE now are four young American girls, two single, two married, as follows:

Miss Irma Fraser, Miss Ava Cochran, Mrs. Alice Griswold and Mrs. Johnson. All from Seattle. Each is about twenty, as nearly as you can guess in these bobbed days.

THEY have a power boat 22 feet long, and will spend three weeks' vacation in that boat, cruising hundreds of miles along the shores of Puget Sound. They catch salmon trout, go ashore to cook them, sleep in the boat, live in their bathing suits.

Do they carry a gun or pistol? "Certainly not. There are not many men along these shores and those here are civilized. This is the West."

THE sound is as smooth as the water in a bathtub, with faint ripples that suggest a pleasing pattern for a lady's dress material. Standing at the bow of the Canadian Pacific boat Princess Kathleen, you wonder why you have spent your life away from Puget Sound.

THE air that blows down from the cold Northern waters makes you feel 30 years younger and two feet taller. You should see this country. San Juan Island, given to this nation by old William, grandfather of the ex-Kaiser, in a boundary arbitration 58 years ago, is a fine little kingdom in itself. South, our Pacific coast stretches to the Mexican border more than 1,000 miles.

And to the north lies the great empire of Alaska, saved up for future generations.

This is the real United States. Come and see it.

THEY have no prohibition here in Victoria, by the way, or anywhere in British Columbia. The government is the only bartender.

"Beer parlors" are licensed. They can sell only beer, no other drink, no food at all.

American hot dog stands are erected near the beer parlors, the customer buys his hot dogs, carries them into the beer parlor. No objection to that. Ladies are welcome and they go, Americans included.

THE government will sell you anything you want, you pay a yearly sum, small, for the right to drink. Bottles must be taken home in sealed packages.

The people are sober, which, mysteriously, they seem inclined to be when there is no legal compulsion.

Concerning beer parlors, there is a local option. No community need have them. Nothing about them like our saloons of the past, or our more numerous speakeasies of the present.

District Attorney, Suicide, Absolved of Connection With Constable's Murder

By SHELDON REED,
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Aug. 5.—The inquiry into Fayette County's rum ring and its newly-acquired habit of sudden death today had left officials with two convictions:

That the slaying of John Donohoe, former constable, was a racketeer killing inspired by personal animosity or a desire to protect future profits, and probably both.

That the suicide of District Attorney Nicholas W. Rosenberg, while the investigation was in full swing, was due to hysteria.

SEEK NEW PROSECUTOR

The three judges of Fayette County's Common Pleas Court were scheduled to confer today on the naming of Rosenberg's successor.

There were reports that elements in the county had demanded the naming of a "fighting prosecutor" who would be able to unravel the Donohoe murder and thus eliminate the necessity of the state's investigation which is being conducted by Maj. Lynn Adams, superintendent of the state police.

Maj. Adams had unearthed no specific clue to Donohoe's slayers.

"We have been running down many leads, leads that seemed to promise much, but none of them has taken us anywhere," he announced. "We have other leads to

Street Car Pass Appears Here In New Form

Street car pass styles change, too.

The Pitsburgh Railways Company this week has issued a new series, smaller, like that new money, and made from a more flexible material than the old ones. It resembles the "leather" used to upholster cheap automobiles. The purpose is to avoid bending and tearing.

But even though the new passes are more lasting, they last only as long as their predecessors—just one week. How long the new styles will be in vogue, company officials refused to say.

CRIPPLED BUCS, GIANTS MEET

Neither the Giants nor Pirates were able to offer their best lineups for the delayed opening game of the series this afternoon, yet both teams were anxious to play as a result of the two days of rest. The rivals were all primed for action Saturday and the battle was just about ready to start when the heavy rain prevented it.

Remy Kremer and Carl Hubbell are primed for a slab duel today. The Pirate righthander and his young opponent of the lefthand slants were all warmed up for action Saturday.

Great Britain, Japan Lead, Having 64 and 33, With 10 in American Navy

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Either the British must sink or the United States must build thousands of tons in modern cruisers before there can be any equality or parity.

This is the verdict of the Navy General Board after a careful study of every element in offensive and defensive sea strength.

The cruiser is now regarded as the most modern floating weapon of war. This ship is to be the bone of contention in the proposed conference for balancing naval armaments.

Great Britain and Japan have forged ahead, while this country has dropped behind. Ir what may be called modern cruisers the United States has 10 in commission. They are of 7,500 tons each and carry only six-inch guns.

Two of 10,000 tons with 8-inch guns have been launched and soon are to be in commission and six are building. Fifteen authorized by Congress have been held up while pre-

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 5.—A bitter fight to prevent William C. Howells, of Columbus, a newspaper reporter and president of the Ohio Legislative Correspondents' Association, from telling the jury what Dr. James H. Snook told him in an interview, was staged today at the trial of Snook for the murder of Theora Hix, young co-ed.

Vigorous objection to Howells' testimony was made by Attorney E. O. Ricketts, of defense counsel. Judge Henry L. Scarlett dismissed the jury while Ricketts fought the matter out with Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., who had summoned Howells to the stand.

SPADRA, Cal., Aug. 5.—(INS.)—Overpowering their nurses and battering their way to freedom through doors and windows, 16 inmates of the State Narcotic Hospital here escaped early today after a riot.

Three were later recaptured.

Nearly 100 others were subdued by a show of shotguns and tear bombs.

Shortly before midnight the crash of shattered doors and windows aroused the physicians, nurses and attendants.

The attendants, rushing to investigate, were confronted with the dope-craving patients and a desperate battle resulted.

SUBURBAN BUS LINE ACCUSED

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5.—In a territorial fight, the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company today filed a complaint against D. L. Feick, Pittsburgh, with the Public Service Commission.

Feick holds a certificate from the commission to operate a motor passenger service in Brentwood, Overbrook, Hillcrest, Broughton, Bruceton, Horning and Library. The motor coach company charges that Feick has exceeded its privileges by carrying passengers in the city of Pittsburgh, which is in the territory for which the motor coach company holds a certificate.

ZEP LEAVES LAKEHURST WEDNESDAY MIDNIGHT; DIARY RELATES EPIC

The giant Graf Zeppelin, having safely and swiftly flown the Atlantic a third time, was being groomed at Lakehurst today for its trip around the world.

The trans-Atlantic air journey was a thorough success. In approximately 94 hours, the big German peace-time ship flew 5,331 miles from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst.

Wednesday it takes to the air again on the Hearst-Eckener world trip, its first leg from America to Germany.

The Sun Telegraph herewith presents a complete picture of the trans-Atlantic flight, including a diary written on board the speeding Zeppelin by Mme. Rene Froissart Gourevitch.

By RENE FROISSART GOUREVITCH.

Wife of the Russian pianist Gregory Gourevitch, and one of the two women passengers aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its second trans-Atlantic flight.

Written on board Graf Zeppelin on its Friedrichshafen-to-Lakehurst flight.

IT is fantastic; it is beautiful. I cannot find words to express my gratitude for being privileged to have such an experience as going back to America by airway and in the wonderful Zeppelin.

Oh, how wonderful the take off; so smooth, so even, so majestic. Just like a dream I used to have when a child and which I loved because it was so peaceful. So still—no harshness, and the light was bluish white.

"RIDE OF VALKYRIES"

My husband has told me in French and in English, using the best words he could find, to give me an idea of the beauty of what can be seen down below (and he has a good vocabulary). Well, it is so marvelous. So clear, so neat. It does not seem real that I cannot yet find words adequate enough to express my wonder.

One may go as high up in the mountains as it is possible to go, but one cannot by any other means than aircraft hang over fields. Villages, rivers, lakes, forests and yet be in a comfortable room.

It is now 6:30 a. m. We are over Switzerland. My husband, my artist (although people may say I am partial) reflects through his whole being the beautiful rhythm of images and I see him passionately writing and in his eyes and features I see the same expression as when he plays Wagner's Ride of Valkyries. Yes. For him it is the ride of Valkyries.

PENN REPLACES PIANO

As we have no piano he plays it with beautiful words on paper with a fountain pen. Sir Hubert Wilkins has come in to look at the planes an dwe exchange impressions. Count Montgelas walks restlessly to and fro.

Mr. and Mrs. Crouse are still watching from the windows although they have not been to bed like many others. A few are dozing in armchairs in the saloon. Then coffee is brought in and everyone gives an "ah-ha."

Capt. Von Schiller, the real friend of everybody, asks for all cameras, for we are nearing France. No picture-taking allowed over French territory.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 5. THE round-the-world flight of the Graf Zeppelin will begin Wednesday at midnight, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the giant airship, decided today, after a rapid inspection of his ship.

Refreshed by a good night's sleep after many strenuous hours at the helm of the Graf Zeppelin, Dr. Eckener supervised preparations for getting the Graf into shape to return to Friedrichshafen on the first leg of her world flight.

TICKETS GO ON SALE

Tickets for the world flight went on sale in New York today at Hamburg-American offices. The cost is $9,000—Lakehurst to Lakehurst.

Passage includes expenses of stop overs in the three cities at which Dr. Hugo Eckener plans to call on his cruise into Friedrichshafen, Tokio and Los Angeles.

The three berths for the round-the-world flight and the six for the trip to Friedrichshafen which were allotted for sale were announced disposed of later in the day.

Those who bought tickets for the world flight are:

WORLD TRAVELERS

Joachim Rickard, Andover, Mass., connected with the American embassy in Madrid, who made the trip to Lakehurst, and Otto Hillig, of Liberty, N. Y. The third passenger's name was unavailable.

Those who will travel to Friedrichshafen are: Morris Shumofsky, president of the Bamby Bread Company, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Nathan Wexler and William Weber, New York hotel proprietors, who plan to return on the new Dornier seaplane; Herman Schlatter, Philadelphia. The names of the others were unavailable.

Dr. Leisler Kiep, director of the Hamburg-American line, and Dr. Walter Spiess, of the German transportation ministry, are returning to Friedrichshafen.

Lady Drummond Hay, whose passage was booked abroad, will be the only woman on the round-the-world trip.

ECKENER DELIGHTED

The German air master was a pleased man today over the showing of his ship.

"She started in a storm and landed in bad weather, but covered 5,000 sea miles without once giving us any trouble.

"She averaged 55 miles an hour from Gibraltar to the American coast. We had nasty weather the last 14 hours but the Zeppelin proved again she can pass through any storm and any weather."

Five thousand miles from Friedrichshafen came the German dirigible to conquer the elements which sent it on its way and greeted it at the end. But it was only a grand

RETURN TRIP SCHEDULED WEDNESDAY

Mighty Graf Rests in Hangar Alongside Los Angeles After Westward Sea Hop

RESTS IN HANGAR

Today in peaceful slumber it lies snugly at rest inside the hangar here next to another graceful creature of the same family, the American Los Angeles.

Against a vicious ground wind, a force of 500 sailors and Marines walked the Zeppelin into its royal suite. It had been moored temporarily to a stub mast when brought to earth at 9:52 p. m. The crew of 40 stuck to the ship until it was safe in its steel bed.

When the floating air castle first arrived over Lakehurst at 7 o'clock in the purple dusk, the wind was blowing a fury. Airport officials suggested via radio that the Zeppelin cruise until the gale abated.

SHOW FOR NEW YORK

So the Zeppelin set out to give New York a show. It was because of head winds cutting down her speed that the airship had driven direct for Lakehurst passing up its plan to cross Washington and loll up the coast.

The aristocrat of the air is a traveler. Refueling of the Zeppelin will begin today. The only dirigible ever to make the westward spanning of the ocean twice, it begins an even more daring venture, the girdling of the universe.

In its junket to New York and return the Zeppelin was a silver finger brushing across the sky. A study in pale lavender and black. Its cabin lights out-twinkled the stars.

"Ain't it pretty," said one of the effeminate marines, the kind who cut their chewing tobacco with a bayonet.

Turning back to its haven, the dirigible droned low over the hangar, a triumphal drone. It moved into an electrical festival.

THOUSANDS VIEW IT

Thousands of eye-drunk pilgrims were going home satisfied. The headlights of their automobiles stretched forth along the road, a diamond necklace with no beginning nor ending, framing the huge central open space reserved for the descent of the airship.

Playing on this space was the giant naval searchlight. A series of nine red lights in the shape of a big V dotted the landing field, marking the approximate spot where the Zeppelin was to be brought down to earth. The naval radio sparked out light signals, the better for the air liner to see and hear.

A pair of slender ropes came down from the ship. Spider webs, the name for further lead lines, were attached. A dozen more lines slipped from the sky. A thousand sinewed hands of gob and leather-neck took hold. The huskies leaned back. A sudden gust of wind came from nowhere. Perhaps the two monkeys aboard peered forth sympathetically. An army heave, a navy haul and the silver-plated cylinder above began nearing the ground.

WILKINS FIRST OUT

As the first gondola touched the turf, Sir George Hubert Wilkins was the first to step out. The noted explorer had a duty. By special dispensation, he was permitted to hasten over to deliver in person his written story of the flight.

The other voyagers stepped home. Stepped into a bedlam of clicking cameras, question-marking reporters, smiling customs men, and greeters in general, including press agents for everything from canaries to flying acrobats.

The air tourists were bewildered, which is dictionary for being in a pea-soup fog. Madame George Greouviteh, wife of the Russian pianist and Mrs. George Crouse, wife of the wealthy Syracuse wholesale grocer, were virtually mobbed with queries sufficient to make an Edison questionnaire turn its face to the wall.

Two of the passengers were unseen, namely, Louis, the handsome chimpanzee and Susi, the charming gorilla. Their particular welcomers could not conceal their disappointment.

George Vierheller, director of Forest Park Zoo of St. Louis, broke up his vacation in the North Woods of Wisconsin to come to get Louis, who is between three and four years and brings $1,000 on any tree.

AWAIT EXAMINATION

Susi is bound for the Pet Stock Company of Newark, N. J. John C. Lucadem, president of the firm, was on hand with a gaily-decorated wagon. Susi is to go into vaudeville.

Both Louis and Susi must await a careful physical examination at the hands of the immigration health authorities before they will be allowed the freedom of the port.

The only casualties were the deaths of two of the 600 canaries aboard the dirigible, consigned to a New York department store.

"Air-sick?" said Dr. Hugo Eckener, jolly commander of the dirigible. "Of course not. They died from singing too much."

Regular Passenger Service Plans Denied by Zep Firm

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(INS.)—F. W. von Meister, American representative of the Luft-Schiffbau Zeppelin, today denied a published report that his firm had made any plans for a thrice fortnightly trans-Atlantic air passenger service between Germany and the United States.

Von Meister said his company is [illegible] studying the possibilities of such service, but declared it was an exaggeration to say preparations had reached a positive stage."

Zep Stowaway, Locked Up, 'Through With Flying'

GLOUCESTER CITY, N. J., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Albert Buschko, of Werne, Westphalia, Germany, says he is through with airships for all time.

In the immigration detention building here to which he was brought after he landed from the Graf Zeppelin last night, he said today that he was ready to go back to Germany and was glad he was going by steamer.

The blond-haired young man, who will be 18 on Wednesday, boarded the Graf Zeppelin as a stowaway from the roof of the hangar at Friedrichshafen just as the ship was leaving for the United States. He was not discovered by the crew until four hours afterward, according to the information of the immigration officials here.

Buschko, who does not speak English, told the immigration authorities that his only motive in stowing away was to go to America in an airship. He had read much about airships, he said, and craved a desire to travel in one.

Young Buschko is carrying a black eye. He said he received it when he dropped through the inner works of the ship at Friedrichshafen.

The stowaway told immigration authorities he was fairly well treated except that he was kept in practical confinement. He had sufficient food but did not get enough water to drink.

Ordered deported by the immigration authorities, the youth will remain in detention here until Thursday when he will be taken to New York and sent back to Germany on a German liner. His transportation from Lakehurst to Gloucester City, his board at the detention building and his transportation to New York and Germany must be defrayed by the owners of the Zeppeln.

Young Buschke is a baker by trade. His mother is living at Werne and he says he thinks he has a distant relative in this country but is not sure.

New Yorker Praises German Sculpture

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Frances Savage, New York sculptor, returned from Germany on the liner Muenchen an enthusiastic disciple of German sculpture. "The greatest sculpture in the world now is in Germany," she said. "Even the worst of it is not so bad as our 'Civic Virtue'."

Barking Dog Saves Two from Flames

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—The barking of a dog was credited with saving the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bisbee, of Union City, when fire destroyed their home.

Grave Diggers' Strike May Stop Funerals

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Fear of a general strike that would halt all funerals in the city today spurred State Labor Department officials in their efforts to settle the labor dispute between grave diggers in Calvary Cemetery and their employers.

Officials of the Funeral Drivers' Union announced that they would refuse to drive funeral corteges beyond the gates of any cemetery in the city as a protest in sympathy with the grave diggers.

A conference has been arranged between the strikers and officials of Calvary Cemetery, while several hundred bodies have been placed in vaults, awaiting graves.

Soldiers Given Lift, Accused as Bandits

YORK, Pa., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Two soldiers from Camp Meade, Md., William Anderson, 25, and Paul Richell, 19, Company C, Seventeeth Tank Battalion, were arrested for banditry and are being held by police at Hanover, this county.

L. C. Madison, of the state department of agriculture, livestock division, State College, alleges that they asked him, at Laurel, Md., for a lift as he was driving toward York. He permitted the two to enter the car, and later they forced him, he says, at the point of a pistol, to leave the Susquehanna trail, and drive onto a dirt road near the old Foust distillery, at Glen Rock, York County, where he was relieved of $27 in cash, his wrist watch and his automobile.

Lucky Bucks—New Money for Old

By LUCKY BUCK

Folks, in the first place, I know you've all been looking forward to finding out just where I've spent those 15 simoleons in this man's town of Pittsburgh.

Well, I hate to disappoint you, but I've only spent five. But I'm going to squander 10 more before the day's over. And here I'll be at a disadvantage, because you'll know what bills I'll be dispensing.

Anyhow, Saturday afternoon I went on a spree and discarded several smackers. The driver of Red Cab No. 28 absorbed one, without grimace—or a thank you. And Mr. Ritz at the Western Savings and Deposit bank stood by and watched me without suspecting a suspicion as I traded Lucky Buck No. *23044154D to a teller for a new and smaller bill. I'm still laughing, folks!

Then a cute-enough skoit in the Dutch Tea Room, E. Main street, Carnegie, gets up-stage as she serves me lunch, so I has to hand her a Succulent Suskin to pacify her—but that don't do any good, cause she don't know it's succulent.

And the boss paid for my shave at the Union Trust Company barber shop with another bean, X63327609D, by name. The Crafton Billiard Parlor craftily absorbs another known to Uncle Sam as No. Z52068242D.

Well, folks, I'm going to get rid of the others today. Ten of them. I'll give you-all a hot tip, too—I'm going to get a shave, and a shine, and some gas, and maybe some car checks and . . . well, I don't want to compromise myself too much—but I'd like to buy a pianox.

Saturday, you know, was a big day for you winners. Nine people showed up for a double sawbuck per. The first one was Mrs. F. T. Taylor, of Elmlenton, Pa., who writes: I have been looking for these beans for a couple of weeks, little expecting to find one strayed so far from Pittsburgh (about 80 miles.) Now you hit me.

And a bird by the name of R. L. Yanda had the nerve to come in here with a Lucky Buck No. B35838417E. In the last two months, he's won two automobiles and a Lucky Buck. Say, folks, if I were he I'd sell that rabbit's foot and retire for life!

Say, when I visited Ligonier with Benevolent Bean No. A52369344E last Tuesday, I never thought that Mrs. H. E. Behrhorst, 231 North Market street, would catch hold of it. But she did, and I'm glad.

Other now-prosperous beneficiaries of my wandering wilinesses are Miss Margaret Oberst, 1826 Ley street, North Side, No. X83631659D; Miss Marian G. Davis, 5531 Forbes street, No. Y41687471D; R. O. Voegele, Greensburg, No. R84009419D; R. E. Wiley, 307 Shiloh street, Mt. Washington, No. B21990720D; E. L. Goucher, 55 Bradford avenue, Crafton, and Mrs. P. J. Clunan, 5405 Broad street.

GAS BOND CASE TO BE HEARD AUGUST 19

Dealers Seek Injunction Against State Rule to Insure Tax Payments

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 5.—August 19 was set today by Dauphin County Court as the date for argument in the suit of the Pennsylvania Gasoline Venders' Association for a temporary injunction to restrain Charles Johnson, secretary of revenue, from enforcing rules of the department regarding bonding of retail gasoline dealers.

The departmental rules are "arbitrary, illegal and an unreasonable exercise of discretion," the suit against Johnson charges, and will operate to deprive many small dealers of means of livelihood.

On Saturday the Department of Revenue announced various changes in the bonding requirements after the initial regulations had been in force approximately one month. The changed regulations require dealers to give bond for only one month's tax collection. Original requirements had been for a bond equal to six months' collections. Another change permitted acceptance of personal surety, certified checks or government or municipal bonds instead of only the corporate surety bond which the department had first specified.

Despite these changes, the concessions are not enough, lawyers representing the vendors said today, and they propose a legal test of all of the rules which Johnson has announced.

The rule to show cause was issued today by Judge E. M. Biddle, of Cumberland County, specially presiding here. The suit is in name of Amos Titzel, Dillsburg, one of the members of the Dealers' Association.

SNOOK DEFENSE PROTESTS

was arrested as a suspect and the second Friday, June 21, at five minutes after midnight. This was shortly after Snook had signed a confession admitting he had slain Miss Hix. Present at this interview besides himself, Howells said, were Sheriff Harry T. Paul, a deputy sheriff, an assistant prosecutor and another reporter.

"Tell the jury in your own words what Dr. Snook said to you," said Chester.

"I object to this testimony," shouted Ricketts, and the battle was on. The judge excused the jury while the issue was debated.

Attorney Ricketts objected to Howells' testimony on the ground that the party which visited Snook "was organized by the prosecutor's office."

SNOOK TALKS WITH HOWELLS

"The confession Dr. Snook was supposed to have given prior to that was obtained under duress and after this defendant was subjected to hours of grilling," said Ricketts. "He was denied counsel except for a few minutes."

Prosecutor Chester suggested that Snook himself should take the stand and say whether the confession was given involuntarily.

"I don't need your advice about who I'll put on the stand" shouted Ricketts.

"Well, you're getting it," retorted Chester.

Judge Scarlett adjourned court until 1:15 p. m. when the issue was to be debated further. The defense objection was made so vigorously because the prosecution has not yet introduced Snook's signed confession and it is understood Snook discussed the crime with Howells.

Mrs. Harry Cassady was allowed to remain as a juror despite the fact she had paid a visit Saturday evening to the Franklin County jail where Snook is confined when not in court.

Mrs. Cassady, the only woman on the jury, took her accustomed seat in the jury box when court was reconvened this morning.

Judge Scarlett said a personal investigation has satisfied him that there was nothing wrong with the visit. The two deputy sheriffs who were discussing the Snook case were out of Mrs. Cassady's hearing.

Chemist Charles F. Long was recalled to the stand and cross-examined by Defense Counsel John F. Seidel regarding his analysis of the contents of the slain co-ed's stomach. Long had testified that his analysis revealed Miss Hix had eaten a drug-laden sandwich shortly before her death.

Seidel had at his elbow two chemists, O. M. Urbane and J. M. Miller, as he grilled Long.

ZEP THRILL RELATED BY WOMAN

Tells of Tour of Ship as Craft Speeds Over Ocean; Passengers Enthusiastic

By MRS. JEANETTE CROUSE
Universal Service Special Correspondent Aboard Graf Zeppelin.

(Written on board Graf Zeppelin on Friedrichshafen-Lakehurst flight starting Aug. 1, 3:30 a. m.)

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 5.—So much has happened in the 10 days since I left New York that I hardly know where to begin the story of this wonderful trip.

We left the Mauretania at Cherbourg, hurried to Paris by train, spent a few hours seeing the sights of Paris—my eyes ached from looking—caught a train to Basle and Zurich and had just five minutes to catch another train for Romanshorn, a beautiful little town on the shores of Lake Constance.

LUNCH OUT OF DOORS

There we lunched, foreign style, out of doors and overlooking the lake. From Romanshorn we crossed the lake by steamer to Friedrichshafen, and how surprised I was to find it the quaintest and most beautifully located village you can imagine. From the time I reached the Kurgarten Hotel my enthusiasm gained momentum. We arrived at the hotel very tired—met some of the Zeppelin passengers, some of whom already knew Mr. Crouse and they gave us a most hearty welcome.

The count is a jolly, clever, big fellow who has a good time and as we were to find out later, helps everyone else to have a good time, also. But I could go on describing passengers by the hour, they have all been so friendly, kind and jolly.

CROWDS ON FIELD

Crowds of people were gathered on the field outside and in the hangar but we had no difficulty in getting through and we were soon on board the airship. In a few moments we started.

Out through the doors we were guided by many men holding to the handrails. Once outside we were turned at right angles to the hangar and when far enough away we were freed and rose up and up. There was really no sensation of lift at all, everything went so gently, so smoothly and in order.

Almost immediately the steward started serving coffee and sandwiches. Some of the passengers went to bed but I just had to stay up and see the sights. The salon of the ship looked beautiful, bouquets of carnations, asters, gladiolas and daisies on the tables. And on the windows there was a chain of asters and baby-breath presented by the film star Anna May Wong. She wanted to hang it on the front of the ship but for fear it might blow off and be caught in the propellers it was taken inside. It was the thrill of a lifetime to see.

PLANES JOIN FLIGHT

Germany, Switzerland and France in the early morning twilight from the air. At about 5 o'clock three airplanes came from Switzerland to see us and flew beside us in a friendly fashion. I finally just had to snatch a few minutes rest, but did not sleep long before getting up again to see the sights. It was great fun to watch the country pass beneath us and we had to laugh at the animals. A herd would be quietly grazing. Then they would start like mad and run across the fields, then gather in a group and huddle together.

At 3:45 we were hustled to the salon and through the windows saw the twinkling lights at the famous Gibraltar Straits. You can't imagine the thrill of such an experience, moon peeking through clouds to lend enchantment. On our left were the lights of Morocco and on the right the lights of some Spanish towns and the flashing lighthouse on Gibraltar.

STROLLS ON CAT WALK

My biggest thrill was when Capt. Von Schiller took me up on the cat walk that runs fore and aft right along the ship and inside among the gas bags. He showed me the ones for fuel and the ones for lifting. Forwards of the salon and above it are the canaries, Anna May Wong's pigeons (she is sending them to her brother in New York), and the two monkeys. The catwalk is narrow, about a foot wide and beneath it are some clear spaces in the envelope through which I could see the sea below.

Traveling through the air in airships is more delightful than the smoothest motor driving. It is perfect—no bumps, practically no noise, and as I look down on the water it is easy to imagine that I am in a luxurious yacht on a still calm sea.

We have had a glorious trip, and as I write this we are approaching New York.

PART OF AUDIENCE OF 30,000 IN SCHENLEY PARK FOR FIRST OF MAYOR KLINE'S FREE SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIES

NEW FEATURE VOTED BIG SUCCESS

Mayor, Newspapers and Motion Picture Officials Praised for Exhibition

At least 75,000 people, police estimate today, witnessed the first Sunday municipal moving pictures presented last night in four city parks.

In Schenley park about 30,000 persons, many of them standing, watched William Haines in "West Point." This crowd was estimated by Police Lieut. Frank McNichols.

In West Park, North Side, between 25,000 and 30,000 viewed "The Last Command," Police Inspector Charles Faulkner estimated.

In Highland Park, "Ben Hur" had 10,000 as an audience, Police Inspector Bernard Kirley estimated.

In McKinley Park, "Old Ironsides" drew a similar throng, according to Park Supt. William Cready.

Preceding the feature picture in each park was a one-reel recital of the history of the free motion picture plan.

The Post-Gazette and Press estimated the crowd at 50,000.

Approximately 800 attended the showing of "The Way of All Flesh" by the Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church on the church lawn.

An army of motion picture fans swamped the parks. Special police were called. In Schenley Park alone a lieutenant of motorcyle police and four men guided 5,000 machines to parking places. Similar conditions prevailed in the three other places.

SEATS AT PREMIUM

Seating equipment was at a premium. Many boys waited through the entire afternoon in the front rows. For the band concert in Schenley Park nearly 10,000 had gathered. It was judged that more than half of the audience stood. Others watched from the tops of automobiles and many of the more youthful, from the limbs of trees.

Two children who became separated from their parents in the crowds were taken in charge by police and returned to their homes in police automobiles.

The venture, attempted by Mayor Charles H. Kline with the support of motion picture men, newspapers and thousands of citizens, was considered an overwhelming success. Pittsburgh is the first city to present such programs.

MAYOR VISITS PARKS

The prelude to the pictures gave Mayor Kline, newspaper editors, motion picture men and others credit for carrying out the project. It mentioned, as well, three councilmen who supported the plan in council, Winters, English and Herron, ignoring six who had voted negatively. It explained that the city was only committed to an expenditure of $5,000 for the picture machines, but Council refused to appropriate the money.

Mayor Kline visited three of the outdoor shows, missing the one in Highland Park only. At home last night he said:

"I certainly get a great deal of personal satisfaction out of seeing the many thousands of people enjoying the pictures. It made me feel I had actually done something that gave them real pleasure."

HEED CLERGY PROTEST

Prompted by the unofficial protest of North Side clergymen that the West Park program interferred with the outdoor union church service held there, Mayor Kline announced that the screen would be relocated next Sunday so that there would not be a repetition of such interference.

The Rev. Dr. J. Alvin Orr, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, had complained that persons who came to view the motion pictures had talked and smoked while the devotional service was being held prior to the municipal program.

CLARA BOW'S FIANCE IS SUMMONED

Suit of Pittsburgh Girl Against Stage Star Said To Be for Assault, Battery

A summons was issued in Federal Court today for Harry Richman, night club manager, stage star and reputed fiance of Clara Bow, film actress, in the suit which a formal court notice declares is to be brought by a Pittsburgh girl, Ellen Franks.

The summons directs Richman to appear in court the first Monday of September or file an affidavit of defense. But it cannot be served, it was explained, unless Richman comes within the jurisdiction of the court here or appoints an attorney to accept service for him.

The preliminary papers filed by Attorney Kivie Wolfe in behalf of Miss Franks, indicates damages will be asked for alleged assault and battery. Her identity was not divulged by Wolfe. She is reported to be a dancer, residing in Squirrel Hill.

FREE 24 CAUGHT IN 'RED' DRIVE

Twenty-four persons arrested at a Communist meeting in East Park, North Side, Thursday night were discharged at a hearing before Magistrate E. M. Hough today.

Four others, fined $10 each when arraigned at a previous hearing last Friday, again refused to pay the fines and faced the alternative of 10 days in jail. They will be sent there unless their attorney, Henry Ellenbogen, obtains a court order staying execution of the sentence. Ellenbogen announced that he would institute mandamus proceedings.

FOUR FACING JAIL

Among those arrested at the meeting Thursday were Pat Devine, district organized for the Communist party, and Pat Toohey, secretary of the National Miners' Union. Both were discharged. Those facing the jail term are George Patrimas, 32, of 710 Fifth avenue; Thomas Ray, 52, of McDonald, Pa.; John Herbona, 38, of 163 East Robinson street, and Abe Sarfinkel, 21, of 805 James street.

Police Inspector Charles Faulkner today turned over to the postal authorities the threatening letter received as a result of the red raid, along with another missive received a year ago.

The second letter purported to be a tip on the existence of a still in the Lawrenceville district. Similarity of the handwriting led Faulkner to think the author of both might be the same person. The letter received last week threatened to blow up the North Side police station and Faulkner's home if more Communists were arrested.

Planes "Immoral," Refuses Land For Airport

BLACKSBURG, Va., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—A theory that it is immoral to defy the law of gravitation was reported by Virginia Polytechnic Institute officials as an obstacle in obtaining land for the college airport here. A farmer and Dunkard minister by the name of Keith, it was said, refused to lease his land if airplanes were to land on it for this reason.

Sufficient land has been acquired, however, and state engineers have staked out the field.

Bishop Answers Charges With Slam at Smith

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—The answer of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to various charges published against him was made available to newspapers today in a 15,000-word statement.

In it, he went at length into the charges of profiteering in flour during the war, the criticisms of his stock market transactions, the charge that he had used funds of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of his church to further the election of President Hoover through organization of the Anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia and the contention that he has improperly used his church office for political purposes.

He restated his denials of wrongdoing in every instance, reiterated his opposition to former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Democratic candidate for president; Chairman John J. Raskob, of the Democratic National Committee, and Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, and declared:

"Either Raskobism must be discarded and repudiated, or dry Southern Democrats are of necessity permanently out of the party."

He declares he tried "vainly to find some one who had publicly sponsored the food profiteering charge," and then cites the statement of the trustees of the Blackstone (Va.) College for Girls, saying they were "fully acquainted with the facts" concerning his purchase of flour in 1917 while president of the institution to safeguard its food budget for the approaching term. He estimated that the profit on the transaction could not have exceeded $1,300 if all the flour purchased had been sold, and contrasted this with the charge that he had "profiteered personally to the extent of $50,000."

"Knowing that I had violated no civil or moral law, I continued to carry on my work without any change of plan," he went on, citing quotations from his June 1 statement and his letter of June 17 to the convention of anti-Smith Democrats at Roanoke to refute statements that his purpose "was to secure political control of Virginia, entirely apart from the prohibition issue."

Jailed By Mistake, Gets Written Alibi for Wife

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Herbert Taylor, of Elmhurst, wouldn't mind so much being thrown into jail every few days because he happens to resemble Willie Doody, gunman, mail robber and desperado, if it weren't for the fact that it's so difficult to explain things at home.

The last time it happened, yesterday, he asked Chief of Police Ellsworth J. Mitchell, of Hinsdale, to write out an explanation he could show to his wife.

"She's getting suspicious of my alibi that I've been in jail when I don't come home at night," he told the chief.

"And please write me out a 'to whom it may concern,' explaining who I am."

The chief did.

MOTHER FREED IN MILK THEFT

Mrs. Nellie Miller, 33, arose at 4 o'clock this morning, walked two blocks to a side street and took a quart of milk from a doorstep.

Mrs. Miller got the milk for her 14-months-old baby, also named Nellie.

There was nothing else to do. Baby Nellie needed the milk for her breakfast. There was none in the one-room flat at 1220 Federal street. Neither was there money.

FIRST OFFENSE

Mrs. Miller is not a thief; she never stole before, but it was out of the question for the baby to go without the milk, so Mrs. Miller took it.

It wasn't, you see, a problem of how to get the milk; it was simply the business of getting it for young Nellie, come what may.

A policeman saw Mrs. Miller taking the bottle. She suspected that he had seen her—but what difference could that make?

The policeman followed Mrs. Miller to her home and arrested her. From 5 to 8 o'clock Mrs. Miller was in the North Side Police Station—with her baby.

DISCHARGED

Mrs. Miller had the baby in her arms when she was arraigned in Morals Court. She was discharged. Magistrate A. D. Brandon gave her the milk, too, and the customary warning.

There were no tears. Mrs. Miller said simply:

"I took it because my baby was hungry."

Do not get the impression that Mrs. Miller needs charity. Her husband works on the railroad and the three of them live in an unpretentious room that is as clean as the best-kept mansion. Over their bed hangs a picture of Lindbergh, on another wall is a small American flag. There is, too, a picture of Mr. Miller showing off his baby.

"My husband is a good man and makes enough to support us, but we just happened to be out of money for the day," Mrs. Miller explained and her smile satisfied you that she is not apologizing because the Miller's do not have millions.

"Today," she adds, "is Mr. Miller's payday. He didn't go to work today because this happened, but he is out getting his pay now."

Nellie is an only child.

Annapolis Student Declared Suicide

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Andrew Boggs Drum, Jr., 20, member of the second class of the United States Naval Academy, died yesterday from injuries received in a fall of four floors in Bancroft Hall termed "a clear case of suicide" by Rear Admiral S. S. Robinson, superintendent of the academy.

He is the son of Maj. Andrew B. Drum of the U. S. Marine Corps, on duty in China, and was admitted to the academy June 14, 1927, from Washington, D. C., a presidential appointee.

Youth Tries to Swim From Boat, Drowns

BALTIMORE, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—An attempt to swim ashore from a boat in which a party of boys and girls were going to an outing at Fort Carroll, cost the life of George Machauckas, 17.

While the boat was in Patapsco channel he leaped overboard. In a few seconds he sank. After using hooks for an hour police had to abandon their efforts to drag for the body because of rough water.

KILLERS STRIKE, TONGS ARM

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(INS.)—Chicago's Chinatown was an armed camp today, following the outbreak of a new tong war which resulted in the killing of one Chinese yesterday and the probable fatal wounding of another.

At the same time news had been broadcast to every large city in the country and police precautions were being taken to prevent a nation-wide outbreak.

The dead man is Yee Sun, 59, a Hip Sing tong member. He was shot to death by three bullets while standing in front of the On Leong headquarters.

LEADERS GUARDED

The wounded man is Karl Leong Wong, shot a few hours later. Karl was supposed to be an On Leong.

Frank Moy, president of the On Leong, "King of Chinatown," is going armed today.

Lee Loy, acting head of the Hip Sings, also applied at headquarters for the same permission. Both were given a police bodyguard.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(INS.)—New York's Chinatown and Chinese sections in Newark and other adjoining cities were patroled today following the fatal shooting of Louis Lah Fung, 42-year-old restaurant owner and member of the On Leong Tong.

Loy Sing, 31, member of the Hip Sing Tong, was held in connection with Lah Fung's death.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—(INS.)—On the heels of a futile attempt to assassinate Chin Do, Chinese merchant, Chinatown today maintained an ominous silence, which police feared meant a lull before renewal of the war between the Hip Sing Tong and the On Leong Tong.

ON GUARD HERE

Detectives said today that there is no likelihood of a Chinese Tong outbreak here.

Extra precautions taken after Willie Yak, "mayor" of Chinatown, called detective headquarters and asked for additional police protection, have been discontinued because of lack of hostility between rival tongs.

LANDS IN RIVER, AVERTS CRASH

"R-i-v-e-r," printed on the side of an airplane which flashed across the path of Ralph Toy, student flier at Bettis Field, yesterday sent him to a landing in the Monongahela River near Clairton, thus saving his life.

Toy, a student of Joe Dawson, former Pirate baseball star, took the air at noon to add hours to his flying credit. Robert Trego, assistant field manager, noticed the under-carriage slip from its ball and socket joint beneath the plane and dangle four feet below normal position.

Dawson and Pilot Jack Scroggins, advised of the mishap, jumped into planes, each with a wheel of an undercarriage, and climbed to the level of Toy's plane. As they sped past him each waved the wheel, in an attempt to warn the flier of his danger. They continued for several minutes.

Understanding something was wrong Toy began to descend. At this Dawson and Scroggins directed their plane into his path, forcing him to seek altitude to avert a collision.

Frank Dayton, an air mail pilot, climbed into a mail plane upon which had hurriedly been painted the word "River," and joined Dawson and Scroggins in their race to and fro before the bewildered Toy. In a swerve of his plane, Toy indicated he understood, and directed his course toward the Monongahela.

Down below Allan Trego, an attendant, and Audley Pierce were racing to McKeesport in an automobile, where they engaged a motorboat owner and sent him up the river to pick up Toy when he landed.

Romance of French Flier, American Girl Totters

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—The brief romance of Pauline Parker, New York show girl, and Jean Assolant, French pilot of the trans-Atlantic plane Yellow Bird, is reported to have struck difficulties.

The young couple—Assolant, 23, and Miss Parker, 22—was married at Portland, Me., June 10, three days before the French fliers took off from Old Orchard for Paris.

They had met only a short time previously. The American girl followed her husband by steamer and rejoined him on June 26, when she met his parents for the first time.

While neither admits contemplating court action, it has been rumored for some time that things were not going smoothly. Miss Parker does not speak French and Assolant knows practically no English.

ILKINS DRAWS VIVID PICTURE OF GRAF'S VOYAGE

RIGIBLE GIVES PASSENGERS NO CONCERN

Marvellous Scenery, Easy Sailing, Mark Journey; Merrymaking Lasts Long

By SIR HUBERT WILKINS

Famous explorer who sailed across the Atlantic on the Graf Zeppelin to write the story of the Second Trans-Atlantic Flight.

(Written on board Graf Zeppelin in its Friedrichshafen-Lakehurst Flight.)

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 5.—The former attempt to reach America on board the Zeppelin and on which engine trouble let us in for some thrilling adventure acted like a spicy cocktail, whetting our appetities for more.

On that trip the airship so definitely proved its safety and the officers so clearly demonstrated their ability that it was no wonder that former passengers hurried from all parts to rejoin the Graf Zeppelin on its third start for New York. One trip had been successfully accomplished, the second did not succeed, the third was about to start.

Passengers reached Friedrichshafen by airplane, rail and steamer. (The little town is on the shores of the Bodensee and ferries ply regularly to Switzerland.) Trial trips had been made, all things except passengers were ready two nights before the scheduled time for starting.

Uncertainty Reings

Then came the eve of departure. Passengers, their friends, airship officers and crew, local people and tourists all flocked to the beautiful Kurgarten Hotel. Singing and dancing made time pass pleasantly and excitement was maintained by the uncertainty of passengers' arrival.

There was also the chance that others who were waiting might take the place of absentees. It was a dramatic situation. A beautiful girl from Paris arrived post haste by plane. She pleaded vainly for a berth.

The famous Oriental film star Anna May Wong hung in the balance.

Would she go if she could? She wanted to, but a film contract forbade it. An American girl, fresh from being a stowaway on the steamer Bremen and seeking further adventure hovered about. I believe she even carried her tooth brush concealed among her lip stick and compact, waiting for a chance to sneak on board.

The start was announced for 3:30 a. m. That meant no sleep that night. Some of us, tiring of the hotel noise, went early to the hangar. There was no excitement there, everything was in perfect order.

Doors Guarded

Three or four watchmen guarded the doors. Young Mr. Eckener was in charge. Pale blue lights slung from the hangar roof shed a ghostly radiance over the silver airship giving it the appearance of some unearthly monster suspended in its cave. The cherry shaped sand bags making up for the weight of the absent passengers hung from the hand rails on the cabin and control car. The car looked like a giant caterpillar supporting a mighty crysalis on its back.

There was yet an hour before the start. We sampled the air; held fluttering handkerchiefs that stretched diametrically across the hangar. The wind was not strong but if it rose it would be a ticklish job to give birth, as it were, to the giant butterfly.

Clots of clouds lumbered over the hills south of the hangar; we turned again and again to the weather chart. Would the depression, then centered over Ireland sweep down and intercept us as we emerged from the Mediterranean or would it lumber eastwards, its outer edge cuffing us only slightly as we followed the coast of Spain? We could only wait and see.

Northern Route Out

In any case it was not advisable to take a northerly route and run smack into the high wind that was forcing against the course on the English coast.

The majority of passengers took the Luftschifbau bus from the hotel to the sheds. The men of the crew, each accompanied by their children, wives and sweethearts as the case may be dribbled into the hangar. Their calm and casual air was enough to abolish apprehensive thoughts from even the most timid passenger. The thoroughness of the airship officers and crew is so apparent and confidence-inspiring, it needed but a few sharp orders from Capt. Lehman.

He passed on through Capts. Fleming and Von Schiller to move the waiting ground crew to systematic action.

Two solid lines formed, one on each side of the saloon car. Groups of 20 men seized control ropes which spread fanwise from various points along the airship like multiplied reins from the hands of a charioteer. At a word off came the cherry shaped sandbags, the waiting men held down the ship and compensated for the weight.

Passengers Checked

"Passengers stand by to embark."

Each ticket was checked as we stepped on board. The total fell four short of the original number. The Pierces (Mrs. Pierce was a passenger on the other flight) were stranded somewhere in Russia. An ambassador from Spain was sidetracked somewhere. A Sir Galahad from New York and the high spots of the world failed to put in an appearance. We could wait no longer. The reduction in number pleased the steward anyway, for with only 18 passengers and three officers to dine, he could attend them at one sitting.

Dr. Eckener arrived and gave a few minutes to the assembled journalists, then all were aboard except two officers who controlled the ground crew. The ship was weighed on a delicate balance in the control room. The rustling of water was heard as ballast was released from the rear water sacks and an even keel established.

Only a motion is needed to let the experienced ground crew know that all is ready for the exit.

The huge bulk moves slowly, awesomely, into the beams of the searchlights playing on the field. Small crowds follow each line of ground crew. Slowly the ship is swung head to the wind and launched by hand as far into the field as conditions will allow. From the start to the end it is one continuous maneuvre, one constant movement.

No Jerks

No jerks, no stopping; steadily, continuously the ship moves on. Dr. Eckener steps to the engine controls. There is a whirr like a rising pheasant—it is the control wires—a clang in the engine room, and a fraction of a second later a dull purring augmented five times as the five engines start, but the noise is scarcely audible to the passengers. The two officers who have been directing ground operations climb aboard. Everything is ready.

Dr. Eckener gives the command, "Lift her up, hoch, hoch," and the 300 hands of the 150 ground crew thrust the ship mightily upward. The engines' bells clang again, full speed ahead is rung, and we rise majestically.

The searchlights playing over the field flash on while uplifted faces of the people are left behind. Steeply we rise over the hills and trees; the scattered town lights lose themselves in mist. The hangar doors dwindle in the distance, with blue lights flooding through them, looking like the peep-hole in an alchemist's furnace.

Soon we were wreathed in clouds and, struggling through them, emerged over Lake Constance. The crescent moon, low in the horizon, tinged the cloud tops with wraithlike grayness, but soon the rosy tint of dawn shot from the eastern sky and golden gleams of sunshine followed close behind.

Stowaway Aboard

It was hard to drag oneself from the beautiful scene and throttle the brain-children born on such occasions, but I turned into the control room to consult with Dr. Eckener, the man whose tireless efforts together with the skill of his officers has made these flights examples of modern progress, possible.

"A fine start, Doctor," I observed.

"Ja, ja," he replied, but I could see that he was turning something over in his mind. "Yes," he said, "a fine start, but marred by the action of a 'blinder passagier'—a 'stowaway,' as you call them in English."

He was seen before we left, but what with the cross wind and our desire to get away, we could not stop to put him off. He was hanging to the roof of the hangar and dropped to the top of the ship as we moved out. He might well have torn the surface and jeopardized the whole flight. There is a window in the top, through which he came and climbed in among the gas bags.

The crew has him, and by this time he must be sorry that he succeeded in getting on.

"Is he an American?" I asked.

"No," I was told. "He is a German boy, 20 years old, and he will get short shrift throughout the voyage."

Keep Silent

We talked of the contemptible and serious nature of that and similar acts, and I agreed to say little about the incident and so avoid the publicity which encourages foolhardy, criminally-thoughtless youths to do such things.

We sped on, five engines purring smoothly, burning gasoline, the heavier fuel, so as to lighten ship as much as possible before coming to the hills of Switzerland which divide Germany from France. When over Switzerland a tiny moth plane ranged beside us and then a wide winged Fokker came up on the other side. When opposite, it hung in the air tail downward like a falcon hovering, its three engines slowly turning and carrying it forward at almost airplane stalling speed which is equal to the cruising speed of the Zeppelin.

Several times the planes swung around us, their occupants no doubt taking moving pictures. Then they turned edgewise and like hawks on windy days retraced their route.

We were well away on a great adventure. Yes, and more than that, we were to demonstrate the ability of the airship's crew and engines and mark one more record along the line of airship travel.

As we crossed the Swiss hills to the Saone valley we experienced a few bumps, but the clouds had risen from the hilltops giving us clear entry into French territory.

Mistral Missing

The usual mistral was missing from the Rhone valley and we bucked head winds as we ran down this trough of France. Dr. Eckener and Capt. Lehman studied the weather chart and considered the advisability of crossing north of Spain to the Bay of Biscay but as the winds in the North Atlantic were not likely to be favorable they proceeded southward.

The valley of the Rhone is interesting from both land and air, but air travel unfolds in quick succession the natural glories of many objects of peculiar interest. The sweeping river skewered here and there with walls to guide its course and banked in places so as to carry its water above the neighboring fields is ever picturesque. The fields of oats and barley, intersecting vineyards and fruit farms, waved their shaggy fleeces where the reapers' hook had not yet penetrated. The ruined castles with Roman influenced architecture which attracts many motoring tourists are no less pleasing from the air if one has sufficient flying experience to develop air perspectiveness.

At 2 o'clock we crossed the sandy Mediterranean shore and swung to a more westerly course. Even so we headed well out into the Mediterranean Sea and by that maneuver were rewarded by a following wind.

Then one engine was stopped and others eased on throttle. This reduced our air speed yet our speed of 70 miles an hour was maintained over the water.

Ships Passed

Several steamers and sailing ships were passed, but at too great a distance for us to know if their occupants were interested in our movements. Failing a sight of human movement aboard, these boats seemed to swaddle their bottoms in the friendly water and setting their noses in the air, conspiculously ignored us.

In late afternoon we passed from the favorable wind, left behind the sparkling sea and came to lolloping oily waves with limpid glistening surfaces except where catspaws of wind wrinkled and patterned its leaden flatness. We looked down fascinated.

Lost in thought we were startled by the flash of a fish like a silver arrow from the sea. Once attention was drawn to the spot we could see a school of a hundred or more porpoises gamboling in the water. Even although they were beneath the surface their white bellies gleamed as they turned and twisted. A few seemed to be playing with each other, but most of them were evidently intent on satisfying their appetites, and a veiled shimmering of the water about them revealed the struggle of shoals of frightened fish.

The wind freshened as we passed the Isle Mallorca. The white-walled houses and small towns and church spires on this island recalled to some of us—particularly as we had Prof. Gourevitch, the famous pianist, on board — that Chopin's most pleasing and profound works were inspired as he sojourned in that island's convent cloisters, attended and encouraged by his equally brilliant soul-mate, George Sand.

Talk of Music

The discussion of music and musicians continues until dinner time and after dinner, darkness, enhanced by low cloudiness, drove most of us to bed to rest a while before rising to view in moonlight the Straits of Gibraltar.

It was 4 o'clock Friday morning before we enjoyed that sight. Head winds had hampered us. We kept close to the Moroccan shore and so avoided a bank of clouds that hung above Gibralter's rock. But opposite the bright lights of the Moroccan town, Ceuta, we could see the waving lighthouse on English watch tower.

We dived through a narrow wall of cloud that hung curtain-wise across the straits and came to a starlit Atlantic. Almost at the same moment the sun's rays sprang from the east and shed a glow upon the distant clouds, and the ocean's surface. It was as a promise to help us on our way and to carry us in safety.

A short day seemed long because of the anticipation of sighting the Azores. Our course was laid to touch Santa Maria, the most southerly of the group of islands. At sunset we saw San Miguel in the distance and in the dusk we approached the checker-board like, more southerly Portuguese possession. The land looked velvety in the half light. We swung low above the cliffs and scattered houses. Several bags of mail were dropped and sped downwards, falling in the fields. Scarcely a light except the lighthouse twinkled. Darkness hid the inhabitants from us but to them the airship must have presented a rare and thrilling sight.

Turn to Wine

The landfall had distributed us at dinner. Wine flowed to celebrate the passing of the first stage of the Atlantic journey. Tongues were loosened and youthful memories kindled. Dessert and liquors were accompanied by songs and stories. Count Montgelas, a seasoned raconteur with international experience, led a willing band made up of journalists and congenial, plutocratic Americans.

COSTS LESS IF TRUST COMPANY SETTLES ESTATE

Survey in Allegheny County Reveals Figures.

Many people who are fully convinced of the advantages of having their estates settled by a trust company hesitate to do this because they believe this service is more costly than administration by a private executor. As a matter of fact, the reverse it true, it has been pointed out by John W. Chalfant, Vice President in Charge of Trusts at The Colonial Trust Company.

Mr. Chalfant quoted from the survey "A Study of Decedents' Estates in Allegheny County" compiled by Clarence B. Metzger, assistant manager of the Edward A. Woods, Agency, which shows that, in general, a greater proportion of an estate is paid to the heirs if the estates is settled by a trust company than if handled by individual executors.

"More Efficient."

This study is based upon actual figures in the office of the recorder of deeds and clerk of orphans' court of Allegheny county.

In summarizing his findings, Mr. Metzger wrote: "It seems that on the whole, trust companies are more efficient in administering estates than private individuals."

The figures revealed by the study were:

Estate from $1,000 to $5,000—heirs received 10.2% more in estates handled by trust companies than from those handled by private individuals.

Estates from $5,000 to $10,000—the heirs receive 7% more under trust company distribution.

Estates from $50,000 to $100,000—heirs receive 37.8% more under trust company handling.

Estates from $500,000 to $1,000,000—heirs received 5.5% more under trust company distribution.

Trust Company Advantages.

In accounting for these figures, Mr. Metzger suggests that the reasons may be as follows:

"(a) Trust companies have more experience in handling estates. There is a distinct advantage in the officers of trust companies reviewing with their clients the various problems arising at death. Private individuals as executors, on the other hand, seldom if ever have a chance to go over the business affairs before the decedents demise.

"(b) It is highly desirable and almost essential that estates have a large cash content in order to meet the current debts at death, funeral expenses, inheritance taxes and administration expenses, and the officers of a trust company are in a good position to counsel with their clients and therefore urge the establishment of a cash fund for such contingencies."

FIVE KINDS OF PAPER MONEY

Story of Different Issues Tells History Of Currency

Now that the issue of new small-size paper money is attracting public attention to the National currency, it is of interest to note that millions of people who handle paper money every day of their lives, do not realize that there are five different kinds of that money.

A. D. Robb, Vice President of the Colonial Trust Company, pointed out that these five are:

1—United States notes.
2—Silver certificates.
3—Gold certificates.
4—Federal reserve notes.
5—National bank notes.

Began In Civil War.

The United States notes were first issued during the Civil war. They were then called "greenbacks." They began as a military necessity, but have now become a permanent part of the National currency. They are promissory notes of the Government.

The silver certificates began in 1890, when Congress authorized the treasury to buy silver bullion and issue silver certificates against it. They are redeemable in silver, or, if you prefer, in gold. Gold certificates are somewhat similar in character, the silver certificates being for small denominations—$1, $2, $5, $10, $20; the gold certificates being from $10 upward.

The silver and gold notes are, in effect, "warehouse certificates." They certify that gold or silver for that amount has been deposited in the treasury and that the holders of the certificates own the gold or silver, and can have it on demand. The treasury acts as a safe deposit warehouse for the coins.

Reserve Notes Newest.

The Federal reserve notes are of more recent origin, and first appeared after the institution of the Federal reserve system. They are issued by the regional reserve banks, and are secured by commercial paper for 100 per cent of their value, and a gold reserve for an additional 40 per cent.

National bank notes are issued by the treasury in the name of individual national banks. To secure them, the banks must deposit with the treasury Government securities for more than the full amount of the notes and, in addition, lawful money to the amount of 5 per cent of the issue. These notes are redeemable either by the Government or by the banks.

HANDWRITING EXPERTS

There are tellers at The Colonial Trust Company who know as many as two or three thousand signatures so well that they can pay checks instantly without necessity of looking up the depositor's handwriting.

Depositor, Gone 14 Years, Located by The Colonial; Search Saves Him $1,700

Director

LOUIS A. MEYRAN

Among the directors of The Colonial Trust Company is Louis A. Meyran, who has been identified with the iron and steel and banking businesses in this district for years.

Mr. Meyran is vice-president and a director of the Manufacturers' Light & Heat Company; director and chairman of the board of the Parkersburg Iron & Steel Company; and a director of the United States Glass Company. He was vice-president of the Citizens Savings Bank until its liquidation in 1928.

While his residence is on Shady Avenue in Pittsburgh, Mr. Meyran also has a home in Hollywood, California, where he and Mrs. Meyran spend their winters.

Bank Prevents Account From Escheating to State.

SEARCHED FOR MONTHS

A search by the Colonial Trust Company of Pittsburgh, which lasted for months and which extended over most of the Eastern section of the country, has resulted in locating a missing depositor and has prevented the escheating of an account totaling over $1,700.

Under the escheat law of Pennsylvania, the state takes over accounts which have been inactive for 14 years. An account is considered inactive when no deposits or withdrawals have been made in that time and the pass-book has not been presented for entry of interest. The state takes the names of the inactive depositors, advertises them, and then, if no claim is made, takes possession of the money.

Fourteen years ago a customer of the Colonial deposited $1,000 here, on a certificate of deposit. The account has been untouched since that time. In the meantime, interest totaling more than $700 has been automatically added to the account by The Colonial, the account now amounting to $1,700.

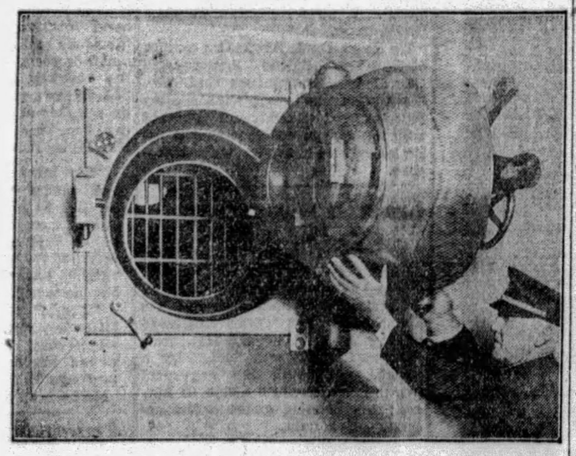
Knowing that this account would soon come within the terms of the escheat law, the Colonial last fall began a systematic search for the depositor. Letters sent to his last-known address were returned. Personal efforts to trace his whereabouts were equally unsuccessful. Finally, George R. Haas, auditor of The Colonial, went back into the records, found the names of the persons who introduced the missing depositor to The Colonial away back in 1915 and began a search for him through them.

Search Through Many States.

He was traced from city to city—to Philadelphia, Buffalo, New York, into New England—and finally, after months of effort and endless correspondence, the depositor was located in Philadelphia. A new certificate of deposit is being issued, the account is thereby brought up to date, and the danger of escheating is removed.

Most of the sums turned over to the state, under escheat law, are small amounts, but in the first year of the operation of the law The Colonial had to turn over to the state $600 in one account. Every effort was made by The Colonial to find the owner, but that search was unsuccessful.

No Jimmy Valentine Episode In This Vault



Emergency door in the rear of the Safe Deposit Vault at The Colonial Trust Company provides against interruption to the use of the vault if anything interferes with the main door.

Both fiction and fact contribute tales about dramatic things that happened when vault doors could not be opened. That theme formed the climax in the play, "Jimmy Valentine."

In the great vault at the Colonial Trust Company, even the unexpected is prepared for. At the rear of the vault is an emergency door, just big enough to admit a man's body, which can be used if anything interferes with the main door. This emergency door is a miniature of the front door vault, and is just as strong and as burglar-proof as the main door. It is protected by three time clocks and four locks.

Strange things sometimes happen to vault doors. And, when anything strange happens to a vault door, the door, for safety's sake, locks tight. There is an instance where a small rubber band was caught in a vault door, and the door refused to open. Entrance had to be made through the emergency entrance and the main door was forced open with screw jacks.

How to Make Checks For Less Than $1

Checks for less than one dollar are possible sources of danger, first because the amount may be mistaken for dollars instead of cents, and second because many of them can readily be raised if they fall into the hands of dishonest persons.

If checks for so small an amount must be written, they can best be protected by plainly and obviously crossing out the word "dollar" wherever it occurs on the check and by writing in the words "Only Seventy-five Cents"—or whatever the sum is. As an additional measure of safety, many people draw a circle around the figures, thus calling extra attention to them.

74-Year-Old Man Starts Account; Lives to See Bank Interest Double It

Leaves Money Untouched for Almost 17 Years.

DIES WHEN 92 YEARS OLD

The recent death of a depositor of the Colonial Trust Company at the age of 92 years recalled an interesting example of the power of money to grow when the principal and the interest are undisturbed.

This man, when 74 years old, sold a piece of farming land, for which he received about $25,000. He placed the entire amount on deposit at The Colonial in a savings account. He felt that he was too old to risk his principal in any venture and that his tenure of life was too uncertain to make it worth while to tie the money up in a long-time investment. Twice a year he presented the pass-book and had the interest added. The total mounted steadily.

When he was nearing his ninety-second birthday he decided that the time had come to divide this money among his four children. The account by that time had mounted from $25,000 to almost $49,000 without a single penny of additional deposit by the customer. The Colonial Trust Company had added almost $24,000 in interest to his original $25,000 deposit.

The old gentleman died shortly afterward. Two of his children now have on deposit, in the savings department here, more money than his original deposit.

Dr. Neal warns against Flies and Mosquitoes

Ohio State Director of Health says they are a menace to Summer Health and Cleanliness

CHARLES A. NEAL, M.D., Director of Health, State of Ohio, says: "The spread of certain communicable diseases by various insects has long been recognized in Public Health work. The spread of malaria fever and yellow fever by certain breeds of mosquitoes, as well as the spread of typhoid fever, infantile diarrhea and other forms of intestinal disturbances by the common house fly has been definitely proven. Any efforts to exclude these pests from homes is to be encouraged."

"A little insect but a great spreader of disease," says the U. S. Public Health Service, speaking of the common house fly. "Thousands of people die every year from diseases transmitted by flies!"

There is no such thing as a clean fly. Every fly is born in filth and spreads millions of germs over everything it touches—hands, face and food. Flies are known carriers of disease. Kill flies. Kill all of them.

Do not wait until flies become annoying. Kill every single fly you see. One fly, left alive, may multiply to 1,500,000,000 flies in four months! Now that there is an easy way to get rid of all insects, there is no excuse for suffering from them.

Kill flies for the babies' and children's sake. Health investigations have proved there is twice as much sickness among babies in homes where flies and dirt abound, as in clean and flyless homes. Mosquitoes, too, are winged torturers. No one is safe from the blood-sucking bite of the mosquito. Kill mosquitoes—all of them.

IMPORTANT
For best results, follow the directions for the various uses of Flit contained on every Flit can. Flit is best applied with the handy Flit sprayer.

Your comfort, cleanliness, health, sometimes life itself, depend upon a constant warfare against flies, mosquitoes and other household insects.

There is no excuse for tolerating flies and mosquitoes today, when it is so easy to kill every last one with Flit. Flit is the ideal insect-killer. Although Flit has a greater percentage of insect-killing ingredients, and is deadly to all household insects, it is perfectly harmless to people and can be freely and safely used in any home. Its vapors will not stain. Flit is guaranteed to work or money back. Flit is not made to sell at a low price, but is made to a high standard of service and uniform quality. On account of its many superior features, refuse substitutes and insist on the original, genuine Flit—the World's Largest Selling Insecticide. More for the money in the quart size.

Wilkins Pictures Graf's Journey Across Sea

in and the whole passenger group made one big noisy party.

Some who were card playing stayed their play at times to join a chorus. Some songsters perambulated giving advice to players. As night drew on the songs lost tunefulness but gained in volume and Dr. Eckner confided to me that the next morning he had to put cotton wool in his ears in order to get a little sleep. By 1 a. m. stillness reigned. It was the first night on board that we had an opportunity to get an uninterrupted sleep.

All slept soundly. After an early breakfast Saturday morning we passed a long uninterrupted day. Most of the passengers occupied themselves by taking stock of their surroundings—there was really not time before. The cabins have two berths, the top one folds up when not in use. There are life belts conspicuously displayed. We have not had time to appreciate the luxury of the saloon, which is about 18 feet long, 14 feet wide and seven feet six inches high. In it there are 21 richly upholstered chairs surrounding four tables. Flowers decorate the tables and the four large bay windows. Forward of the saloon is the wireless room and the pantry and in front again is the control room. With amazing good nature the officers allow the passengers, when all is clear, to stroll in and out the bridge, a privilege every one takes advantage of and enjoys, but one which I personally, if an officer on board, would not feel inclined to grant.

Along the Catwalk

At the rear of the saloon car and cabins shielded by a door is a ladder leading to the catwalk that extends from stem to stern of the ship. On both sides along this runway are slung the various stores and equipment, the officers' mess and quarters, crews' hammocks and some beds slung in curtained cubicles.

Food, wine, water, gasoline and engine oils are suspended from the girders in a variety of containers. There are two containers for the used water, which with all the refuse, is retained on board. The amount of cubic space within the envelope's capacity is tremendous and even in the lower fin just before the rudder, a part that looks ridiculously small when you see the airship in the air, there is room for many men.

One man actually stays there all the time the ship is in flight—he can control the rudder if necessary—a safety measure in case the wires from the remote controls in the control room forward should go wrong. The tours of inspection continued until dinner time, and then, after having a well served ample meal, a concert was started.

A Swiss merchant was appointed chairman and under his diplomatic guidance the international group of passengers including Germans, Americans, Swiss, British, French and Russian, enjoyed at least a congenial, if not dignified, happy evening.

Wonderful Trip

On Sunday morning there was much speculation as to the time of arrival at Lakehurst and when we finally did arrive the reception received was overwhelming. We had made a wonderful and pleasant trip covering more than 5,000 miles through the air. We had experienced much head wind even over the land and almost constantly over the Atlantic. From Gibraltar to the American coast is 3,460 miles. We covered the distance in 67 hours, 30 minutes, showing an average speed of 51.3 miles an hour.

Every one of the passengers was highly enthusiastic about airship travel and the courtesy received from Dr. Eckener and his officers. Every one on board would willingly use airships for every trip if airships were available.

Little Dirigible Also Battles Stiff Wind

ABERDEEN, Md., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—While the Graf Zeppelin was bucking stiff winds off the Atlantic coast a smaller dirigible was having its troubles over the proving grounds here. The ship, property of the Goodyear Rubber Company, arrived at the field from Akron, O., and attempted to land but the wind blew the ropes away from outstretched hands of the ground crew. The wind finally abated and the craft was brought to earth. The dirigible will remain at the proving grounds for two weeks, taking part in dedication ceremonies at several eastern airports.

LAW OFFICIAL ABSOLVED

follow today that seem promising, also."

Of Rosenberg, Maj. Adams had this to say:

"He killed himself because he was, as I said, suffering from hallucinations. He imagined that he had much to fear, which was not, in fact, the case."

Previously, Maj. Adams had announced a belief that Rosenberg had slain himself because he imagined that he had done an injury to his wife.

His later announcement so modified this explanation as practically to obliterate it.

Rosenberg's family vigorously denied that the district attorney had any such hallucinations concerning his wife, an attractive middle-aged woman, formerly of Pittsburgh.

There was no cause for such a state of mind in him and no indications that such a mental condition existed, the official's brother-in-law, Morris Azen, declared. A report that Rosenberg had called his wife and warned her that he was about to end his life was denied by Azen. This denial was borne out by the story of eye-witnesses to her arrival at her husband's office Saturday afternoon.

The news was broken to her by R. C. Bledsoe, former county detective and railroad police captain, recently held for court in a liquor case which involved Donohoe.

"I am sorry to have to say it, but your husband has just shot himself," Bledsoe blurted out as Mrs. Rosenberg stepped from her auto. Hysterical, she was taken into a physician's office, then home. Rosenberg's last official act was to attend a conference with Maj. Adams and his assistants in the Donohoe investigation. That was at 2 o'clock. At 3 o'clock he was found in his private office in the Cray Building, with a bullet wound in his head and a revolver limply held in his right hand.

His death was officially pronounced suicide. While Adams announced he was interested in anything that might belong to the political background of the Donohoe slaying, he indicated that his program was first to trace the slayers through tangible clues. To that end persons suspected of knowledge of the affair were being questioned, fingerprints were being studied and comparisons made of bullets and pistols. But the county, whipped to a high pitch of curiosity by the action of Rosenberg, was more interested in undercurrents at which the Donohoe killing hinted.

There was a report that one had shot himself. Another was said to have poisoned himself. Isaac (Ike) Friedberg, reputedly Rosenberg's best friend and a close associate of Donohoe, appeared on Main street early yesterday and traversed the length of the downtown section several times, insistently greeting every acquaintance. Then, after visiting the Rosenberg home, he departed to a camp near the summit for relaxation.

INVESTIGATING UNIONTOWN DEATHS

Major Adams, commandant of the Pennsylvania state constabulary, and an aid conferring with County Detective Downing, whose unofficial aid was the slain John Donohoe, and Coroner Baltz, Fayette County. They are investigating Donohoe's slaying and for a time turned their attention to the death of District Attorney Nicholas W. Rosenberg, pronounced suicide.

Uniontown Church People Demand 'Housecleaning'

By AL GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 5.—Demand for a "thorough housecleaning" in Fayette County loomed today as the solid citizenry rallied to the call to arms voiced yesterday by the Rev. Burr R. McKnight, former Pittsburgh minister, in his sermon in the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church.

"We feel very much displeased at circumstances that have arisen in the slaying of John Donohoe and apparent revelations of the existence of a murderous gang," he declared. "We are indignant over the reflection on the moral caliber of our community and we must unite to bring matters to a head and precipitate a thorough housecleaning."

Donohoe's slaying and the melodramatic climax in the suicide of District Attorney Nicholas W. Rosenberg in the midst of a joint state and county investigation was on the lips of everyone.

Main street throbbed—tense with expectancy. "What next?" was the question on every hand. Rumors were rampant. From somewhere came a story that another prominent citizen had attempted suicide. Before the news had traversed the length of Main street it was met by another and equally persistent rumor that a former county official had met similar fate. Both were officially denied within a few minutes of their beginning, but such delicious morsels of Sunday morning gossip could not be cast aside so easily and they were still going the rounds at a late hour last night.

In the Third Presbyterian Church, the Rev. E. A. Hodil spoke apropos of conditions actually said to exist here and urged his hearers to combat the foes of law and order to their utmost.

HOLD BASEBALL MAN IN KILLING

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Samuel (Red) Crane, 34, of this city, major and minor league baseball player whose diamond career has carried him into all sections of the country, was held today on a charge of murder in default of bond.

Crane surrendered to local police yesterday and was held in connection with the slaying of Jack Oren, 28, of this city, and the serious wounding of Miss Della Lyter, 26, also of this city, in a hotel sitting room here Saturday night.

According to police, Crane shot Oren and the girl while under the influence of liquor. Two hours after the shooting Crane went to police headquarters and surrendered with the explanation, "I'm told I shot a man."

C. H. Lyter, father of the girl, informed police that Della had known Crane and Oren well and had, at various times, quarreled with both. It was after a quarrel with Oren that she met Crane, he said, and then after differences with Crane that she resumed her friendship with Oren. The latter development, police believe, aroused Crane to the jealous frenzy which led to the double shooting.

Farmer, 83, Dies, Four Brothers, Sisters Living

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 5.—Jesse Thomas, 83, Greene County farmer, who resided near Oak Forest, is survived by brothers and sisters whose ages ranged from 77 to 87 years. They are Harriett Thomas, 87; Nathaniel, 80, and Frank, 85, of Oak Forest, and Asa, 77, of Washington. The five are children of the William and Julia Stewart Thomas, pioneer Greene County residents.

Our Lady of Snows Feast Celebrated

In fulfillment of a promise made to the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, the feast of Our Lady of the Snows is being observed today with special ceremonies. Our Lady of the Snows takes her name from the legend that the Virgin Mary caused snow to fall on a hill in Rome on August 5 during the pontificate of Pope Liberius and directed that a church be built there. Father Sapora celebrated the mass today in the absence of Father Cox.

RIVAL BLAMED IN SHOOTING

County detectives today were seeking George (Buck) Johnson, Negro, of 609 Highland avenue, Coraopolis, who, they said, laid in wait last night and shot down his rival as he emerged from the home of Rose Harris, Negro, 622½ Highland avenue.

The wounded Negro, Lelard Bunton, 38, of 634½ Highland avenue, is in the Presbyterian Hospital with a bullet in his spine and another in his hip. His condition is critical. He told detectives he had been warned by Johnson to stay away from the Harris girl's home and that he recognized Johnson as his assailant. The assistant leaped into an automobile and fled following the shooting, detectives said.

Army Aviator Dies After Long Illness

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 5.—Otto Paul Berger, 28, an Army aviator who had been stationed at Detroit since his return from Honolulu, died at Memorial Hospital. He had been an invalid for some time. Pilot Berger was a brother of Mrs. Fred Smith, of Pittsburgh.

CANDY POISON CASE SOLVED

OTTAWA, Kan., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Ray Pennebaker, 22, an Iowa tenant farmer, confessed to officers he had put poison in candy which caused the death of his 6-year-old niece, Elva Irene Barnes.

Pennebaker gave the candy to his 19-year-old bride last week when she left their home at Diagonal, Ia., to visit her sister, Mrs. C. C. Barnes, living near here.

Mrs. Pennebaker forgot about the candy until she reached her sister's home where she divided it among Mrs. Barnes' children. After eating a portion of the candy Elva Irene died and her seven-year-old brother, Gordon, became seriously ill.

The young woman said her husband told her to eat the candy and think of him on the trip.

The Pennebakers were married in June in Bedford, Ia. He was arrested and brought here where he is held on a murder charge. He also is charged with attempting to poison his wife.

In 1927 Pennebaker's first wife died five months after their wedding under circumstances which caused an investigation, but no evidence was developed against the farmer.

The Holsinger child was touring with his grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Phillips, 60; Mrs. Leona Phillips, 38; William Phillips, 19, and Thelma Porter, 19. He was hurled through the windshield and his jugular vein slashed. He died from loss of blood. The other occupants are in the Ohio Valley Hospital here.

Comet Discovered By Amateur in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—An amateur astronomer named Forbes at Rondebosch, in the environs of Capetown, has discovered a new comet.

Shortly after his discovery he informed Doctor Wood, the Union government astronomer at the Johannesburg observatory. He happened to be entertaining a party consisting of Sir Frank Dyson, royal astronomer, and 32 other scientists. Their telescopes were turned immediately on the part of the sky where the comet was supposed to exist and photographs taken which, it was reported here, confirmed its presence.

TRAPPED IN CAR, BURNS FATAL

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 5.—When the automobile of George W. Heckathorn, 27, of Neshannock Township, crashed into a street car operated by R. O. Lindsey on Gardner avenue viaduct, the gasoline tank of the automobile exploded and the automobile was destroyed.

Heckathorn was dead when removed from the ruins of the automobile after firemen extinguished the flames, having sustained a fractured skull and being terribly burned. His companion, Louis Smith, 18, was in a critical condition in the Shenango Valley Hospital as a result of burns and injuries of the head. He was removed from the car by bystanders and the motormen of the street car before the flames were extinguished. His recovery is doubtful.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Give Milk as Food, Not as a Beverage

NOT long ago I happened to be in conversation with two young mothers. They asked many questions, so I asked a few. I inquired of each how much water she gave her baby.

DR. COPELAND

One of the young women seemed horrified at the idea of giving water to a baby. "Why," she said, "milk and orange juice contain all the water required." Frankly, I do not agree with this dear mother, but do share the view of the other, who said she gives her baby water several times a day.

It is too common a belief that milk is a beverage alone. In a sense it is, but I wish to impress upon everybody that milk is in reality a food and one of the most valuable of all foods. Its great place in the human dietary is due to the vital food elements it contains. It must not be regarded as merely a thirst destroyer.

In certain age groups milk is almost as essential as air. It is conspicuous for its digestibility. It contains the building and repair materials. It possesses the required salts and vitamins.

While milk contains a large percentage of water, its use does not do away with the necessity of giving water in addition. Neither does the giving of orange, prune or tomato juice, supply the necessary quantity of water.

In my opinion every baby should have water between its feedings. It must be pure water, made so by boiling and cooling.

Without water the intestines and kidneys are not flushed properly. As a result of the failure to remove waste the baby is not sweet. There is a sour smell. The urine is high-colored and irritating. It may produce scalding of the buttocks and surrounding parts.

The lack of water results in constipation. There must be an abundance of fluid to dissolve all the waste products and help to carry them away from the body.

The omission of water from the dietary places unfair labor upon the kidneys. Their work is sadly interfered with if the urine is scanty and concentrated. Continual neglect may cause kidney trouble and other serious conditions.

Nobody need be afraid of pure water. It is necessary to infant health, it is vital to adult health. Try the magic of frequent drinks of water. Many a crying baby will become quiet and happy if given a drink. Even colic will disappear if a little warm water is given.

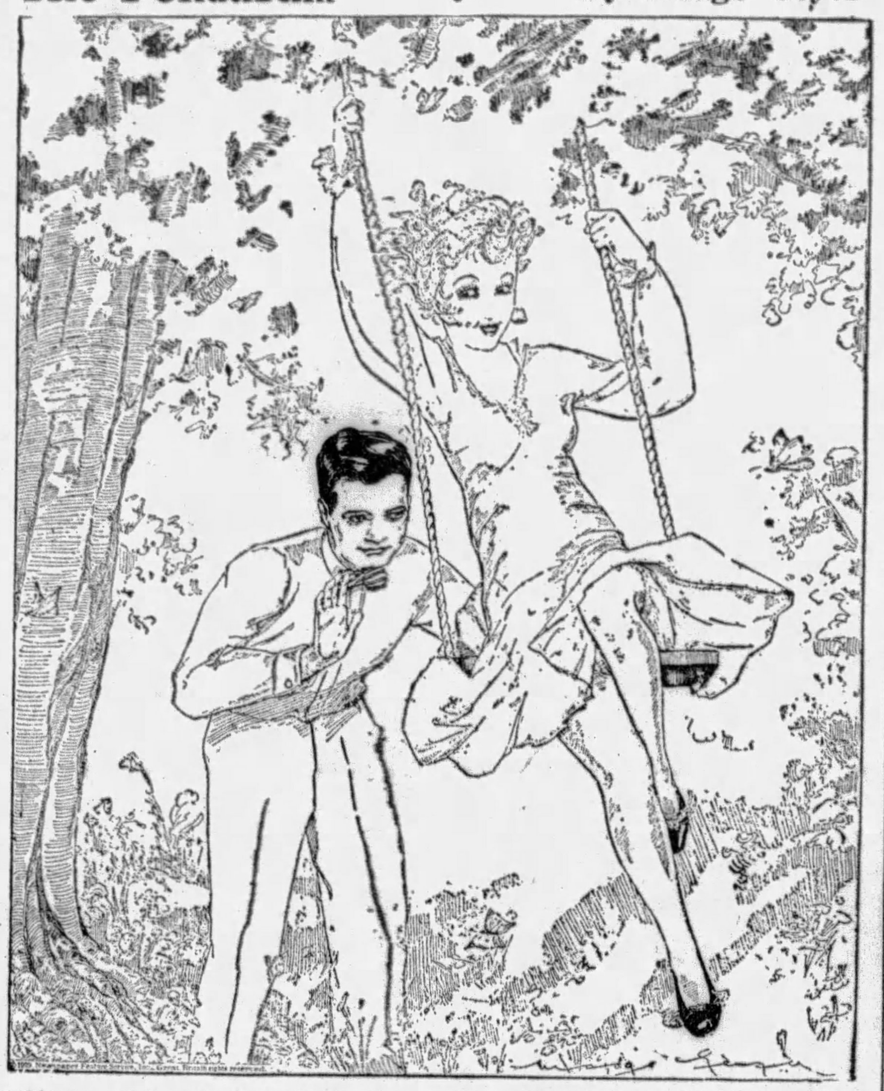
The Pendulum -:- By Madge Geyer



LIKE the pendulum of a clock, the old swing goes back and forth. Only it's propelled by Love instead of a lot of wheels and springs and whatnots. And each way it goes ticks off another happy second in the lives of these two who still cling to the childish toy under the old apple tree.

Just as the pendulum ticks off the hours, so does the swing mark each milepost in this game of love. When they were children it was their favorite pastime. When they were older, here she dreamed her dreams of romance and he teased and plagued her until she almost hated him.

But now that they know what Love is, they go to their old playmate and let the swing see their happiness, and tick off the hours in the swing's embrace toward the goal of Happiness and Love.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Noel's Appeal for Madge's Help Arouses Her Sympathy.

I PASSED Noel Veritzen's appeal over to Lillian as soon as I had read it, for there was nothing in the note which gave any inkling of the reason for his desperate need of advice. I was sure, however, that his betrothal to the Princess Olina, which Mary had overheard and related to me, was the quandary which he was facing.

Lillian read the note through, and then looked at me with eyes that held amusement and compassion.

"The poor lad!" she said. "That touch of having no one of whom to ask advice save you ought to be read to old Phil to the tempo of a blacksnake whip around his ankles. The boy has no close woman relative, has he? I never heard of any."

"His mother is dead," I returned, "and I always have understood that he is an only child, although I do not believe that either Noel or his father ever said so."

"Phil wouldn't," Lillian nodded. "That old lad put a lock on his mouth when he was about sixteen and hid the key in a safety deposit box. The only person I've ever known to hear him talk on anything pertaining to his history is yourself. He sure dished you a plentiful helping that time when he told you about his early romance with Queen Olga, Olina's mother, and that he himself was a left-handed cousin of the King of Transvania. I've always been most flattered that he gave you permission to pass along the dope to me, although I'd like to iron him out flat for planning so outlandish a thing as the marriage of his son to Queen Olga's daughter. But all this isn't buttering any parsnips for Noel. Of course you're going to send a 'yes' back by Jerry Ticer. I'll drive you over to Bridgehampton, and when you are ready to have me meet you there again give me a ring from wherever you're dining and Harry and I will run over for you."

She picked up the note and glanced over it again.

"Isn't this precious?" she asked. "'I do not want to come to the house—for reasons—' 'Reasons,' of course, spelling Mary in capital letters. Do you suppose he knows yet—"

"That Mary and Georges are engaged?" I finished for her. "No, how could he? It was only this afternoon that it happened, and Mary is waiting only until Georges gets back to his hotel to telephone him that she wishes him to tell nobody until she sees him again."

"Well!" Lillian fixed her eyes upon me. "Are you going to tell Noel about it?"

"How can I?" I countered. "Of course they didn't swear me to secrecy, or even ask me to keep it to myself. But Mary's one thought is to keep it from Olina, until Georges formally announces it at this little dinner he is planning for the four young people, and—"

"The distinguished patron and patroness," Lillian finished with a sly grin at me. "But let me tell you something that isn't a lullaby. There is a time for Quixotism, and there also is a time for letting the windmills slide, and if you let that boy Noel go unprepared to that dinner and let him hear Mary's betrothal announced without any time to steel his nerves for the announcement, I'm off you for life. He may be going to announce his own to Olina—I agree with the theory Harry propounded a few minutes ago—but that doesn't alter the fact that he's far too much in love with Mary to have her betrothal announcement hurled at him without his being prepared for it."

"I know you're right," I said slowly, "but—"

"But me no buts," she said. "Promise me you'll tell him before he hears it from a less kindly source."

"I promise," I said, knowing the essential justice of her mandate, though dubious as to the ethical points involved, and then I went to my own room and scribbled a hasty line to Noel Veritzen.

"I shall be at the Bridgehampton station an hour from now," I wrote, "and I will be very glad to dine with you and to help you in any way I can."

I signed it, folded the note into an envelope which I addressed and took down to the barn where I gave it into Jerry Ticer's hands with the injunction to deliver it immediately. As I hurried back into the house to change my gown and shoes for my little outing, I met Mary coming down the stairs.

"I've been looking for you," she said. "George just telephoned and he hasn't told anybody yet, nor won't until I give him permission. But he wants to take me to dinner tonight and asks if you will chaperone us?"

"I can't possibly do that tonight, Mary," I said, "for I have an engagement for dinner myself. But you can tell George that I will relax the rules this once and let you go to dinner with him unchaperoned. We must permit some royal latitude to a possible future queen, you know."

She gave a wry little smile, then seized my arm.

"Auntie Madge!" she said. "I must see Noel tonight or tomorrow. Can you arrange it for me?"

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A COOL AND DAINTY FROCK FOR A TINY TOT.

Cotton print in lavender on a white ground is pictured in this little model. Bows of lavender ribbon trim the shoulders and match the lavender piping at neck and armscye edges. Yellow organdy, pale blue taffeta or pink crepe de chine are suggested for this dainty style. Chintz combining red, blue and yellow, would be very attractive. The dress hangs straight from the shoulder, with gathered fulness in back and front at the neck edge.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 1, 2 and 3 years. To make a 2-year size will require 1¼ yards of 32-inch material. To finish neck and armscye edges with bias binding will require 1½ yards 1½ inches wide. One yard of ribbon is required for bows on the shoulders as illustrated.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, August 6.

WITH the predominant place of Neptune, in conjunction with Luna, and as well in a benefic configuration with the planet Venus, by mutual aspect, this may prove to be a day of subtle and strange or eccentric experiences. In business these may take on a sinister aspect, menacing and undermining, but the personal aspects may assist to high ideals and attainments of an artistic or romantic nature.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of unusual, strange, subtle or eccentric developments, with business menaced by subtlety and craft, but with other affiliations feeling the impetus of fine ideals or aspirations.

A child born on this day may incline to the mysterious and subtle, with high aspirations and singular talents, but may also be prone to craft and intrigue in its more sordid relations.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Thanks for Hospitality.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A has been going to various places with a young man two or three times a week. In a discussion he claims that she has never thanked him for the good times and the hospitality that he has given her. She maintains that she didn't think that it was necessary to thank him every time that she went out with him.

B claims that she should thank him, and that she should not take it for granted that her "company" was enough, with no expression of thanks.

Since this discussion is hanging fire and since a great deal depends on your opinion, would you be so kind as to tell us what you think? And I thank you very much. E.

THE young gentleman and B have all the right on their side. The well-bred woman, of any age, thanks for hospitality, always, on every occasion that it is offered, and whether it is offered by a man or a woman. The idea of hospitality is the fundamental idea for which we thank. The girl who omits this expression of thanks has not the first principles of good manners or the "fine flower of courtesy." Her "company" is not enough—why should it be?—and even a queen would not figure an omission of manners in this way. For a girl to think that just accompanying a gentleman is enough of "thanks"—well, I never could follow this reasoning.

Fashion for Serving Rolls

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. A discussion has arisen as to the proper manner of serving rolls at the dinner table. My friends says wrap a roll in a napkin and place on bread plate alongside of each individual plate, whether the rolls are hot or cold. I think that they should be placed in the napkin only if they are served hot.

2. Is it also proper to serve a quantity of rolls on a tray in the center of the table? A. E.

ROLLS nowadays are never served rolled in a napkin. This sort of service went out with the individual vegetable dish that used to sit next to the dinner plate. And hot rolls especially would not be served in a napkin, since they would soil the napkin. The rolls are passed by the maid, if there is service, and if not, should be placed on the table for passing to the guests.

2. If there is no service, yes. But do not place the rolls in the center of the table. Place them near one of the ends of the table, or, better, have small trays, and place one at each end. Or have the plate of rolls on a near serving table, to be passed when wanted.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Light as Summer Love

WHEN a woman keeps too tight a grip on her husband or the steering wheel of her car, every other woman knows that she is not sure of her control.

As far as their clothes are concerned, there appear to be only two kinds of women—those at whom men never look, and those at whom they are shocked.

* * *

Lots of women refuse to wear wedding-rings, these days, because they are exponents of the New Optimism, and dislike to carry any painful reminders of life's serious side around with them.

HELEN ROWLAND

It shows nothing less than transcendent wifely devotion, for a woman to put the price of a new imported hat into a wedding-present for one of her husband's old flames.

Most famous men are remembered longer for their love-affairs and their follies than for their achievements. This is a sentimental old world—and it thinks a lot more of its great lovers than of its great leaders or its great statesmen.

* * *

Fortunately there is no inoculation against love, which will keep a man immune, forever—not even the vaccine of cynicism.

A man wants a different hat for every occasion, but when it comes to choosing a wife, he never despairs of finding one with the frivolous lightness of a summer straw, the pliancy of a soft felt, the durability and comfort of a sport cap, and the elegance and class of a silk top-hat.

* * *

A man doesn't see any harm in light love-making—so long as it doesn't lead to light housekeeping.

* * *

The first thing that a woman picks off a man's coat, after marriage, is his WINGS!

RCA introduces the "66"

RCA RADIOLA 66—RCA Super-Heterodyne with RCA Electro-Dynamic reproducer in rich cabinet. For house current (A.C.) operation. Magnifying station reader. Local-and-distance switch . . . $225 (less Radiotrons.)*

NEW—and still finer

at the unprecedented price of $225*

A still finer Radiola Super-Heterodyne—combined with the incomparable RCA Electro-Dynamic reproducer—in a handsome cabinet—equipped for "all-electric" operation from your wall socket—with a connection for an electric pick-up to reproduce phonograph records.

At $225 (less Radiotrons)—a price made possible by the great manufacturing resources of RCA—this superb instrument, without a peer in the radio art, is no longer a luxury to be enjoyed by a few fortunate owners. Receiving sets of comparable quality formerly cost from $500 to $1000—but they did not equal the new "66" in fidelity of tone, or simplicity of operation.

To improve the Radiola Super-Heterodyne is to gild the lily—but here is an expertly designed broadcast receiving instrument in which the amazingly efficient Super-Heterodyne circuit has been brought to a higher level of achievement.

RCA engineers have again added to the wonderful qualities of the Super-Heterodyne—finer sensitivity, more selectivity, a greater reserve of power for distant stations, and still richer tone quality—the greatest essential of a fine radio. The latest type of the RCA Electro-Dynamic reproducer is coupled with the new Super-Heterodyne—a combination that offers the utmost in radio realism—from a whisper to a brass band.

The new Radiola Super-Heterodyne 66 may be purchased from your RCA Radiola Dealer on the easy RCA Time Payment Plan.

Brooke Johns on Radio With Fairbanks Twins

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

GOOD evening, ladies and gentlemen.

You are listening to the Sun-Tele radio department broadcasting on a frequency of 180,000 readers.

Let us have silence, please, as we scan the radio timetable to report a few best bets of the air.

At 11:30 o'clock we shall turn the dial to WCAE for a novel "Warner Revue by Brooke Johns and the Fairbanks Twins." Perhaps you have heard of them. Mr. Johns receives 1,500 frogskins every week for making us like him. Most of us would be entirely satisfied just to scan those dollar bills for a lucky buck. It is said that the Fairbanks Twins were well paid for a little bit of harmony in the color movie drama, "On With the Show." Neither one can speak to as many people in a week as we can in a day, which gives us an edge—not in salary. You can see we're not jealous.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"

Our next feature reaches many thousand homes. It is Ripley's "Believe It or Not," a cartoon of the daily Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph which will be the basis of the WCAE Song Story at 7:45.

There's a brief pause while we scrutinize the Grand Opera program of WJAS at 8. "Pilgrims' Chorus" from "Tannhauser" will be a highlight. We shall listen.

"An Announcer's Life is Not a Happy One," WJAS at 7, sounds to us like a lament but maybe it's a dark cloud with a silver lining. We hope so.

We continue with the next feature . . .

For sometime we have wanted to give you a daily report of news happenings about the studios so

We Now Present

A bunch of little paragraphs designed to amuse (?) and inform you.

Stephen Leyshon, announcer, who departed for Salt Lake City to investigate a report that the Mormons had substituted Seth Parker's melodeon for the mammoth Tabernacle organ in the Monday night broadcasts over KDKA, has left Brigham Young's city with an easiness of mind and will sojourn along the western coastline this week. Studios of KFI, KGW and KNX will come under his gaze.

Cousin Lora has turned mermaid. From the beaches of Kennywood, the Willows, lakes and pools, she has imported a coat of dark tan which makes her look more like an Iroquois than a Scotch-Irish miss.

What pretty offices the WJAS folks have in the Law and Finance Building! Marcella Deverson, attractive secretary, showed a bit of feminine ingenuity Saturday by wearing a dark brown dress that matched harmoniously with the English oak desks.

Joe Villella, WCAE announcer, has dabbled in paints as well as wavelengths. He was staff artist of the Pitt Panther, Pennsylvania Motorist and several of his cartoons have been accepted by Judge.

"When Day is Done" for W. P. Whitmore, night operator at KDKA in the William Penn, he skips merrily to a bungalow at 220 Hastings street, where a new arrival has learned to say "Da, da." It's a girl and she has been named "Peggy Ann" after her mother.

band left and he and Sir Hubert Wilkins begins talking music.

Steering Explained

From 8 a. m. onward we are near Besancon. The wind is very strong and now and then we roll. That is only when we pass over uneven ground, and it is never continuous as on board the steamer.

Dr. Keip offers to take me to the control room where Dr. Eckener, Capt. Lehman, Capt. Fleming, Von Schiller and others direct the airship. They are very willing to explain to me how the steering is done. One wheel to keep direction, the other to keep from pointing up and down.

In the saloon, there are only two or three passengers. All the others have retired to their staterooms (scarcely anyone went to bed last night.) I did not wish to rest yet, but wanted to observe that famous Rhone valley in which the Zeppelin wandered for so many hours trying to return to Friedrichshafen.

Three or four of the passengers come in for breakfast. I sit down with Sir Hubert Wilkins, Count Mongelas, Capt. Von Schiller and Dr. Keip. They show me the weather map and teach me how we are avoiding the depressions which are marked in red for danger and going towards the good weather marked in blue.

Trees Like Moss

I cannot keep from looking down through the large windows. It is so fascinating. The forests and meadows have the aspect of those marine plants I saw once through a glass-bottomed boat around Catalina Island in the Pacific. The grass looks like green water and the trees like big moss. When we pass over cultivated parts, it looks like the designs of a modern cubic eccentric painter.

From the way the chickens run to shelter, with open wings, it is certain that they take the Zeppelin for a hawk.

At 10:20 a. m. Friday, Dr. Eckener comes in and sits down for a bit as one table is still set as from breakfast. We have arrived over Macon and from there start to go down the Rhone valley. I lean out the window. Ah! How lovely and pure the air. No dust, no smoke, no dirt. Apropos of smoke, some of the boys—they all look as happy as boys—especially Frank Nicholson, young American journalist, who was on board last trip and who waited for two months to make this trip, and Count Mongelas, pretend to smoke. Of course, smoking is forbidden on board. But they have with them imitation menthol-ated ivory cigarets that look quite real and little electric pocket flashlights just like a pocket lighter. They pretend to light their cigarets. There is a flash of light. Everybody is startled for a moment. It is amusing, they are so funny.

Sleep Comes Easily

Now the sun is shining and it is curious to watch a big fish following us. It is the shadow of the Zeppelin. We leave the Rhone on our left and go to Nimes. At last about 2 p. m., at about 1,000 meters altitude, we cross to the Mediterranean. The sailboats look like toys the children use on the lakes in city parks and the sea is blue. The Zeppelin goes over it smoothly. There is now no rolling at all.

At 4:30 p. m. we are still over the beautiful blue water and before long we will see Barcelona.

I have had a nice nap. How easy it is to sleep in the Zeppelin. You feel so comfortable and safe. No objectionable noise, only just a low droning of sweet running engines.

From 5 to 8 p. m., on August 1, it is still very fine weather on the Mediterranean and we continue to navigate smoothly, not very high above the water. I was surprised when waking from my nap to look out the window and see the water. Graf von Soden explains to me that we are following a mid-ocean course right through to Gibraltar as it is easier and allows us to fly low.

Dreams of Chopin

Of course I feel a little disappointed not seeing more of Spain. We were having tea when we heard that we would soon be passing by Mallorca Island. It is a very good compensation for not going over Spain. For I have dreamed many times of these islands. Each time my husband plays those famous works of Chopin they come to my mind, and in a moment we will see them.

Now we all rush to the windows. Cameras ready. My husband tells us how he had followed mentally Chopin's dreams, while playing and interpreting the beautiful Chopin works inspired by his sojourn on this island in the convent of Mallorca with George Sand.

Dr. Eckener comes in for tea at that moment and we chat about Chopin. He points out to us the town of Palma where the famous couple lived. We pass another island and after that only water everywhere.

The morning of August 2, about 3 or 4 o'clock, I get up and look out of the window of my stateroom. I see stars above and stars below. At least, it seems so. The waves breaking white in the moonlight give the impression of stars seen through a light mist. In the distance, other lights, lighthouses and house lights. We are passing Gibraltar and running into clouds. It is getting real dark again and I don't want to get dressed just yet. I am sleepy and it is very warm and comfortable in the cabin.

At 6 a. m. I awake. Over the Atlantic surely. We are flying very low as it is more economical and easier. The water looks very bright and much cooler than the Mediterranean.

The wind has been pretty strong and far from helping us this morning. But now it is calmer and the ocean is like a lake.

Calm Over Atlantic

It is now Friday afternoon. We are far out over the Atlantic since the wind calmed down. The grayish blue of the ocean is the same to the horizon. Not even a white flecked wave, not a ship to wave to. It is very still. We can hardly hear the motors, only a low, even sound, like the purring of a cat, and a little noise when the wireless machine is running. We visit one another in our staterooms and have the illusion that we are not moving at all. Yet our speed is 115 to 118 kilometers an hour.

We keep low, sometimes just skimming beneath the lower surface of the clouds, sometimes beside them. All at once Count Montgelas comes out of his room and says there's a ship.

Far away we see the steamer. What are people on board thinking of us, we wonder. And so the monotony of the sea is broken. But the very monotony of the hours is beautiful. Some decide to have a game of cards. Others write mail, to be thrown down on Santa Maria Island later. Tea is served as usual. We hear that land is in sight. We rush to the control room on the upper deck of the ship. The sun, setting directly in our course, blinds us. Dr. Eckener gives me a pair of green colored glasses and I see Island San Miguel far away. The excitement is great. We have not gone over land since leaving France. We don't want to go in to evening meal, but Dr. Eckener goes in and we follow reluctantly.

Land Once More

We have scarcely begun our dinner when, presto, here we are. The tables are deserted. It is too dark to take pictures. The island reminds me of Little Nemo of Wonderland. We fly so low that I thought we might touch the cliffs. The houses and fields (every inch is cultivated) look like a Chinese miniature garden. Great white clouds in the background seem to be running to meet us. Then like ghosts they are gone.

The mail bags are thrown. We wonder when they will reach Europe. We finish our meal, excited, content. Songs are coming from the American tables. We call one the Americans because four of the six there are from U. S. A.

We awoke on Saturday to find the sun shining brightly. The ocean's surface resembles moire silk tinted indigo blue by the sunshine. Suddenly we cross into a different condition, the surface of the sea ferments and clouds gather overhead. We are into wind again. Dr. Eckener walks to and fro in the control room, surrounded by a multitude of instruments. The passengers are very fond of peering in there and I even saw the cook in his high white cap bending over the chart and following the progress of the ship.

Monkeys Look Sad

Capt. Von Schiller agrees to take my husband and me to visit the interior of the airship. We go up a narrow stairway and see the duraluminum framework of the ship. Then we follow a passage that goes from one end of the ship to the other. Beside the runway are the dining rooms and sleeping quarters of the crew, in booth-like fashion. There are big bags of water, of oil and gasoline and the mail bags for America. The inside is well ventilated and we can see right through the bottom of the envelope. We see the grand piano and Mr. and Mrs. Monkey. They look so sad, and I will be glad when they get out of their cages.

Far back we get near the motors and we can hardly hear ourselves speak. But we scarcely hear the motors in the saloon.

Saturday night is the last night on board. We gather round the tables, singing and telling stories. Everybody is sending many radios.

I awakened at daybreak Sunday, too excited at the thought of reaching New York, to sleep. We reached Lakehurst while we were having our evening meal. But everyone was far too excited to eat.

It was glorious to see the fields and roads simply covered with motor cars that had brought people to welcome us and do honor to Dr. Eckener and his fine officers who have brought us safely through. They have been very kind to us and we have felt great confidence in them ever since we started.

I do hope that some day it will again be my privilege to travel on the Graf Zeppelin and I am sure that everyone who travels once will want to travel by airship every time.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Message in Her Palm

By DEMMA RAY OLDHAM

OLEANDA'S dark eyes sparkled. Her slender little white hands rummaged nervously through her purse, fingering for a coin, as she sat at the wicker table, directly opposite the Gypsy fortune teller, in the booth.

"Here it is," she said breathlessly, listening intently to the dark, thin lady with the red silk handkerchief wrapped softly about her head.

"Now hold ze coin tight in your hands while you make a good wish; it will all come to pass for nice ladee!"

Oleanda pressed the coin between her hands and closed her eyes; then meditated. Secretly she had made her wish. Then the Gypsy taking the coin, doubly assured her that it would "surely come to pass."

"What's 50 cents extra?" Oleanda whispered to herself, "when my wish will come true!" and she marveled at the thought of knowing the future for only a dollar, and the assurance that her wish would come true, for 50 cents extra.

On her way home, Oleanda was thinking of Marie, her office pal, who didn't believe in palmistry. She would make Marie's eyes bulge with excitement next day, when she could get a chance to tell her how the Gypsy described her past, unbelievably perfect.

But the wish—and it would come true. She had wished to meet her future husband before night. The Gypsy had described him as being tall, slender, dark eyes and very dark hair.

Oleanda watched every man she passed as she hurried down the street. She had never seen so many blondes before. She looked at her watch; it was exactly 6. Everybody in that little town came to the postoffice at 6.

When she walked through the door at the postoffice she saw a very dark man standing back in the corner reading a letter. "Oh there he is!" she murmured to herself—but how could she meet him? She stood for a moment watching him. He never looked up. She dropped her package on the floor and even this, failed to attract his attention.

"Have you the time, sir?"

"No," he gruffly replied, and went on reading.

Of course he wasn't the one; he was low and fat. How could she have been so stupid! Her lover was to be tall and slender. She hurried on home, her cheeks burning at her own stupidity.

As she turned the corner round the old theater, her heart almost quit beating! She stopped still, grabbed her throat with one hand, while her purse dropped to the walk. A tall, slender, good-looking brunet almost ran into her. She had never heard such a voice before as he said to her:

"Excuse me! I didn't mean to frighten you. My mind was a thousand miles away. We came darn near having a collision, didn't we?" He was looking straight into her face, smiling.

"Mine wasn't," piped Oleanda. "I was looking right at you—I was—hunting for you!"

"For me? A good-looking girl hunting for me?"

"Well—yes—I suppose so."

And they strolled down the walk together.

"Where do you live?"

Now she know he was interested.

"Six blocks east from the next corner. It isn't far; just a nice walk." Her voice was almost pleading and her countenance lit up with new hope when he asked:

"May I stick along?"

"Surely!" Every inch of her body was thrilled with joy. "I'd be ever so happy—and what's your name?"

Overby Evans," he smiled, and "What's yours?"

"Overby Evans!" she gasped. "Why, that's the very initials—O. E." Then she suddenly covered her mouth with her hand. "Oh, you asked me my name—well, it's Oleanda Harland."

When they reached the door he held her hands. She was simply charmed, as he looked straight into her face and in a low voice asked, "How about a date tonight?"

The light faded from her eyes and she looked at the floor. Her best dress, she was thinking, had been sent to the cleaner's and wouldn't be back until tomorrow, and Betty Gray had borrowed the pink one. Tomorrow night would be better; then she would have time to get to the beauty parlor and get a marcel and manicure. Then, with her best dress on, she would look keen! She had already won him and she must not lose him. She lifted her dark eyes to his, leaned closer against his strong arm and asked:

"How about tomorrow night?"

"Make it tonight," he insisted.

"Why?"

"My wife'll be here tomorrow night. We're putting on a play at the theater. She's my leading lady. I came on ahead to make some arrangements. You'll have to make it tonight," he begged.

Oleanda chilled. Her trembling knees could hardly hold her up. She staggered and caught hold of the door knob. As her heart beat high and her eyes glistened, she gasped:

"And . . . you're . . . you're . . . MARRIED?" But before he had time to answer she dashed inside and shut the door in his face.

Next day at the office, Marie confided: "Kid, let's go down after work and have our palms read. I've decided I want to try it once!"

Oleanda flared with indignation: "There's not a darned thing to fortune tellers Marie: I don't believe in 'em."

"IN EIGHT WEEKS I FOUND HEALTH IN NEW KONJOLA"

Carnegie Lady Lost Weight, Could Not Sleep — Then Freed of Kidney Trouble and Other Ills.

All who suffer from the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and from rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness, are urged to call on the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, and hear how Konjola sends its 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs, to the very source, the fount of the disease and cleanses and invigorates, paving the way for the return of new, glorious and lasting health. Is it not logical to believe that what Konjola has done for countless thousands of men and women it will do for you—for everyone? Hear the wonderful story of this wonderful medicine from the Konjola Man. He will tell you only the true, verified facts about Konjola. He does not have to make promises nor claims, for Konjola stands on a bed-rock foundation of triumphs and achievements. Hear of case after case like that of Mrs. Beatrice Walton, Paul Street and Glen Avenue, Carnegie, near Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"In eight weeks I found health in new Konjola. That is why I am so enthusiastic about this medicine. I hope that others will profit from the lesson my experience teaches.

"My health was in a pitiful condition. My system was rundown and I felt bad all the time. Lack of appetite made me weak and underweight. Loss of sleep made me tired and worn-out all the time. The weakness and disordered condition of my kidneys brought on severe pains across the small of my back. I tried medicines without end, even taking special treatments at a hospital, but to no avail. Daily I got worse and day and night I suffered. To say that I was discouraged is putting it mildly. I thought I would never see another well day.

"When hope was at the lowest ebb I heard about Konjola and the wonderful accomplishments of this medicine. Could it do anything for me? There was but one way to find out and so I secured several bottles. Now I am glad to indorse this medicine so that the world can understand why it is really the master medicine. In eight weeks Konjola made me well and happy again. In a month I gained four pounds. My appetite was improved, my system was cleansed, my kidneys were strengthened and all pains were swept away. I have greater strength and energy and actually feel like a different person. That is why I am enthusiastic about Konjola."

So it goes—the same old story of success wherever this medicine is known. It is said that no sufferer can afford not to give Konjola a trial. All this medicine asks is the chance to make you well.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's) Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

There is also a Konjola Man at Dow's Drug Store, Diamond and Smithfield — also Dow's Drug Store, 5939 Penn Avenue, East Liberty.

Sideway Glances at Those Who Are Prominent in Motion Picture Colony

RICH YOUNG MAN LIKES FILM GIRL SO WELL HE MAY BREAK INTO MOVIES

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 5.

LIFE is just one question after another. Take Lew Brown, of the W. K. Desylva, Brown & Henderson trio. Lew had to listen to a bim ask him: "What comes first when you compose a song, the words or the lyrics?" Now you know darn well that's no query for a gen'mun to listen to.

Hollywood is exactly like a faucet that is turned on. It drips scenic emotions at a studio umpty ump hours daily or nightly. But the faucet's still on, so it keeps dripping. If it's all dripped out, somebody turns on another faucet.

Which paragraphs us to Sharon Lynn and Clem Clark. Sharon is a lil' gurl who dances and sings and acts for Mr. Fox. Sharon went a-partying to the Hal Roach's house three weeks ago. There she met Mr. Clark. Mr. Clark hails from Shreveport, La. He has an awful lot of money, but folks still say he's a nice boy. About twenty-nine, to be accurate.

Sharon Lynn

He resembles Charlie Farrell but he isn't quite as tall.

Clem figured the titian-haired Sharon a hoop-de-da. He rushed her. Ergo, they were declared engaged. And it isn't so 'a-tall. Sharon was heard to opine they'd never reached the ring stage, nor would they advance to the altar crawl. But Clem is a persistent cuss. He takes Sharon sky-riding in his $20,000 airplane. He Man Fridays her yon and hither. He even has written to his mother come Hollywood-wards for good.

Intention Now To Sign Him Up

And what's more, a friend eased him into the Pathe studio only tother day and introduced him to one of the big shots. Said B. S. dated him for a screen test. They do be sayin' that Clem Clark photographed so good Pathe intends signing him up.

Wallie Beery plans to hit the clouds this week to Mexico City, a distance of 1,700 miles. Wallie calculates he'll make it in two hops of approximately six hours each. Which is right smart traveling. Al Cohn recollected an island, some miles off the mainland of Mexico, inhabited by Indians who are said to be cannibals. Legitimate cannibals. Years ago, when Al was running a newspaper down Arizona, a chap he knew organized a small expedition to the island. They never came back. Wallie reckons he'll keep right on flying. He's been in pictures long enough to respect cannibals.

Wallace Beery

Charlie Farrell has received a charming letter from a Mrs. Woodruff, of Philadelphia. Attached to the letter was a small snapshot of a little boy and an elderly lady. The little boy was Charlie, at the age of 6. The elderly lady was his grandmother, who passed away a year ago. Mrs. Woodruff was one of his first school teachers in Cape Cod. She explained in her letter that several nights previous to writing it she had dreamt of Charlie. The dream lingered. So she looked through her many, many pictures and found one of Charlie with his grandmother. She interpreted the dream to mean that he wanted it. She sent it. And Charlie was vastly pleased.

Screenalities And Formalities

Mary Lewis, former Ziegfeld Follies and Metropolitan Opera warbler, came to ye village with her husband some months ago. Her husband is Michael F. Bohnen, W. K. German singer. It looks as though Mary and Mr. Bohnen will return East Indian file, for Miss Lewis has filed divorce papers against him. . . . George Arless lunching with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hobart (Olive Tell) at ye Brown Derby. Mr. Arliss is slated to depart shortly, en route to England. . . . Fred Stone arrived in town Friday to spend a month with his friend, Will Rogers, on Will's gorgeous ranch in the Riviera section of Santa Monica's hills. Met Will at the Fox Westwood studio. He has a scrumptuous bungalow dressing room specially built for him. He'd just moved in. Um, toted his typewriter over that morn! Incidentally, he intends renting his bungalow to Mr. Fox when that worthy next visits ye colony. When Will left us, he was bound for a local newspaper office to hand in his daily stint. Yeah, Will's a newspaper person, too. . . . During the acts 'tother eve at the Writers' Club a chap with a flashlight kept bobbing into the aisle. "Say, what's wrong?" some one finally asked. "Nothing," he moaned. "I'm just looking for a story for Paul Whiteman." Latest reports indicate he didn't find it, so it looks as though Whiteman won't make a picture after all, despite the million dollars said to have been expended already. . . . And—that's all.

George Arliss

GIVEN CHANCE TO PAY CHECKS

Half a dozen merchants appeared against W. C. Weissgerber, 35, of Chicago, arraigned before Alderman John J. Verona today, on one charge of forgery and five charges of obtaining money under false pretense.

A five-day postponement was granted by Alderman Verona to give Weissgerber an opportunity to make restitution. He was arrested last week in Mt. Oliver by County Detective Michael R. Stabile.

His method of operation, according to Stabile, was to make a purchase of $3 and "discover" that he had slightly less than this amount in cash. He then presented a $12.50 check in each case drawn on the Potter Title and Trust Company and a card for identification describing himself as district manager for the McCoy Healthway Motor Company, 185 North Wabash avenue, Chicago.

Informations have been made against Weissgerber in two other aldermen's offices, Stabile said, and a court order was necessary to produce him at the hearing.

IN SAME PICTURE AGAIN

Dorothy Sebastian, Johnny Mack Brown and Kathlyn Williams, who were in "Our Dancing Daughters," rejoice at being united again in Greta Garbo's "The Single Standard."

MISSING RAIDER CLUE SOUGHT

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—A federal prohibition agent who disappeared early Saturday in a speed boat believed to have been used by rum runners was the object of a search on both sides of the border today.

The agent, Richard J. Sundlands, formerly of New York, was last seen putting out into the Detroit River in the boat with a man and woman taken into custody when the craft was seized. Walter S. Petty, acting collector of customs, said today he did not know whether Sundlands had met with violence or had disappeared voluntarily.

Sundlands and Milton Larson, a customs border patrol inspector, had seized the speed boat early Saturday and the latter had gone to report the seizure, leaving Sundlands to guard the boat and the man and woman who were found aboard. Larson, on his return, found Sundlands, the boat, and the two prisoners missing. Fishermen said they saw the trio put out into the river. Later Petty received reports that Sundlands had been slain, but a search along the river front failed to reveal a trace of him.

Customs records show that the speed boat was owned by Jack Heath and his wife, Maxine, but neither have been located.

Miss Anne Forrest To Return to Pitt

Anne Forrest, former leading woman of the George Sharp Players, will return to play a leading role when that company presents "Scrambled Wives" in the Pitt next week. Miss Forrest is a sister of Mabel Kreman, popular member of the Sharp organization. She was a member of the company in its two previous seasons. This week's attraction in the Pitt is the George M. Cohan comedy, "Whispering Friends."

30,000 SCOUTS AT SERVICE

Eagle Scout Clark B. Johnston, of Crafton, who has received many honors as an ideal Scout, is reporting details of the International jamboree at Birkenhead, England, for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. His cabled news reports will be published exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

By CLARK B. JOHNSTON
Eagle Scout
Correspondent, Sun-Telegraph

ARROWE PARK, Eng., Aug. 5.—Standing in a soaking rain, 30,000 Boy Scouts participated in the great open air service commemorating the approximate twenty-first anniversary of the Boy Scout movement.

Sir Baden-Powell tried to speak, but every time he raised his hands, the Scouts cheered so wildly that he gave up the attempt. All nations were represented at the service, at which the Archbishop of Canterbury made an address. Most significant was that German Boy Scouts stood beside those who were their enemies at the outbreak of the war on this date just 15 years ago. Not far away Cardinal Bourne spoke to the Catholic Boy Scouts.

The wolf cubs, who attended the jamboree for one day, have left. One little fellow said he thought the camp "quite ripping." The 4,000 cubs gave Sir Baden-Powell the great howl.

Four boys are in hospitals with broken arms as the result of slipping in the mud. We have had rain for a week. The ground is soaked, but we manage to keep our tents and each boy has been given four blankets. There is little sickness. Our boys are recovering from colds. Songs are heard in camp at all hours of the day.

Boy Scouts who are interested and all of the thousands in Western Pennsylvania are interested—in this biggest event in the history of Scoutdom will find exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph news written for them by one of their own Scouts. Scout Johnston will feature the news which he as a Scout knows will be of special interest to Scouts here. Watch the Sun-Telegraph for his articles.

Jesting With the Old Boy

"A JUG of wine, a loaf of bread and thou . ."?
A bit too mid-Victorian, Omar,
"Oh wilderness were Paradise enow . . ."
How careless with your smiles you are!
Your wooing is a trifle antiquated,
Your passions seek satiety in food,
Your theme construction is dilapidated
You hide philosophy behind a mood.
Buy yourself a saxaphone and learn
Just how to win a gal and how to can 'er,
Discard your platitudes and take a turn
At warbling in the Rudy Vallee manner.

—Hone.

PASH NOTE

Take it from W. Mathieson, when Greta Garbos are made John Gilbert will make them.

THE YID-ERATI

It is breathlessly reported that Childs will soon brighten the pages of newspapers with an advertisement containing a drawing of Broadway wags who dine daily at Childs on Eighth avenue, near Tenth street, and the huge caption will state: "Where Genius Meets Genius!"

As they are laughingly called.

FIRE DEPT. SLANGUAGE

THE aerial ladder is "The Big Stick" . . . When anyone is hurt (lacerations or a casualty) it is "A Broken Bone" . . . Hook and ladder men because of their spears are known as "Roman Knights" or "Shepherds" . . . Going to a fire is "Rolling In" . . . Going home is "Taking Up" . . . The hose is "the line" . . . An incendiary fire is a "touch-off" and a burned corpse is "a roast."

IMAGINE

It is Jack Osterman's complaint that there should be a law against stage doormen like the one at the Ziegfeld Theater "who is so strict he won't even let himself in!"

LET ME GROW LOVELY

Let me grow lovely, growing old—
So many fine things do;
Laces, and ivory, and gold;
And silks need not be new;
And there is healing in old trees,
Old streets a glamour hold;
Why may not I, as well as these,
Grow lovely, growing old?

—Karle Wilson Baker.

SMOTT CRECKS

PERHAPS George Jean Nathan's swiftest comeback happened when he asked a young man why he had so much gray hair. The lad replied: "From yessing too many no-girls, but how did you get yours?"

"From knowing too many yes-men!" was the retort.

OBSERVATION

You can't judge a bank by its appearance, any more than you can judge a book by its jacket. There's the First National Bank in New York, frixample, the stock of which recently tilted several hundred points overnight and increased the fortune of George F. Baker $17,000,000. Baker owning 20,000 shares.

Yet, the First National is unquestionably the shabbiest appearing bank in the financial sector. It is at W. 11 and Broadway. The place creaks with age. Few of the doors have knobs. Clerks of the Charles Dickens type are perched high on stools working over old fashioned ledgers and the elevators do not rise—they hop. However, the bank is one of the most powerful institutions in the world and apparently believes in huge dividends and not elegant upholstering.

THE MORNING MAIL

"Dear Winchell," passionately writes Fred Allen, of the Little Show, "I know an efficiency expert who found out that by eating four meals a day that you can finish the 18-Day Diet in two weeks. Incidentally, if the police commissioner could induce the people who operate the New York and New Jersey banks to run the speakeasies they'd automatically close themselves."

IN FEWER WORDS

THE Broadway revues have a lot of good ideas but they don't wear any clothes.

THINGS THAT BURN ME UP AND KNOCK ME COLD

The ah-ah who gets carbonated on your giggle water and then proceeds to give you a piece of his mind. . . . People who take the French pastry you hoped they'd leave for you. . . . The waiter who asks you if you want coffee just after you've said that you did. . . . The type who has been saving a "swell story for days" but cannot remember the names of those concerned. . . . Reckless taxi drivers who just miss Mack trucks and when you urge them to take it easy, say: "What'samatter, nervous?" . . . Delicatessens who name sandwiches after celebrities who are celebrated for getting into trouble, and, persons who hope you do not mind them trying on your new hat.

TITTER

G. J. N., a traveler, forwards a clipping from the Paris Herald's society column, which asserts: "Count and Countess Jules Brulatour, of New York, have left Paris for Biarritz."

Humph! We knew 'em when they were merely Mr. and Mrs. Hope Hampton.

MERCILESS TRUTH

PROVERB observed under the glass top of a Broadway merchant's desk: "Love is a disease that kills nobody, but one whose time has come."

SOTTO VOCE

Jos. Hyams: Five'll bring you 10 you're wrong.

J. P. Toohey: I swear!

Martha Fields: But I didn't say that, madam.

Dorothy Glenn: No can do.

BOSTONESE

The Boston Transcript not long ago reported Gilda Gray's specialty in this manner: "Miss Gray's Black Bottom is an exercise to conjure with. It leaves not one flexor inactive nor an extensor untroubled. It summons the gluteus maximus to prodigious devolutions, inspiring sympathetic tremors in the ischial region. Every digital tendon responds. Palmaris and biceps take up the story. The whole activity culminates in a profound disquiet of the pectoralis major."

In other words, Gilda flips a zippy hip.

Belgians Observe Invasion Date

BRUSSELS, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Tolling bells, sirens and salvos of artillery fire reminded Belgians of the fifteenth anniversary of the invasion of Belgium by the German Imperial armies after they had been refused permission to pass through the country to combat the French. The population observed a minute's silence throughout the country. Roman Catholic priests in many cases referred to the date in their sermons.

These Titles to Be Withdrawn August 31!

5c EACH Until Aug. 31, 1929

Drastic Change of Policy Compels Us to Withdraw 500 Little Blue Books—These 500 Titles Will Be Available at 5c Each Until Midnight of August 31, 1929—In Spite of the Fact That These 500 Titles Are Among the Most Popular Books in the Series, All 500 MUST Be WITHDRAWN to Make Room for the New Series We Are Working on—You Have Until Midnight of August 31, 1929, to Take Your Pick of These 500 "Best Sellers" at Only 5c per Book Postpaid to Any Address!

HERE ARE THE 500 BOOKS—YOUR CHOICE 5c EACH UNTIL AUGUST 31!

WHY THESE 500 LITTLE BLUE BOOKS ARE TO BE WITHDRAWN

DURING the past eight months we have made numerous publishing experiments. We have sold over 250,000 sets of High School Courses at $2.98 per set. Other signs indicate that we should at once switch over to strictly educational books—High School, Grade School, College and University Books. We shall, after August 31, 1929, practically become a correspondence school, issuing textbooks at 5c per copy. Meanwhile, here are 500 books which must be disposed of in order to release our presses and warehouses for the new program . . . This sale does NOT mean that we are discontinuing the Little Blue Books, of which we have sold over 100,000,000 in ten years. This sale simply means this: On August 31, 1929, we shall withdraw the 500 Little Blue Books listed on this page. This will still leave us over 1,000 different titles, of which a complete list will be sent with your order . . . Notice that these are POPULAR books—good sellers—many of them "best sellers." But we are changing our editorial policy, so they must be cleared out by midnight of August 31, 1929. This is your LAST CHANCE to get copies of the 500 books listed on this page.

WHAT IS A LITTLE BLUE BOOK?

A Little Blue Book is one of a series of pocket-sized books, of which the following 500 titles are to be withdrawn from the list on August 31, 1929. Each Little Blue Book is 3¼x5 inches in size, printed in 8-point type (about the size used in your daily newspaper) and is bound in neat blue card covers. The books run to 64 pages each, averaging 15,000 words of text per volume—certainly a fat nickel's worth. Examine this list of 500 titles and order immediately any you wish to secure, for after August 31, 1929, they will have been withdrawn.

HURRY!

YOU must hurry! The closing date is August 31, 1929. The postmark on your order will tell the story. Even if we receive your order a few days after the closing date, we guarantee to fill it if the postmark shows that it was mailed before midnight of August 31. So make your selection from the list of 500 titles, (above), use the order blank at the right and mail it without delay. The time is short. The end of the time allowed will be here before you realize it. DO NOT PUT THIS OFF! You will regret, later, that you did not seize this opportunity to buy these books at 5c each. Glance at the list of titles. You will be amazed at the number of desirable titles you will find. Grab this chance while you can! Surely there are 20 books you want—and probably 40 or 50 or even 100 or 200. Now is the time to get them at 5c each postpaid—save yourself money and, incidentally, treat yourself to a bunch of good books to read in your spare moments. Little Blue Books, because of their handy pocket size, are especially suitable for summer and vacation reading. The moment is opportune for buying up a supply of good reading for the approaching warm weather. DO IT NOW! If you wait you may forget! Act immediately! Hurry! Hurry! Hurry! Midnight of August 31 is the last moment you can mail your order!

How to Order

It's easy to order these books. Just find the titles you wish to buy, note the number in front of the title (in the list above) and put a circle around this number in the order form at the right. Put a circle around the number of each book you want. Then remit 5c each—just be sure to order at least 20 books ($1.00 worth) at one time, and as many more as you like at 5c each! We pay the postage to any address when you send remittance in full with your order.

C. O. D.: We will ship C. O. D. if you wish, but we do not pay postage on C. O. D. orders. Postage and C. O. D. fees are added to the cost of the books on C. O. D. shipments. C. O. D. orders cannot be sent to Canada or foreign countries; these must remit in advance by international postal money order or draft on any U. S. bank.

LEATHER COVER: A genuine black levant leather slip cover, holding one book at a time (book may be slipped in or out in a few seconds) may be secured by adding 50c to your remittance and checking the order blank accordingly.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Series of Tournaments Planned for Golf Players Here

DURING July we usually have a few events, but by August the summer exodus has robbed the city of so many society folks that much entertaining is out of the question. For the few women, though, who are staying on during August, or for those here for a week or so between visits to the various summer resorts, there are always sports and small, informal luncheons.

When one talks of sports nowadays, golf always comes first to our minds. And the various country clubs are the scene of many an interesting match.

Throughout July the Allegheny Country Club offered a variety of golf competitions and contests, but in August none is scheduled. But on September 24 when everyone will be back in town, the club will be the scene of golfing for the vice president's trophy, and on September 28 there'll be a putting contest, followed by a tea on the piazza of the clubhouse.

SOME of the other country clubs, though, will fill the August gap for enthusiasts. On Thursday the women will play in a one-day medal contest at the Montour Heights Country Club. And on Tuesday, August 13, there'll be a similar contest at the Westmoreland Country Club. The Butler Country Club has a one-day medal competition set for August 23; the Highland Country Club for August 27. On September 6 a one-day medal contest will be played at the Fox Chapel Golf Club. And the seventh annual championship will be played at the Oakmont Country Club on Monday to Friday, September 9 to 14. The annual meeting of the Women's Golf Association, which will conclude women's golfing here for the season, will be held on Friday, October 11, at the Pittsburgh Field Club.

AND now we've heard of the thirty-ninth debutante of the season. We surely are nearing the list of 40 about which we heard so many rumors early in the spring.

A western society editor referred to the debutantes as a bouquet of buds; I begin to feel that we are going to have a whole conservatory.

The thirty-ninth debutante is Jane Arnold Sloan, daughter of the Andrew E. Sloans, of Moorhead place. Her mother will present her to society at a buffet luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club the afternoon of December 21. Jane is studying at Westover, but she'll be home for the Thanksgiving and Yuletide debutante entertainments.

MRS. HARRY DARLINGTON, who is spending the summer at Watch Hill, varies her sojourn there with many visits to New York and to Sewickley, too. She is now at the Ambassador in New York for a few days on her way back to the Rhode Island resort after being home for a short visit.

Her flowers were yellow tea roses. Roger M. Brown was his brother's best man. Following the wedding was a dinner. After September 1 Mr. and Mrs. Brown will be at home in Akron. DOG MAKES WAY EASY FOR THIEF

"Laddie," an Irish terrier owned by George F. Boocock, was partly responsible for the robbery of $3,000 worth of jewelry from the home of its master Sunday.

While Mr. and Mrs. Boocock visited the Dormont park to give "Laddie" his daily 15-minute exercise, a well-dressed burglar visited the Boocock home, 233 Beverly road, and stole the jewelry from a second floor bedroom. The loot consisted of a platinum mounted diamond ring, worth $2,300; a wedding ring of 12 diamonds; a platinum pendant with a diamond center; a gold bar pin, and a gold ring with four sapphires. Nothing else was missing, Mrs. Boocock said.

Mt. Lebanon police learned from a neighbor that the man entered the house through the garage after his ring at the front door had gone unanswered.

County detectives were notified.

Equity, Producers Keep Plans Secret

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Secrecy veiled the plans of motion picture producers and representatives of the Actors' Equity Association, to meet here today to resume their negotiations for a settlement of differences arising out of the union's efforts to bring about a closed shop in the talking motion picture studios. Neither side would reveal the meeting place nor the hour of the scheduled conference.

Organized producers announced Saturday that 58 additional actors had signed "standard form" contracts—the type opposed by Equity.

U. S. Cruiser Quota Far Below Defense Need, Britain Leads

liminary negotiations are proceeding with the British for a conference on reduction. The total American tonnage when the six ships are completed will be 155,000.

British Lead With 64

As against this the British have 64 modern cruisers with a tonnage of 397,140. The Japanese have 33 with a tonnage of 213,955.

To reach anything approximating a parity, according to the Navy General Board opinion the United States would require 43 modern cruisers, unless the British and Japanese are willing to sink enough cruiser tonnage to bring them down to the American level—which is not probable.

The following simplified summary of the situation that confronts the United States was dictated by a high executive officer at the Navy Department in Washington:

Before discussing cruisers in detail, it would be well to explain that these are vessels of from 3,000 to 10,000 tons displacement, generally of high speed, large cruising radius, mounting six-inch to eight-inch guns, the amount of armor depending upon how the designer allocates his allowable tonnage between boilers, engines, guns and armor.

Enemy of Destroyers

Cruisers, because of their superior armament and speed (in an average sea), can destroy destroyers with impunity unless they are protected by light cruisers.

With an equal number of battleships, the fleet most effectively supported by light cruisers will win the day. The greatest menace to the submarine is the destroyer; the greatest menace to the destroyer is the cruiser; the greatest menace to the capital ship other than the guns of an opposing capital ship, is the torpedo. The torpedo is the natural weapon of the destroyer, and, while destroyers constitute our one present element of naval superiority, that superiority will vanish unless the destroyer attacked is supported by a cruiser force sufficiently strong to beat down the enemy opposition and open the way for the destroyer attacked.

Old Ship Outclassed

The most effective screening of a main body during a fleet movement is through the cruiser. Secrecy regarding location, composition, formation, course, speed, etc., is of vital importance to a fleet in the accomplishment of its mission. Secrecy can be maintained only by denying sight of the fleet to enemy forces. Sight of the fleet can be denied enemy ships only with ships of sufficient speed and offensive power to drive off or destroy the enemy observing vessel.

Clearing the sea of enemy raiders can best be performed by vessels of cruiser type. It may be remembered that during the World War it took 100 British vessels operating for several months to remove the German raiders from the sea. Meanwhile these raiders destroyed a tremendous amount of Allied commerce and seriously interfered with the flow of war material to the British Isles and the Allies. The tremendous influence that the numerous cruisers which might be opposed to us in war would have on our commerce may be readily visualized.

Naturally the destruction of enemy raiders is the best protection for our own commerce. During the World War we were required to place our merchant vessels, transports and supply ships in convoys to guard them against hostile raiders. We had available for escort duty not only our destroyers, but a large number of armed cruisers and old battleships. These old battleships have been scrapped and the cruisers have been so outclassed by modern cruisers, they would no longer answer the purpose.

National Defense Basis

One of our greatest assets are the destroyers of the fleet. These destroyers are relatively helpless against the light cruiser, so in order to utilize our superior destroyer tonnage, it is important that we should be able to protect our destroyers against the light cruisers of other powers.

The number of cruisers required by the United States is based primarily upon the necessity for a properly constituted fleet adequate for national defense. Our fleet, with its necessary auxiliaries occupies when it moves at sea, an area not less than 30 miles in diameter. During the movements it will be necessary to guard the fleet against surprise attack and to guard the outer part of the formation from any vessel or vessels seeking to penetrate the formation for information or attack. The best way to guard against surprise is by scouting beyond the actual area occupied by the fleet. With a limited number of scouting vessels it is only possible to scout through a comparatively narrow band through which the fleets expects to pass. The usual method is to send vessels 200 to 500 miles in advance of the fleet and along a line of a minimum length of 250 miles. To cover this line the minimum number of 10 cruisers will be necessary. There is required in the fleet formation itself vessels capable of resisting beyond the outer edge of the fleet formation any vessels that seek to force their way into the formation either for attack or observation. The minimum number of vessels required for this particular function is eight. Attacks upon the fleet are liable to be made at any time by groups of enemy cruisers. It is therefore desirable that there be assembled in a central position in the formation a striking group of cruisers ready to oppose an attack coming from any direction and this striking group should number at least eight. This gives a total of 26 cruisers required by the fleet in an overseas expedition. If the fleet moves to distant waters, it will never be practicable to take with it all of its cruiser strength. It will be necessary to leave cruisers at home in readiness to drive off enemy raiders; to guard shipping at focal points and to protect our sea-borne commerce, outside the area of active hostilities. It will never be satisfactory to have less than six cruisers for this service in operative condition.

Minimum Needs

In the ocean, where the principal operations are not, it would never be satisfactory to have less than three cruisers. This then takes a total of nine cruisers for focal points. In addition to guarding the focal points, it will be necessary to guard convoys. There will never be enough cruisers to perform this task satisfactorily, but an absolute minimum number of six will be necessary. At least two cruisers are necessary for flagships of the destroyer squadrons in the Pacific and Atlantic respectively. The minimum cruiser requirements then for the United States are taken as:

Fleet	26
Focal points	9
Convoys	6
Destroyer squadrons, flagships.	2
Total	43

U. S. Has 10, Building 8

Leaving aside the second line cruisers (over effective age of 20 years) and dealing only with the modern first line cruisers, the United States has already completed 10 cruisers with an aggregate tonnage of 75,000 tons, and is building eight cruisers aggreating 80,000 tons, which gives us upon completion of these cruisers, 18 aggregating 155,000 tons. Great Britain has 303,940 tons built; is building eight aggregating 76,600 tons, and has appropriated for two aggregating 16,600 tons, or a total of 64, aggregating 397,140 tons.

Japan has compppleted 26 cruisers aggregating 143,955 tons; is building six aggregating 60,000 tons, and has appropriated for one aggregating 10,000 tons, which will give her 33 cruisers aggregating 213,955 tons.

To facilitate the comparison, the following figures are reiterated. Upon the completion of the present programs, strengths will be as follows:

	No.	Total Ton.
United States	18	155,000
Great Britain	64	397,140
Japan	33	213,955

The above tonnage of Great Britain includes the Yarmouth of 5,250 tons and the Melbourne of 5,400 tons, both to be scrapped.

In addition to the 64 cruisers which Great Britain has, she has authorized three cruisers of a total estimated tonnage of 26,600 tons, to be laid down in 1929. These have been temporarily held up.

Our fleet sailed for southern waters for maneuvers on the eighth of January. At that time only four of our 10 cruisers were able to accompany the fleet. The disposition of the total 10 was as follows:

Three were in China.

One in Europe.

Two are acting as flagships for destroyer squadrons, which leaves only four light cruisers for duty as such for the United States fleet.

FLIER KILLED AS SHIP EXPLODES

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—An airplane piloted by Virgil Cline, of San Jose, Cal., exploded 4,000 feet above the Mojave desert near here yesterday, tearing the flier and his craft to bits.

A bolt of lightning was believed to have struck the plane's gasoline tank. A thunderstorm, rare in that part of the country, was raging at the time of the crash.

DELIVERING CRAFT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Virgil Cline, young aviator who was killed by the explosion of his airplane in a thunderstorm over the Mojave desert east of here, was flying a specially constructed Lockheed monoplane from the factory here to Chicago.

Lockheed officials said Cline, who began work for the company only two weeks ago, was to deliver the plane to its owner, William Brock, noted flier, who recently purchased it for $20,000. It was said Brock planned to make an as yet unannounced long-distance flight.

English Peer Dead From Window Fall

Tipping "Insults" Pullman Porters

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Believe it or not, every time you tip a Pullman porter, you insult him.

That was declared today at a mass meeting of porters here.

The acceptance of gratuities, speakers said, is conductive to an attitude of servility, and tends to create an inferiority complex on the part of the recipient.

And another thing. Since the tipping evil has been condemned the porters assert they can't get along on their per cent wage of $77.50 a month.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, addressed the meeting.

Man Slain With Ax, 3 in Family Held

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Three members of the family of John W. Nolan, 23, were arrested here following the discovery of his body. Officers said his head had been crushed with an ax. J. M. Stephens, his stepfather; J. M. McConnell, his grandfather, and Mrs. A. L. Campbell, his cousin, were arrested at their home while arranging for burial service.

County officers said Nolan's death was the second by violence in his family within three months. They recalled that the body of H. Campbell, of Caruthersville, Mo., Nolan's uncle, was found on a railroad track. The officers said they believed Campbell had been killed and that his body had been placed on the track.

Hermine May Plan Return of Kaiser

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Princess Hermine, wife of the former Kaiser, is on a journey to Nuremberg of a "purely private nature." It is generally supposed that she is to take the cure at Berchtesgaden but the Communist newspaper Berlin Ammorgen sees in the trip a definite plan to make arrangements for the return of Wilhelm to Germany and his establishment on a Bavarian estate.

Film Players Face "Forgotten" Taxes

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Internal revenue officials announced that, with the "summer tax drive" against Hollywood film people half over, income tax liens demanding payments due had been filed in this district against more than 500 screen and stage actors and actresses. It was added that members of the film colony had paid more than $100,000 to the government in "forgotten taxes" as the result of the activities of the revenue officials.

CHILD RUN DOWN, KILLED BY AUTO

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

PARIS, France.

THE "flea" market is one of the many incongruities of Paris. Here second hand goods, mainly, and firsthand goods are sold on sidewalk markets by a curious collection of merchants, but no more curious than the assortment of materials put forth to pique the desire of a trade which also looks strange. It is the market place for the poor, an exchange of houseworn relics, homemade aprons and dresses, carrots, tomatoes, bananas, framed pictures—almost anything you can imagine. In booths and stalls and strewn on the pavements, too, the goods are on display.

Anyone in Paris may become merchant for a day or for an hour by paying a license fee of a franc or so. It stretches for more than a mile, near one of the gates to the city. It is recorded that a very famous picture was innocently sold for a few francs which netted the purchaser a profit of several hundred thousand dollars.

It is called the "flea" market because many of the articles are so old, housewornand neglected that the well-known insect, usually associated with a dog, is supposed to jump out at the purchaser or the merchant in fingering the goods. Altogether it is a picture of poverty presented by the "flea" market where centimes and fractions of centimes are considered worth battling over.

The French believe that an automobile horn should be a horn—and how. The man who can sleep through the early morning tooting of the taxi horn is a wonder, indeed. And traffic is so congested that the drivers are continually pressing the rubber bulb to emit a sharp sound from the horn.

YET with traffic that is as dense as New York's, Paris has found that nothing is worth while that mars the vaunted beauty of the town. In the midst of congested streets you see small parks and rows of well-kept trees and the central parts of the city are beautified with larger parks, wonderful ornamental art works, and monuments at every turn.

Few cities have streets so clean.

And before I forget it, an ice cream soda in Paris costs 40 cents. Things must be cheaper for the natives, but for the tourist—well, he often has a hard time noting any great difference between Paris and the lower standard of wages and many American cities where wages are higher and prices made accordingly to maintain the standard. Still, the 40-cent ice cream soda may have been a case of a guide taking the visiting firemen for a buggy ride, which guides are apt to do unless you understand what he says when he pow-wows in French with the proprietors of the various places visited. Again, someone may say anyone drinking ice cream sodawater in Paris should pay 40 cents or more. But it shows what a clean life some of us boys lead, even in this wicked city.

Paris at least knows how to celebrate a holiday. One of the big holiday festivals started on Saturday night, continued through Sunday and Sunday night and all day Monday and Monday night. Not a wheel was turned during this time, save transit and cafe wheels. Bands were engaged by every sidewalk cafe worthy of the name—and there are said to be 58,000 cafes in the town—and the villagers danced on the streets until dawn broke over Montparnasse hill. Like our own Hallowe'en of long ago, the streets were gayly decorated with electric bulbs and the bands played on. I thought it was all clean fun until one rowdy socked my straw hat as I passed along in an open taxicab. Straw hats, by the way, seem to be unusual. Berets, the small things that slide toward one ear, and slouch hats are favored by the stylists over here. But that doesn't prove anything for I have seen a more varied assortment of whiskers in Paris than I have ever seen before. They seem to be all saving up for mattresses.

THE music is not so hot as the American brand. This is admitted even by patriotic Frenchmen. They borrow largely from American ragtime composers. And they don't play them as well as do our own boys with the stiff white shirts and the black ribbon to which is fastened the saxophone.

AGED WOMAN SERIOUSLY HURT

Grandmother and Girl Hit At Crossing; Two Others Injured, in Hospitals

One child was killed, an aged woman was critically injured and two girls were hurt, one seriously, in automobile accidents yesterday, according to police reports.

Elizabeth Scykoski, 6, of Natrona, and her grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Lesneski, 58, were struck by an automobile driven, police say, by Fred J. Kirsch, 48, of Mary street, McKees Rocks, in East street at Madison avenue.

The girl was pronounced dead at Allegheny General Hospital. The woman is in Presbyterian Hospital with a fracture of the skull. Kirsch will be turned over to the coroner.

Catherine McDonough, 8, of 2310 Sarah street, was seriously hurt when she was struck by a machine driven by John Whitzel, 29, of 830 Van Kirk street, Clairton, near her home. She is in South Side Hospital.

Miss Anna Plazinski, 19, of South Thirteenth street, suffered lacerations on the upper lip and body bruises, when the automobile in which she was riding skidded on Tenth street. John Plazinski, the driver, took her to the South Side Hospital, where she was given medical treatment. He was not arrested, as the accident was unavoidable, South Side police said.

2 HURT AT FIRE IN HILL PLANT

Two firemen were slightly injured while battling a two-alarm fire in the Iron City Dry Cleaning Company building, Rose and Devilliers street, early today.

The injured were William Minogue and Ferdinand Staley, both of Engine Company No. 5. Minogue was burned on the hands, and Staley's hands were cut by glass.

Starting in a rear stairway the flames spread to the second floor and for a time threatened the entire three-story structure. Intense heat blew out several windows in the front. For a time firemen feared the flames would reach a 3,000-gallon supply of cleaning fluid in tanks in the rear of the building.

Chief Richard L. Smith, who answered the second alarm, estimated the loss at $5,000.

The establishment is operated by M. A. and J. H. Marcus.

SCOUTS FARE WELL IN CAMP

In a recent detailed report, Camp Director John Danton paid high tribute to the health conditions of East Boroughs camp, Twin-Echo, near New Florence. During the course of the camping season there has been practically no illness. Although a doctor is on the grounds at all times, there has been little need for this service, except for his regular examinations of the boys during their stay at camp.

Not only has the health among the Scouts been remarkable, but the fact that many boys who came to camp under weight have gained consistently, is another recommendation for the progress it has made along health lines, and mothers and fathers, too, have, on various occasions, taken time to write their commendations to the Scout officials.

Wilkinsburg, Edgewood, Swissvale, Rankin, East Pittsburgh, Turtle Creek, Wilmerding, Pitcairn, Trafford, Verona, Oakmont and Universal, which towns comprise the East Boroughs Scout Council, are proud of Camp Twin-Echo.

A committee of five has been named to confer with representatives of other organizations relative to a borough swimming pool. The committee includes P. L. Jarrett, A. B. Craig, E. C. Warriner, William A. Walker and Capt. J. N. Arthur, borough manager.

A report was received from a committee studying the proposed erection by the North Boroughs of an incinerating plant and the report taken under consideration.

Old Dobbin Bests Lindy In Book Survey

The airplane may have crowded old Dobbin out of the thinking of most folks, but a survey of book preferences on the part of sixth grade pupils of Sewickley schools showed "Black Beauty" an easy winner over Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's "We."

Twelve girls and five boys had read the book about the horse, they indicated in a questionnaire the results of which were tabulated by the Sewickley Public Library. Only two girls had read the account of Lindbergh's epoch-making flight across the Atlantic, as penned by himself.

"Black Beauty," in fact, proved the most popular of all. Dickens' "Christmas Carol" and Hawthorne's "Wonder Book" ran second while in third place were "Dr. Doolittle's Circus" by Lofting, "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" and "Robinson Crusoe."

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" had been read by only three pupils. Eight girls and one boy had read Louisa M. Alcott's "Little Men" while nine girls had perused "Little Women" by the same author.

Will Rogers Says

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 5.

Senator Reed Smoot interrupted President Hoover's weekend vacation in Virginia with a plea to please help the sugar industry.

There is one hundred and twenty million of us to eat it, and exactly twelve hundred and thirty-one that raise it, but Reed has dedicated his entire political career to make sugar not only sweet but clear to the hundred and twenty million.

Lot's wife (or somebody in the Bible) turned around to look back and turned into salt.

If Reed ever glances back, we are going to have a human sugar bowl on our hands.

Yours, WILL.

14TH WARD GETS 5 NEW POLLS

Exceptions to the redistricting of the Fourteenth Ward were dismissed today by Judge Frank P. Patterson. Under the ruling, five new polling places will be established in the ward for the September primaries.

The exceptions to redistricting had resulted in a political clash between the forces of Alderman Saul Goldstein and Ward Chairman E. D. Friebertshauser. Friebertshauser, ill in bed at the time the petition was filed, had opposed the move in court. But at the hearing today both sides admitted that a redistricting of the ward was necessary, owing to the large increase in population.

Some opposition to the method of re-districting developed. Mrs. Margaret S. Gray, of 6611 Darlington road, called it "gerrymandering." Deputy Sheriff Patrick Casey, another witness, called it a "one-man" affair. His shot was believed aimed at Alderman Goldstein, but Goldstein later took the stand and declared that he had nothing to do with the move.

The hearing was almost as heated as that of last Thursday, adjourned until today after a near fist-fight had developed.

By the court's order, the Sixteenth District of the ward will be divided into three new election precincts, and the Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth and Thirty-second Districts into two new precincts each.

2. Will further pay to the City of Pittsburgh toward the entire cost of the project the sum of $51,043, plus an additional sum of $10,000.00, as a further contribution toward the cost of the erection of safety platforms to be located under new Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company's bridges, numbers 67 and 201, or a total of $61,043.00;

3. The said Street Railways Company will also, at its own risk and cost, take care of its tracks, trolley lines and service during the period of the construction work, as provided in this agreement.

The Railroad will grant an easement to the City over all property owned or controlled by the railroad which is required for the Irvine street improvement, including particularly the land required for the portion of Greenfield avenue as relocated and including also an easement for the City's existing 50" water line in its present location in the portion of Greenfield avenue to be vacated, and the Railroad further waives all claims for property damage incident to the entire improvement. In consideration whereof the City hereby waives any benefits which might be assessed against any property of the Railroad as affected by this improvement.

ARTICLE V.

In the exercise of this franchise rights the Railroad must provide and maintain such structures as may be necessary to maintain and protect the City's use of lands retained and developed by the City for street purposes, heretofore described as being a strip of land fifty-four (54) feet in width.

ARTICLE VI.

ARMED BANDIT ROBS WEST END GASOLINE STATION

ROBBER FLEES WITH LOOT IN STOLEN CAR

Thug Poses as Customer in Trapping Attendant; License Number Clue Given

An unmasked highwayman walked into the Penzoil filling station at 1704 West Carson street, Sunday afternoon, cowed the attendant with a revolver, and sauntered out again, with $30 in silver and currency which he had removed from the pockets of his victim.

Joseph Byerly, of 501 Taylor avenue, Avalon, the attendant entered the office of the station to serve the "customer" who left his car at the curb. Upon entering the office a revolver was thrust against Byerly's back. After kicking the door shut, the bandit relieved Byerly of the money in his pockets, and after ordering his victim to remain in the office, departed.

Byerly ran out of the office in time to take the license number of the car, which bore dealers' plates. Investigation revealed the car had been stolen a month ago from a Crafton company.

VOTERS GIRD FOR CONTESTS IN S. HILLS

Factionalism Rife as Primaries Draw Near; Many Candidates Seek Posts

Voters in the South Hills district are looking to August to speed up the political contests already launched in many of the boroughs and townships of that district.

Candidates are now bestirring themselves with petitions and the indications are for some old-time campaigns, particularly in Castle Shannon and Mt. Oliver, which it is said are torn with factionalism.

FACTIONS ARE ACTIVE

The principal fight centers in Castle Shannon, where four positions in Council are to be filled, in addition to the offices of Justice of the Peace, Burgess, Tax Collector and Register Assessor. The principal fight centers around the candidacy of Thomas P. Delaney for re-election as Burgess, the opposition being well organized and presenting as their candidate John Mahoney.

The four councilmen whose terms explire are seeking re-election and three new candidates already are in the field. A host of candidates seek the office of Justice of the Peace, now held by Mrs. Beatrice K. Popp. Robert Laird and R. H. Hicks will battle for the office of tax collector, while H. O. Whitlinger will seek the register assessor's post for the Third District.

In Mt. Oliver, Burgess John Wagner seems to have the support of both factions for re-election, but there promises to be a real fight for the councilmanic posts, three of the retiring members being candidates again while several others also have tossed their hats into the ring.

QUIET IN BALDWIN

In Baldwin Township little activity is shown as there seems to be an inclination to await the outcome of the several annexation moves now under way. Brentwood appears to be the most peaceful post along the battle front, as the record of the officials of that borough shows progressiveness. Four vacancies are to be filled in council, but it is believed if the retiring members seek another term they will meet with little or no opposition.

Overbrook passes completely out of the picture as with annexation to the city on January 1 the present government will step out in favor of the city of Pittsburgh. The only office to fill will be that of ward chairman in the event a new ward is created.

Cinderella

and the Three proud cigarette brands

A Modern Fable

Once upon a time a Mighty Prince set forth to find a perfect cigarette.

Being very wise, he netted down his search to the four National favorites . . . that quartette of popular sister brands known as the "20 for 15¢" family.

The three elder cigarette brands rushed forward to meet the Prince with all the proud pomp in the world . . . each vying with the other in urging her charms upon him.

"Smoke me!" said the eldest, "I am the class of the field."

"Smoke me!" said the second, "for I am beyond compare."

"Smoke me!" said the third, "all the world acknowledges me to be the best."

Then, from the background, the youngest brand . . . the Cinderella of the family . . . quietly spoke up. "If you please, Sire," she suggested, "why not smoke all four of us . . . and compare us fairly and impartially, letting your taste decide which one of us you like best?"

"Why, that's a common sense idea!" exclaimed His Highness.

Whereupon he covered the names of all four brands with paper masks; lit them and smoked them reflectively, with all brand prejudice removed.

One cigarette seemed to capture his fancy, far and beyond the others. "I don't know which cigarette this is," he declared, "but unquestionably it is the cigarette for me." Whereupon he removed the mask and found it to be . . . Well, Cinderella is the "story-book" name but in America today that winning brand is known as OLD GOLD.

MORAL:

It is easy to make big claims, but you can't smoke claims. The only sound way to discover the cigarette you like best is to let your taste decide.

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT by ERICH M. REMARQUE

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Paul Baumer and his soldier comrades all enlisted at 18. During their training, they were abused and persecuted by a former mail-carrier, now Corp. Himmelstross. Hating him, they beat him up the last night. Later, at the front, he appears. One of the privates calls him a "dirty hound." He threatens court-martial. Light sentences are imposed when the lieutenant learns the whole story of the corporal's abuse in camp. Paul and his comrades are back in the front lines. On the way they passed piles of new coffins. Their spirits are low. After days of fighting, the trenches are wrecked. Food is scarce and the barrage is so heavy that none can be brought up. Baumer and his comrades are in hand-to-hand fighting defending their position. After a successful counter-attack, night comes and all is quiet in the trenches. Again the shelling begins; attack, counter-attack, charge, repulse. Young recruits, with little knowledge of warfare, fall the easiest victims. Paul's company has been relieved and casualties are found to be numerous. While in swimming Paul and his comrades speak to several French girls across the canal. That night they visit the girls' home. Paul is granted a furlough but is sorry when he leave his comrades. Everything at home seems changed and he is not at ease.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX.

IT IS pleasant to sit quietly somewhere, in the beer garden for example, under the chestnuts by the skittle-alley. The leaves fall down on the table and on the ground, only a few, the first. A glass of beer stands in front of me, I've learned to drink in the army. The glass is half empty, but there are still a few good swigs ahead of me, and besides I can always order a second and a third if I wish to. There are no bugles and no bombardments, the children of the house play in the skittle-alley, and the dog rests his head against my knee. The sky is blue, between the leaves of the chestnuts rises the green spire of St. Margaret's Church.

This is good, I like it. But I cannot get on with the people. My mother is the only one who asks no questions. Not so my father. He wants me to tell him about the front; he is curious in a way that I find stupid and distressing; I no longer have any real contact with him. There is nothing he likes more than just hearing about it. I realize he does not know that a man cannot talk of such things; I would do it willingly, but it is too dangerous for me to put these things into words. I am afraid they might then become gigantic and I be no longer able to master them. What would become of us if everything that happens out there were quite clear to us?

So I confine myself to telling him a few amusing things. But he wants to know whether I have ever had a hand-to-hand fight. I say "No," and get up and go out.

But that does not mend matters. After I have been startled a couple of times in the street by the screaming of the tramcars, which resembles the shriek of a shell coming straight for one, somebody taps me on the shoulder. It is my German-master, and he fastens on me with the usual question: "Well, how are things out there? Terrible, terrible, eh? Yes, it is dreadful, but we must carry on. And after all, you do at least get decent food out there, so I hear. You look well, Paul, and fit. Naturally it's worse here. Naturally. The best for our soldiers every time, that goes without saying."

He drags me along to a table with a lot of others. They welcome me, a headmaster shakes hands with me and says: "So you come from the front? What is the spirit like out there? Excellent, eh? Excellent?"

I explain that no one would be sorry to be back home.

He laughs uproariously. "I can well believe it! But first you have to give the Froggies a good hiding. Do you smoke? Here, try one. Waiter, bring a beer as well for our young warrior."

Unfortunately I have accepted the cigar, so I have to remain. And they are all so dripping with good will that it is impossible to object. All the same I feel annoyed and smoke like a chimney as hard as I can. In order to make at least some show of appreciation I toss off the beer in one gulp. Immediately a second is ordered; people know how much they are indebted to the soldiers. They argue about what we ought to annex. The head-master with the steel watch-chain wants to have at least the whole of Belgium, the coal-areas of France, and a slice of Russia. He produces reasons why we should have them and is quite inflexible until at last the others give in to him. Then he begins to expound just whereabouts in France the break-through must come, and turns to me: "Now, shove ahead a bit out there with your everlasting trench warfare — Smash through the Johnnies and then there will be peace."

I reply that in our opinion a break-through may not be possible. The enemy may have too many reserves. Besides, the war may be rather different from what people think.

He dismisses the idea loftily and informs me I know nothing about it. "The details, yes," says he, "but this relates to the whole. And of that you are not able to judge. You see only your little sector and so cannot have any general survey. You do your duty, you risk your lives, that deserves the highest honor—every man of you ought to have the Iron Cross—but first of all the enemy line must be broken through in Flanders and then rolled up from the top."

He blows his nose and wipes his beard. "Completely rolled up they must be, from the top to the bottom. And then to Paris."

I would like to know just how he pictures it to himself, and pour the third glass of beer into me. Immediately he orders another.

But I break away. He stuffs a few more cigars into my pocket and sends me off with a friendly slap. "All for the best! I hope we will soon hear something worth while from you."

I imagined leave would be different from this. Indeed, it was different a year ago. It is I of course that have changed in the interval. There lies a gulf between that time and today. At that time I still knew nothing about the war, we had been only in quiet sectors. But now I see that I have been crushed without knowing it. I find I do not belong here any more, it is a foreign world. Some of these people ask questions, some ask no questions, but one can see that they are quite confident they know all about it; they often say so with their air of comprehension, so there is no point in discussing it. They make up a picture of it for themselves.

I prefer to be alone, so that no one troubles me. For they all come back to the same thing, how badly it goes and how well it goes; one thinks it is this way, another that; and yet they are always absorbed in the things that go to make up their own existence. Formerly I lived in just the same way myself, but now I feel no contact here any longer.

They talk to me too much. They have worries, aims, desires, that I cannot comprehend. I often sit with one of them in the little beer-garden and try to explain to him that this is really the only thing: just to sit quietly, like this. They understand of course, they agree, they may even feel it so too, but only with words, yes, that is it— they feel it, but always with only half of themselves, the rest of their being is taken up with other things, they are so divided in themselves that none feels it with his whole essence; I cannot even say myself exactly what I mean.

When I see them here, in their rooms, in their offices, about their occupations, I feel an irresistible attraction in it, I would like to be here too and forget the war; but it also repels me, it is so narrow, how can that fill a man's life, he ought to smash it to bits; how can they do it, while out at the front the splinters are whining over the shell-holes and the star-shells go up, the wounded are carried back on waterproof sheets and comrades crouch in the trenches.—They are different men here, men I cannot properly understand, whom I envy and despise. I must think of Kat and Albert and Muller and Tjaden, what will they be doing? No doubt they are sitting in the canteen, or perhaps swimming—soon they will have to go up to the front-line again.

In my room behind the table stands a brown leather sofa. I sit down on it.

On the walls are pasted countless pictures I once used to cut out of the newspapers. In between are drawings and postcards that have come my way. In the corner is a small iron stove. Against the wall opposite stand the bookshelves with my books.

I used to live in this room before I was a soldier. The books I bought gradually with money I earned by coaching. Many of them are second-hand, all the classics for example, one volume in blue cloth boards cost one mark 20 pfennig. I bought them complete because I was thoroughgoing, I did not trust the editors of selections, even though they may have chosen all the best. So I purchased only "collected works." I read most of them with laudable zeal, but few of them really appealed to me. I preferred the other books, the moderns, which were of course much dearer. A few I came by not quite honestly, I borrowed and did not return them because I did not want to part with them.

One shelf is filled with school books. They are not so well cared for, they are badly thumbed, and pages have been torn out for certain purposes. Then below are periodicals, papers, and letters all jammed in together with drawings and rough sketches.

I want to think myself back into that time. It is still in the room, I feel it at once, the walls have preserved it. My hands rest on the arms of the sofa; now I make myself at home and draw up my legs so that I sit comfortably in the corner, in the arms of the sofa. The little window is open, through it I see the familiar picture of the street with the rising spire of the church at the end. There are a couple of flowers on the table. Penholders, a shell as a paper-weight, the ink well —here nothing is changed.

It will be like this too, if I am lucky, when the war is over and I come back here for good. I will sit here just like this and look at my room and wait.

I feel excited; but I do not want to be, for that is not right. I want that quiet rapture again. I want to feel the same powerful, namless urge that I used to feel when I turned to my books. The breath of desire that then arose from the colored backs of the books, shall fill me again, melt the heavy, dead lump of lead that lies somewhere in me and waken again the impatience of the future, the quick joy in the world of thought, it shall bring back again the lost eagerness of my youth. I sit and wait.

It occurs to me that I must go and see Kemmerich's mother;—I might visit Mittelstaedt too, he should be at the barracks. I look out of the window;—beyond the sober picture of the street appears a range of hills, distant and light; it changes to a clear day in autumn, and I sit by the fire with Kat and Albert and eat potatoes baked in their skins.

But I do not want to think of that, I sweep it away. The room shall speak, it must catch me up and hold me, I want to feel that I belong here, I want to hearken and know when I got back to the front that the war will sink down, be drowned utterly in the great home-coming tide, know that it will then be past forever, and not gnaw us contiually, that it will have none but an outward power over us.

The backs of the books stand in rows. I know them all still, I remember arranging them in order. I implore them with my eyes: Speak to me—take me up—take me. Life of my Youth—you who are carefree, beautiful—receive me again—

I wait, I wait.

Images float through my mind, but they do not grip me, they are mere shadows and memories.

Nothing—nothing—

My disquietude grows.

A terrible feeling of foreignness suddenly rises up in me. I cannot find my way back, I am shut out though I entreat earnestly and put forth all my strength.

Nothing stirs; listless and wretched, like a condemned man, I sit there and the past withdraws itself. And at the same time I fear to importune it too much, because I do not know what might happen then. I am a soldier. I must cling to that.

Wearily I stand up and look out of the window. Then I take one of the books, intending to read, and turn over the leaves. But I put it away and take out another. There are passages in it that have been marked. I look, turn over the pages, take up fresh books. Already they are piled up beside me. Speedily more join the heap, papers, magazines, letters.

I stand there dumb. As before a judge.

Dejected.

Words, Words, Words—they do not reach me.

Slowly I place the books back in the shelves.

Nevermore.

Quietly, I go out of the room.

Nancy Hidden in Kitchen When Beamer's Wife Arrives at Farm

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Becoming cynical at her mother's wish to have her marry for wealth and social position, Nancy Hollenbeck, young and beautiful, accepts the ardent attentions of Jack Beamer, supposedly an Englishman of noble birth, who is married to a wealthy invalid. On a mountain trip Nancy, after a brief courtship, makes a hasty marriage with a handsome ranger, Roger Decatur. Sickening of the loneliness, with Roger away, she returns home to resume her old life, still keeping her marriage a secret. When Roger, deeply in love with Nancy, comes to take her back, she tells him unless he makes his home in the city she will divorce him, although she realizes her own love for him. After Roger leaves, Nancy continues her clandestine affair with Beamer, whose wife, aware of his philandering, refuses to free him. Louise, Nancy's sister, always second with men, now has a rich, though elderly, suitor. Beamer takes Nancy out to his stock farm on a jaunt.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

WITH her kimona wrapped tight around her, still warm and powdery from her hot bath, Nancy opened the door a crack.

"Yes—what—what's happened?" She tried to sound natural and casual, but her heart was in her throat. She had caught the note of urgency. . .fright. . .in Jack's voice. She was badly frightened.

Jack wasted no time in calming her. "My wife's here. There'll be hell to pay if she finds us." He surveyed Nancy's sketchy attire with a cold and gloomy eye.

"Oh!" That was as far as she got before he was in the room with her, throwing her belongings hastily into a pile. "Hurry — for God's sake, Nancy — don't stand there doing nothing! I tell you my wife's here . . . Here, take your stuff and finish dressing in the kitchen. If you hear anyone coming, dive into the pantry. I'll sneak out after dinner and drive you into town or I'll get Tucker, the groom—"

He was slamming her things into the bag as he whispered. Crumpling the rose crepe, spilling powder, pushing her into the corridor —panting — shoving — cursing . . . could this be Jack? Jack of the beautiful manners, the generations of noble family? . . . Could this be she? Being pushed out, half-dressed, hidden in a corner like a . . . a . . she couldn't say it . . . not even to herself.

"Where's Mrs. Garfield?" Nancy jerked away angrily. "This is—this is ridiculous. Call Mrs. Garfield, I won't hide—I won't—"

For a moment she thought he was going to cover her mouth . . . gag her . . . . Tears of futile rage choked her as effectively as if he had.

"Please, Nancy—please!" he was whispering hoarsely. "Please go. The Garfields aren't here. They've gone for the week and Anita knows it—"

"They aren't HERE!" Her voice rose again. Indignantly, she shook off his hands. "But you said . . . that was one of the reasons I came! Jack Beamer, you know I'd never have gotten into this mess if I'd known!"

"Quit arguing now, please, Nancy. I'll explain later . . sh! What's that? . . . Nancy, for your own sake . . . step on it. Get into the kitchen. And stay there . . . QUICK!"

She was in the kitchen. The steamy, odorous kitchen, with the door banged shut behind her, and an old Chinaman in a white apron carrying her suitcase, oozing rose crepe and a long silk stocking, into the pantry.

Scarlet with shame, sick with disappointment and fear, she followed the old Chinaman.

She dressed in the semi-darkness of the pantry, surrounded by plates.

"Well, I don't know what struck you," Jack Beamer said, half humorously, addressing his veiled and bundled wife.

With Nancy out of the way he felt better. He'd be able to master the situation yet.

"I wanted some air, and it is a pleasant ride down here," she said in her flat, thin voice. She was taking off the heavy wraps in which she was enveloped. Her sad, tired eyes moved about the neat little living room. She held her head slightly on one side, as if she were listening . . .

Jack's good humor vanished. . . . Snooping, was she? . . . "Just why did you come here?" he demanded roughly, striding over to her, taking her firmly by the shoulders.

Once that would have intimidated her. But not any more. Now that she knew she had lost him, she didn't have to hide her jealousy. She could cry until her nose was pink under its film of white powder, and her poor, watery eyes were rimmed with red, it was nothing to Jack. She knew that at last. . . . She had nothing to lose.

"I can come if I want to. It's my ranch," she said sullenly, beginning to unwind the veils and mufflers.

"Go on, rub it in."

"But Jack, I have to! If I didn't, you'd leave me. I know—I know you want a divorce. It's my only way to —to keep you—"

"Nonsense!"

"But you told me yourself . . . how can I think anything else?" She was sniffing now, dabbing at her pink nose with a lace-edged handkerchief, her eyes pleading, pleading for him to deny it.

"Dinner leady!" the Chinaman said.

Jack pulled out her chair at the little table near the fire. "That was long ago. Nothing to talk about now. Let's have dinner. Sit down, will you?"

But she wouldn't sit down. She insisted upon going to her room — the room Nancy had left a few short moments ago—to freshen herself before dinner.

Well, he couldn't stop her. He lit a cigaret and waited. There would be a scene. He grinned a little, thinking of that. Harder on her than him. Her own fault if she got all worked up; the doctor had warned her often enough. . . . If she'd only think it was some other woman . . . if he could only keep Nancy out of it. . . .

Nancy heard her screaming through the thick walls of the sturdy little cottage. She couldn't distinguish the words, but she knew what had happened. Mrs. Beamer had found out.

The Chinaman came in and out of the kitchen with trays. His expression never changed. When he opened the door into the hall Nancy could hear the voices quite distinctly. The woman was weeping hysterically. Jack was cursing.

"Dinner leady." The Chinaman put a tray for Nancy on the edge of the kitchen table.

"Thank you," she smiled, but she could not eat.

"You want something else?" the cook inquired solicitously after a while.

She shook her head. She didn't want anything . . . . anything she could have. She doubted if she would ever want anything again. Not even Jack . . . or his money. . . .

If she could only talk to Roger . . . explain . . . if she only had it to do over again! But she'd had her chance, and she'd muffed it. Twice! You couldn't expect more than that from life . . . two chances. . . .

It was dark now, black outside the windows. But warm inside, warm and hot. The wood range roared, the electric lights burned bright in the white-painted kitchen. Nancy's head went on aching. If she could only snuggle into Roger's arms. . just once . . it would be so comforting. . . now . . .in all her trouble.

The kitchen door opened, and a young man in riding boots and a slouch hat stuck his head in, "Mr. Beamer says not to worry, and I'll drive you home as soon as theye're gone, lady."

Worry! Nancy almost smiled. Worry! About what? What was there left to worry about?

She had no fear of losing Jack. You never lose what you don't want. He could find some way of protecting her, of placating his wife. They'd be married. She'd be mistress here . . .She would ride Moon Maid whenever she wanted to . . .Drive Jack's cars. . .

She'd lost love. Very well, she'd have the other things, the things the world wants. She'd have 'em, even if she hated them, and Jack Beamer, too!

Out in the yard a motor was starting. Jack's probably . . . Jack was taking his wife home . . .

The young man of the slouch hat came back. "We can go now, lady."

Under lowered lids he watched her furtively while she pulled on her coat.

Public Links Struggle. Kauffmann Tops Field. Looks Winner Again. | Hunter Lauds Wagner. Bucs in East Saturday. Balkline Cue League.

HOME STAY OF PIRATES DISASTROUS

MODEST Carl F. Kauffmann, idol of public links golfers, not only of Pittsburgh, but of the nation, is smilingly confident of capturing the National public links championship, in the annual tournament that begins tomorrow at St. Louis and continues throughout the week. If Kauffmann wins again, it will be his third consecutive National championship, and the second time in two years that he has established a record.

Carl Kauffmann

The Pittsburgh city champion is likely to annex the crown again if he succeeds in qualifying in the 36-hole test tomorrow and Wednesday. He will not try to burn up the course during the medal play, according to his plan of strategy, but will endeavor to score just well enough to get within the fold, saving his better golf for the match play elimination rounds.

Kauffmann is noted throughout the country for his marvelous match play. His temperament is ideal for it, and many critics have dubbed him the "Iron Man of Golf." Steel-like nerves, real golf ability and physicial stamina are in his golf makeup.

THE ONLY other player in the field of 144, representing 35 cities, who appears to have a chance to menace Kauffmann in the match play rounds, if both qualify, is Jimmy McAuliffe, of Buffalo, former champion. The remainder of the field may include a so-called dark-horse, but one or more of these may be expected to crop out in any public links championship, where the players each year practically make up a field of new faces.

The Pittsburgh team—C. J. Lunden, Mike Galido, Bob Graham, Tex Wessell, Red Barr, and Kauffmann—will be defending its National championship which it has won for the last two years. This title is represented by the Warren H. Harding Cup. It may be a harder task to retain it this year, though the local squad represents a strong combination.

BILL TERRY, here with the Giants, whose batting average up to today was .371 and who is chasing Babe Herman and Lefty O'Doul for the National League swatting championship, attributes his improved hitting this year to a shortened swing.

"Instead of trying to knock the ball out of the lot every time up, I'm trying just to meet it," he told Joe Vila. "The result is that I'm making fewer home runs, but more base hits. I find that with a shortened swing I can hold back and follow the ball better, do not hit at so many bad pitches and when I do hit the ball I hit it more solidly.

Bill Terry

"THE stance and stride have a lot to do with hitting, of course. I think that when a player isn't hitting it's largely because he is striding too far and is lunging into the ball instead of stepping into it. Luck plays a big part in hitting, too. It would be pretty hard to say how large a part it plays, but I know that last year I hit 31 line drives that were caught. I know how many, because I kept track of them. This year I haven't had half a dozen of them caught, which proves that luck is with me, and that my drives are going between the fielders and not at them."

IT IS TRUE that Terry has been whaling the tar out of the ball this season, and that the great majority of his hits have been clean and fairly earned, but his reference to the number of line drives from his bat that were caught last year shows that he is not different from many other major league players in that respect.

Most of them are "that way" when they count up their base hits. They remember the ones they lost, but forget all about the ones that came to them as gifts when they should have been "outs." Ask the pitchers and you'll get a different story. They'll tell you that the number of line drive that a batter loses are more than offset by the number of lucky hits he gets in a season on bad hops, pop flies that drop safely and other fortunate breaks.

YOU REMEMBER Fred Hunter, of course? Fred Clarke thought he had finally solved the Pirate first-base problem when Hunter was bought from Kansas City for the 1911 season, but the new man did not measure up to expectations and was released to Indianapolis in August of that year.

Honus Wagner

Hunter is now doing duty as coach for the Phillies and during the visit of the Quakers here last week he fell to discussing shortstops.

"I HAVE heard many an argument about the relative merits of many star shortfielders of the past and the present," said Fred, "but say—you can argue yourself blue in the face but in the end there is only one answer. Honus Wagner was the greatest of all time and nobody can take it away from him. You had to play in the same infield with Honus to appreciate his remarkable ability, speed and judgment and the marvelous plays that he made.

"AND OF THE greatest features of his work is rarely mentioned, I refer to his throwing. A first baseman who has handled the throws of various infielders is best qualified to talk on that subject and I can say that Wagner was without an equal for accuracy or timing or the lightness of the ball that he threw.

"Many a time Honus would scoop up a lot of earth with his massive hands in fielding a ground ball, and the ball would start toward the first baseman out of a cloud of dust and dirt, but that never affected the remarkable accuracy, the feather-lightness of his throws. Easy for a first baseman? Say, that fellow threw balls that were already caught."

THE PIRATES are nearing the end of a home stay that promised much, but that has produced nothing except disaster. Of 11 games played at Forbes Field since the return from the East up to today, only four were won against seven lost. And all the games were with second-division clubs, at that. The result is that, following Chicago's second victory over Brooklyn yesterday, the Rovers today were six and a half games from the top.

After three games with the Giants today, tomorrow and Wednesday, and two with Bill McKechnie's Cardinals on Thursday and Fri-

EUROPEAN TRIP AHEAD FOR CHAMPION

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Tonight's bout with Willie Davies, of Charleroi, in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, is no ordinary battle for little Frankie Genaro, of New York, world flyweight champion. He never was more anxious to win a bout in his young life, and he realizes he has his evening's work cut out for him.

Genaro arrived in town yesterday morning and worked out at Flynn's gymnasium in the afternoon. He is stopping at the Roosevelt Hotel, where I met him with his acting-manager, Morris Cain, of New York, who is representing Joe Jacobs and Billy McCarney, his pilots.

Frankie is all set for another trip to Europe, during which he will box the leading little fellows of the Continent, and he is keen to keep his escutcheon clean before sailing. He was over there recently to box Spider Pladner and lost on a disputed knockout the first time and won on a foul in a return meeting. He claims he also really was fouled the first time. According to Frankie, Pladner is a bantamweight and has no business in the flyweight ranks. The Spider weakened himself so much making weight that he had to foul his way out, hoping to have the referee overlook the low punching and count out his opponents, who included Corp. Izzy Schwartz, who disputes Genaro's claim to the title.

WILL BOX HULET

Hulet, of France, has knocked out the Spider in 15 rounds since Genaro last met Pladner and will be one of the men Frankie will be called upon to meet on his forthcoming trip. Another will be Jimmy Hill, the English star, at the National Sporting Club in London. He also will box in Italy.

Max Waxman, of Baltimore, manager of Joe Dundee, who recently lost his world welterweight championship to Jackie Fields, is slated to accompany Genaro on the trip to Europe, representing the firm of Jacobs and McCarney, which is all tied up with the handling of Max Schmeling, the German heavyweight.

Davies concluded his hard training for the bout with Genaro, for which he has been shooting for five years, at Charleroi on Saturday and merely rested up yesterday. He is confident of victory and makes no bones about it. Indeed, he will be sorely disappointed if he doesn't turn in his finest performance in years against the successor to the late Pancho Villa as champion. Genaro's title will not be at stake tonight, as the lads are meeting at 114 pounds, two pounds over the championship weight; but Davies is keen to win impressively in the hope that he thereby will be able to force Genaro into a titular match later.

George Pavlick, popular rangy light-heavyweight, of Johnstown, who recently defeated Harry Williams in the Bowl ring, returns against Pedlar Palmer, another Negro foe, in the eight-round semi-final tonight, while Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrenceville, meets Al Iovino, of Swissvale, in the second bout at six rounds, and Red Hartley, former amateur star, of the North Side, tangles with Joey Angelo, of Swissvale, in the opening battle. Both of the preliminaries are bantamweight affairs.

HERRERA BACK TODAY

Tony Herrera, Mexican lightweight star, of Chicago, is due back in our midst today for his 10-round main bout with Billy Callahan, of Detroit and New Castle, at the armory in Washington, Pa., tomorrow night.

Tuffy Griffiths boxes Joe Burke at Peoria, Ill., tonight. Al (Rube) Goldberg boxes Herman Singer in New York.

Their sick and injured stars enjoying the two days of rest, the Giants and Pirates today were eager to get into action on the diamond. Rain caused a postponement of the scheduled opening on Saturday afternoon, the canceled game to be played at Forbes Field as a part of a double-header, Wednesday, September 11.

Another Giant star was missing from the New York camp this morning when the daily roundup was made. Andy Reese, star utility player, who has been suffering with an infected foot for many weeks, was ordered back to New York for treatment. Reese's trouble started with a blister some time ago.

LINDSTROM ILL

Fred Lindstrom is ill in Cincinnati, while Eddie Roush has been on the shelf some time, so that John McGraw is not able to put his first-choice lineup on the field. In the absence of the clever Lindstrom, Eddie Farrell is subbing at third base. Eddie was traded to the Giants by the Braves for Outfielder Jimmy Welsh. The Buccos made a determined bid to get the collegian.

Carl Hubbell and Remy Kremer were all warmed up for action Saturday when the contest was called off. It is likely that the stellar veteran and the brilliant young left-hander will swap punches this afternoon. The appearance of Hubbell on the slab will mean that Earl Sheely will be on first base, with Stewie Clarke and Dick Bartell guarding the keystone territory, Capt. Pie Traynor will be at his old post on the diamond.

Manager Bush and everybody else with Pirate sentiments were grieved to learn that Burleight Grimes probably is lost to the club for two more weeks. The spitball star still carries a badly damaged thumb. At the time of the accident on the Polo Grounds it was figured that Grimes would be back at the end of two weeks at the latest, but that much time already has elapsed and Grimes is unable to do much throwing. The bad thumb is discolored

GRUBER PASSES 50TH WEDDING MILESTONE

By JESS CARVER

John Gruber, dean of baseball scorers, will commemorate his fiftieth wedding anniversary today by carrying on in the press box at Forbes Field as official tabulator as the Pirates and Giants clash this afternoon and by gathering with his wife, his five daughters, his son and grandchildren, to the number of three, at a quiet home dinner in the evening.

Uncle John, known to baseball players, managers and scribes from all over the circuit, was married 50 years ago today, to Miss Mary C. Adaneur, of the North Side. Uncle John came to Pittsburgh some few years previous to his marriage, and has been here ever since. He has been official scorer since 1885.

Uncle John, at 73, is the oldest man active in baseball today. And if you think he isn't active, you should hear him in an argument over a tough decision.

GUEST AT BANQUET

Last winter, the local chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America made Scorer John the honor guest at its first annual sport banquet, which was the most notable sporting event ever held locally, with a whole train load of celebrities, some 700 sportsmen from all parts of the section and representing all branches of sport in attendance.

There will be no formal celebration at Forbes Field today, though John likely will have his hand well wrung by all scribes present; the older ones congratulating and the younger ones both congratulating and, just perhaps, asking him how it is done.

For 50 years is a long time.

The purchase of a rain cover for the Stadium gridiron by Pitt and Carnegie Tech is a fine thing. These covers cost in the neighborhood of real dough, some running as high as $10,000.

With the cover over the playing field, some of the fast halfbacks who are booked to perform there this fall will be certain of much more secure footing.

SMALL FROSH SQUAD

Pitt, incidentally, is only going to take about a dozen freshmen to

Salient Facts On Cubs' Fine Showing

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(INS.)—For those who crave bigger and better statistics with their baseball, these facts are submitted today concerning Joe McCarthy's Cubs:

They are leading the serond place Pirates by six and one-half games.

Their new winning streak has grown to four games.

They have whipped Brooklyn, their victim yesterday, 11 times in 12 starts.

They have copped 19 of their last 21 battles.

Also, Wrigley Field has passed the million mark in attendance.

AMATEUR GOLF PAIRINGS OUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—After applying the official pruning knife to the original entry list, the United States Golf Association has made public the pairings for 162 starters in the National Amateur Championship, over the Pebble Beach course of the Del Monte, Cal., Golf and Country Club, September 2 to 9. This represents the elimination of some 60 players from the total crop of entries.

WEST DOMINATES

The big field is representative enough but nevertheless completely dominated by the far Western talent, no matter how the list is analyzed. The Pacific coast has 70 entries, approximately 43 per cent of the entire total. Of these California contributes 57, Oregon has nine and the state of Washington four.

Sectionally, otherwise, the official list shows 34 players from the East, or rather the Northeast, 25 from the Middle West, 15 from the southwestern states of Texas, Arizona and Oklahoma, six from the old South or Southeast, and three from the Rocky Mountain area.

FIVE BRITONS ENTERED

For the benefit of international flavor, Great Britain has five entries, headed by the long-driving Cyril Tolley, present British amateur champion, while Canada has three, among them the Dominion titleholder, Ross Somerville. Ha-

MARSE JOE LATE WITH KICK ON VANCE'S SHIRT

Joe McCarthy's complaint regarding the raggedy right sleeve of Dazzy Vance's undershirt is about three or four years late.

There is no inference intended here to the effect that Ol' Dazmarine has been wearing the same shirt for all these years, yet it is a fact that the Dazzler dazzled Pittsburgh hitters years ago while pitching with the tattered sleeve flying in the breezes.

When Vance was in clover he had a persistent habit of fanning anywhere from five to 15 Cubs per ball game. The old sleeve was on the job those days despite protests of a more or less mild nature.

HACK WILSON KICKS

But it seems that Hack Wilson is crying "Police" as a result of Hack's tangle with Dazzy in Brooklyn about two weeks ago. Vance fanned the slugger four times in a row 'midst the wild plaudits of Flatbush fandom. Hack's picturesque way of showing his dislike for a third strike is something that finds a responsive chord with the hostile onlookers. In any event Wilson apparently is still sore and his boss is asking for a censorship on Dazzy's apparel.

Burt Shotton, resourceful pilot of the Phillies is torn between two attachments when Chuck Klein and other sluggers are at the plate. Burt still believes that science has a place in the game, the lively ball to the contrary notwithstanding.

Shotton was coaching at third base when Klein came up to draw two balls in succession in one of last week's games in the Oakland Orchard. Confident that the next pitch would be "in there," Chuck wanted to go for a homer, or no count.

KLEIN DISAPPOINTED

The Quakers enjoyed a short lead at the time and Shotton, much as he likes Klein's round-trippers, decided that good baseball called for a waiting game. Accordingly, when Chuck looked at his boss for a sign, Burt gave him the office to wait for a walk.

"He's a great kid and he loves to swing for those homers," said

NOTED SPORTS WRITER DIES

DENVER, Aug. 5.—Otto Floto, 66, veteran sports editor of the Denver Post, and nationally known as a sports writer, died here yesterday in a hospital after a long illness.

Floto had been ill since last September when he was stricken with epilepsy while on a trip to the west coast. He is survived by his widow, who was at his bedside when he died, and a brother, William, of Wichita, Kan.

Promoter of numerous enterprises in the west, Floto organized the old Floto dog and pony show, out of which grew the Sells-Floto circus. It was while he was traveling with the show that he met Kitty Kruger, a circus bareback rider, whom he married here in 1906.

Possessed of a wide acquaintance, Floto was known perhaps more for his circle of friends famous in the world of sports than for his writings on sports subjects. He was a keen sports critic, and as a friend of Jack Kearns, one-time manager of Jack Dempsey, he encouraged the Manassa youth when he was making his start in the fistic game.

An ardent fight fan, he attended most of the heavyweight battles for world's championships and was present when Dempsey assumed the crown doffed by Jess Willard at Toledo. Floto was said to have witnessed nearly every great athletic spectacle in the country in the last 30 years.

MISS WILLS WINS IN MAIDSTONE TOURNEY

HELEN, PARTNER GIVEN SCARE IN DOUBLES

EASTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Queen Helen Wills made her first appearance on the courts of the Maidstone Club yesterday, playing two doubles matches in the women's invitation tennis tournament, but her debut for the event was overshadowed by the performances of a group of unranked youngsters.

Miss Wills, with Edith Cross, of San Francisco, as her partner, met with a great surprise at the very start when Marie Fensterer, of Englewood, N. J., and Genevive Fox, of Southampton, N. Y., ran away with the first set of their first round match. The Californians rallied after the bad start to win by scores of 1-6, 6-1, 6-1. They then went on to beat a pair of high ranking opponents, Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin, of Springfield, Mass., and Marjorie Gladman, of Santa Monica, Cal., No. 2 and No. 7 in the national ranking, 6-3, 6-2.

YOUNG STAR WINS

In the singles matches, Virginia Rice, of Boston, who failed to earn a national womens' ranking last year and was placed only seventh among the girls, leaped suddenly to the fore by winning her way into the semi-final round with an unexpected triumph. In the third round she defeated Saturday's sensation, Penelope Anderson, of Richmond, Va., a former first 10 star, in a terrific three-set battle by scores of 3-6, 8-6, 7-5.

Today Miss Rice meets the last survivor of the British Wightman Cup squad, Mrs. D. C. Shepherd-Barron.

Although she lost in the doubles, Midge Gladman became the first of the singles finalists by three brilliant victories in quick succession. Finishing the second round, she swamped Josephine Cruickshank under a 6-3, 6-0 score. In the semi-final Miss Gladman defeated her doubles partner, Mrs. Chapin, 6-1, 6-4, then smashed her way into the last round at the expense of Mrs. Phyllis Covell, of Great Britain, 6-3, 6-4.

HELEN OFF FORM

These brilliant performances completely overshadowed the play of Miss Wills, who was in decidedly bad form at the start. During the first set her stroking was faulty and frequent errors were the principal cause of her defeat. Her young opponents twice broke through her service in the seven games. Both Miss Wills and Miss Cross were guilty of many errors in the other four sets they played, although their game improved rapidly.

and swollen, making it impossible for him to get anything on the ball.

GRANTHAM IMPROVING

George Grantham is improving and may be able to get into action the latter part of the week. When he returns to the sport, Bush will have another problem on his hands, that is if both Clarke and Bartelli are doing well enough to stay in the lineup. In that event, George might be put back at first base.

The Giants will be in town for three games on successive days. When they depart, the Cardinals, under Bill McKechnie, will come to Pittsburgh for a two-day series. McKechnie's return to the big show is hailed with delight in his home sector, and Wilkinsburg Bill is certain to have a big welcome when he gets here.

And there is nothing more pathetic than a battered up, bruised and sore freshman sleeping in a tree. Unless it be two freshmen on a limb.

HAMMERS READY

Speaking of football, alumni can hardly wait till their favorite coach loses his first game so they can test their hammers. This applies generally.

But football must bide its time. The Giants are in town this week.

day, the Bucs will have to hit the road for their third and final Eastern trip of the year.

SEVENTEEN games are scheduled to be played in the seaboard towns, starting with a double-header in Brooklyn next Saturday, before the Corsairs return to the home grounds on August 28. That looks like a tough contract, but the prospect is far from being gloomy. Grantham ought to be ready by the end of the week, and Grimes will follow him into action soon afterward. That ought to help matters a lot. Besides, don't forget that the Pirates have been a better team on the road than at home. Abroad they have won 33 games and lost 17, for a percentage of .660; while on their own lot they have won 26 and lost 20, for a mark of only .565.

Jake Schaefer

THE BIG bosses of billiards have finally come to realize a fact that has been apparent to the general run of cue followers for a long time—that an annual tournament lasting only a week is not sufficient to keep alive interest in the balkline game while three-cushion and pocket billiards are holding attention with long league schedules.

Therefore it is proposed now to do something to revive interest in balkline. The officials plan either to have more tournaments or to organize a league. The league plan has the greater number of supporters, it is said. So don't be surprised if you see the balkline stars in a league race, like the angle stars and the pocket experts. It is planned to have Jake Schaefer, Willie Hoppe, Welker Cochran, Erich Hagenlacher, Edouard Horemans and Kinrey Matsuyama as the players, with franchises in New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore and Washington.

The usual card of Monday sandlot games will be set up for the fans this evening. One game will be staged in the City loop, and will find Stowe Civics, led by Pop Geer, fighting it out with the J. L. Thomas nine at Dean Field.

Geer realizes that in order to stay in the second half race, he cannot afford to lose any more games, so the Thomas boys will find a fighting Rox outfit in the shadow of Bloomfield Bridge this evening.

COSLETTS PLAY SOX

The Jimmy Coslett club, newcomer into the Central League, will make an effort to put a crimp into the East Liberty Red Sox's leadership in the Central loop. Hochstedder's club is playing great ball. The East Enders are getting good pitching, with Crum and Philbeam hitting the ball hard. This game will be played at the Schenley High School field.

Tomorrow evening should clarify the situation in the Commercial and Industrial loop. Carnegie Steel and the Reick-McJunkin nines will tangle at Etna, and Gimbels will meet Kaufmanns at Garfield Park. Both games have considerable bearing on the league standing. Whichever club loses at Etna can be counted out of the second half race, while Gimbels realize that Kaufmanns must be beaten, if they want to stay in the lead.

GRAYS ON TOUR

The Homestead Grays resume their series with the Massillon Agathons at Coshocton, O., today and play the same team at Charleston, W. Va., tomorrow and Wednesday and at Dennison, O., Thursday. On Friday the Grays open a four-game Negro League series with the Bacharach Giants, of Atlantic City, at Forbes Field, finishing with a game at the same place Saturday afternoon and a double-headed in Cleveland Sunday. On Saturday, also, the Grays will meet Homewood in a twilight game at the Homewood playgrounds.

Dan Rooney is scheduled to play his last game with the North Side Civics in the City League against Book Shoe at the Civics' grounds tomorrow evening prior to returning to St. Bonaventure College, where he is studying for the priesthood.

W. O. W. WINS

The crack W. O. W. nine, Greater Pittsburgh champion, defeated the Stephens club yesterday afternoon in a second-round elimination game by a score of 4 to 1. The pitching of Dunn, who checked the Homesteaders with six hits, was a feature of the game. J. Cholko walloped a home run over the leftfield fence at the Rox grounds. The score:

The North Side Civics scored a run in the ninth inning to defeat the Stowe Civics in a City League tussle yesterday, 6 to 5. Walter Heidler pitched a steady game, being touched for only six safe hits. Toby Uansa bagged a home run.

The Homestead Grays won a close 10-inning victory over the Youngstown Oaklands at Youngstown, 10 to 9. Ingomar began an invasion of Ohio by defeating the Negley, O., nine, 9 to 6.

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Rained out by the heavy showers of Saturday, Russ Unger's ambitious Mount Lebanon racqueters staged a Sunday party by invading College avenue and trimming Howard Moore's patched-up court force by the count of 8 to 1. The triumph, though not unexpected, attained through its onesidedness the proportions of an upset and incidentally boosted Lebanon stock considerably in the torrid battle at present being waged for supremacy in Section II of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League.

With the exception of the initial doubles tilt, wherein George Kaufmann and Bill Hinkle pushed Unger and Ramsey to 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, ere succumbing to the superior consistency of the visitors, the Mountsmen's victories were registered in consecutive sets. Most of the tussles were reasonably close, however, particularly that wherein Kaufmann fought Blakeley to 6-3, 7-5.

Tieres, a newcomer to the College Avenue line-up, saved his mates from a whitewashing by battling up from the rear to record surprising success over Wilbur Parshley, former Lebanon captain, 1-6, 6-4, 10-8. The summary:

Singles: Unger, Mount Lebanon, defeated Hinkle, College avenue, 6-3, 6-4; Blakeley, Mount Lebanon, defeated Kaufmann, College avenue, 6-3, 7-5; Rumsey, Mount Lebanon, defeated Walton, College avenue, 6-2, 6-3; Alcorn, Mount Lebanon, defeated Keller, College avenue, 6-4, 6-3; Hartman, Mount Lebanon, defeated Mitchell, College avenue, 6-1, 6-1; Tieres, College avenue, defeated Parshley, Mount Lebanon, 1-6, 6-4, 10-8.

Doubles: Unger and Rumsey, Mount Lebanon, defeated Kaufmann and Hinkle, College Avenue, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2; Blakeley and Alcorn, Mount Lebanon, defeated Walton and Keller, College avenue, 6-3, 6-0; Parshley and Hartman, Mount Lebanon, defeated Moore and Mitchell, College avenue, 6-3, 6-3.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—The greatest threat to Carl Kauffman, of Pittsburgh, for the past two years public links title holder, in this year's championship, which opens tomorrow over the Forest Park links, seems to be Frank Aylward, long putting representative of Kansas City. Alyward, who was runner up in this year's Missouri amateur, turned in a 73 yesterday, which was as good as Kauffman's card.

The seventeenth hole proved the nemesis of many of the more than 100 of the 144 entrants who tried the course yesterday. The hole is mostly lake, as a lagoon 160 yards wide, is the fairway.

Gus Fetz, Chicago, and Bob Held, of St. Louis, who led the local district qualifiers, each turned in cards of 74, while St. Lauos' Japanese entry, Togo Hamamoto, was home in 76. Most of the other scores which could be learned were in the 80's.

Local Driver Hurt In New Jersey Race

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Only three of the 10 starters finished the 100-mile automobile race on the board speedway here yesterday. Lou Moore, of Los Angeles, Cal., led the field across the finish line. Zeke Meyers, Germantown, Pa., was second, followed by Bill Albertson, of Penn Yan, N. Y.

Vic Jackson, of Pittsburgh, was slightly injured when his machine lost the rear left wheel while fighting it out with Meyers for third place.

MACKS, CUBS ADD STRENGTH TO POSITIONS

Associated Press.

The week-end fighting along the major league front was all in favor of the two leading teams; not very much, it is true, but still in their favor.

With the Pirates rained out on Saturday and idle yesterday, the Cubs occupied their time by turning back the Brooklyn Robins in two games, and so stretching the Chicago lead to six and one-half games. The Mackmen played a bruising 8-to-8 tie with the Browns on Saturday and took their ease yesterday, while the Yanks were dividing a pair with the industrious Indians. This left the margin of the Mackmen at 11½ games, just where it was 48 hours ago, but with the important difference that one game of the lead was transferred from the relatively non-essential won column to the vital line of figures detailing games lost.

SET FAST GAIT

The Yankees now have lost 10 games more than the flying Macks, who are moving at a gait which might possibly level that 23-year-old record of 116 games won by the Cubs of Frank Chance.

Some 55,000 of the faithful turned out on the Sabbath to see the Yankees fend off their current jinx team, the Cleveland Indians. The champions hit hard behind old Tom Zachary in the opener to win by 12 to 0, but a general pitching blow-up in the second clash saw the Indians score by 14 to 6. Young Wes Ferrell was knocked from the box, but so were Herb Pennock and other Yankees. The Indians got nine in the ninth to pull out the decision.

MORRIS STARS

Ed Morris held the recumbent White Sox to two small hits to win by 3 to 0. The Red Sox had a fine hitting afternoon with 17 safe drives. The Detroit Tigers closed out the American League program by winning a rough double-header from the Senators at Washington, 10 to 5 and 12 to 11.

The mad dash of the Cubs continued yesterday when Uncle Wilbert Robinson dared to expose a left-hander, William Watson Clark, to the fire of the Bruins. Clark did very well against the heavy guns of the Chicago array, but succumbed by 6 to 4 when Charlie Grimm, the only left-handed swinger on the McCarthy club, connected for a single with men on second and third in the seventh.

RIGGS HITS HOMER

Riggs Stephenson contributed a home run to the Chicago attack, while Kiki Cuyler came through with two singles and a double. Sheriff Fred Blake attended to the sniping for Boss McCarthy, and although the Robins swung at him persistently, he rose to each emergency. Some 40,000 happy Chicagoans saw the battle.

Pitching his side arm ball from whatever background of white shirts a small Sunday crowd at St. Louis provided, Sylvester Johnson blanked the Boston Braves by a score of 5 to 0. Art Delaney was something of a problem for the home boys, but permitted the Cards to bunch their few blows. Ernest Ornatti struck the home run zone.

Jakie May subjugated the hard-swinging Phillies to win by 7 to 1 at Cincinnati in the remaining National League contest. The Phils mustered only five safe blows against Johnson, while the Reds were combing Willoughby and Collins for 11.

EDDIE MODRAK, pitching for the St. Adelbert club, yesterday fanned 17 of the Kokino Cardinals as the Saints took a 6-to-3 victory.

Some Sport Trickery

As Pictured by HARDIN BURNLEY

FROM lead foil bandaging, that puts the cutting kick of an ancient cestus into a modern boxing glove, to the so-called "emery ball," which baffled hundreds of baseballers until its banishment, is a far leap, yet both artifices come under the general heading of "sport trickery."

To make the fistic blow deadlier, to add zip to a baseball's curve, to inject necessary extra steam into a selling plater for a race track coup—these and countless other phases of sport are ever subject to more or less "phenagling," as fandom commonly calls orthodox trickery.

Some of these sharp practices are almost ethical, but most of them range the borders of every crime, from grand larceny to homicide.

Of course, the famous Russ Ford's use of emery to make his speeders hop mysteriously by no means puts his picture in baseball's rogues' gallery. Ford was within the rules then existing or, at least, his "emery" stunt could be defended without any resort to criminal law. The spitball was in vogue and, if anything, those emery shoots were cleaner variations of salivaed efforts to increasing pitching efficiency. Indeed, Ford's discovery proved one of the smartest of all diamond ideas, even though it finally was ruled out.

Boxing lore is crammed with odoriferous trickery and also much more or less legitimate "smart stuff." In the latter category take the glossy-haired Kid Chocolate as a glistening example. He sports more hair-dressing than Walter Hagen, if that be possible. And how that oil pours over his face, neck, shoulders, arms and chest soon after he warms to action! The rules prohibit oiling—but once Kid Chocolate starts to shed his sheiky varnish, he's as easy to hit squarely as greased lightning. Wonder who'll be the first to make him shave (or dry) his head!

Of course, rumor and legend undoubtedly exaggerated ring trickery. Fitz was always denying that his bandages were ever lined with plaster of paris; and, to this day, Dempsey has to repudiate the story that lead foil wrapping helped him cut down Jess Willard in jigtime.

Football, too, is full of "Mickey Finn" stratagems, the most famous of all involving the Carlisle Indian who cantered through a Harvard team for a touchdown with the ball tucked under his sweater. And then there are the grid's "queer" ball incidents. Surely it would take a corps of coroners and surgeons to dissect the darker legends of gridiron trickeries.

Although rumor and legend grossly exaggerate, a brief list of sports' authentic trickeries would fill a tome or two.

CENTRAL LEGION TITLE GAME TODAY

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Rain and another disqualification interfered with the central division final in the Pennsylvania championship round of the American Legion national junior baseball tournament Saturday with the result that the third entrant in the state finals starting here tomorrow will not be known until late today.

The York team made the trip to Shamokin Saturday for what was to have been the deciding game in the central division, only to learn that the Shamokin nine had been disqualified. In view of this action, the divisional officials decided that the representatives from the central part of the state would be decided in a game here today between York and Huntingdon, the latter having been eliminated in an earlier game with Shamokin.

Unlontown and Minersville will meet the winner of the York-Huntingdon game in the state finals tomorrow or Wednesday.

HUNTING EXPENSIVE

The hunting season in New Mexico lasts 10 days and a fee of $15 is charged out-of-staters.

FAIRMONT COPS MID-ATLANTIC LOOP LEAD

Associated Press.

The Fairmont club, champion of the Middle Atlantic League last year, is making a strong bid to win the 1929 second half pennant, and thus engage the first half winner—Charleroi—for the season title. The competition, however, is close, with all but Clarksburg and Johnstown as serious contenders so far.

The Black Diamonds won all five games played last week, the only team to come through without a defeat. In compiling this perfect record, the Phillips crew knocked out 36 runs to lead the circuit in tallies for the seven-day period beginning Sunday, July 28.

STOGIE HITTERS LEAD

The Wheeling Stogies, in winning four out of six games, or one more than played by Fairmont, was high in hits with 63. This was one more safety than annexed by the Black Diamonds.

Scottdale continued to harvest a crop of errors, making 15 last week to 20 for the preceding week. The Scots, however, won four out of six games and in doing so made 34 runs and 62 hits.

The eight teams batted out .24 home runs, Wheeling and Jeannette collecting the greatest number—five each.

START WEEK RIGHT

Yesterday the Black Diamonds hopped off on what they confidently hope will be another week of unbroken victories by defeating Wheeling at Wheeling, 4 to 2. Trader's relief hurling saved the game for Fairmont.

Johnstown knocked Scottdale out of the league lead, winning a 7-to-3 victory at Johnstown. Six passes and an error and a fielder's choice in the second inning gave the Johnnies the game.

Cumberland defeated Charleroi at Cumberland, Coalington's hit in the seventh inning with two men on the bases bringing the Colts a 3-to-2 win.

At Clarksburg, the Generals defeated the Jeannette Jays 9 to 3, hammering out four runs in the first inning.

WHOSE TRICK "EMERY BALL" DROVE THE BATTERS CRAZY UNTIL HIS SECRET WAS DISCOVERED AND THE FREAK PITCH BARRED---

CIRCUIT RACES AT CLEVELAND TODAY

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—Another renewal of the Champion Stallion Stake will be raced this week at Cleveland where the Grand Circuit will put on a three-day meeting, opening today, before the horses are shipped East to Hartford for a trip over the Eastern loop of the mile track organization. Last year the contest for this stake, which is sponsored by the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders, was made memorable by the disqualification of Fireglow, followed by his death, apparently from poison.

At the time Fireglow was in Walter Cox's stable and it is possible he may drive the winner this year, as in Walter Dear, Volomite and Miss Woerner, he has three of the best youngsters that have been seen in colt stakes.

Although there will be no wagering on the races, due to Sheriff M. E. J. Hanratty's ban on betting in all its forms at race tracks in the Cleveland district, Cuyahoga County, the meeting is expected to be a popular one, with the Champion Stallion Stake and the Rainy Day and Home Brew events drawing the crowds. Both will be contested tomorrow.

M'CARTHY LATE WITH KICK

Shotton. "When I signaled to wait it out, Chuck stumped around the box and didn't resume until he made me give him the sign again. He wanted to hit."

John McGraw, on top of a brief scouting trip, is due here today in time to lead his club against the Pirates. In view of their physical condition and their position it might be just as well to count the Giants out—but don't do this within earshot of the New York boss.

McGRAW HOPEFUL

McGraw is still so intent upon winning games he sent Carl Hubbell to Pittsburgh in advance, the idea being to get the clever left-hander against the Pirates in the opening and closing games, out wet weather spoiled the plan.

If Fred Lindstrom is out for a long period, the men of McGraw may have to get the breaks to finish in the last money position, which is fourth place.

The Cubs soon must face another real test—the ordeal of an Eastern trip. On their last invasion of the Seaboard the Bears turned savagely on their critics who said they were not a good road team. Their tour was almost as impressive as the Pirates. Marse Joe seems to have his pitchers in better shape than they have been at any time this year. And that is always a good sign. The Cubs, by the way, appear to have made a tenstrike when they landed Catcher Zack Taylor of the Braves.

Labor Day Races Carded at Butler

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 5. — Leading dirt track automobile racers of the tri-state district will compete here in the annual Labor Day 100-lap event over the Butler County Fair Ground Association track. The entry list is expected to total 18.

The event here on Labor Day will be the closing feature dirt-track race of the season for this section of the country, and, as it annually ranks with the leading races of the season, is expected to be of unusual interest this year.

They warned us against the word "SPIT"

But—

we felt that smokers should know the truth about spit-tipped cigars

Within the memory of nearly every smoker is a picture of some old, filthy cigar shop where the man in the window rolled the leaves with dirty fingers . . . and spit on the ends.

Cigars turned out under such conditions may endanger health. Why take chances? Why risk your health when Certified Cremo offers you the finest smoke enjoyment plus the sanitary cleanliness of certified foods . . . a cigar endorsed by Alfred W. McCann?

Over $7,000,000 was spent in perfecting the method of manufacture which puts Certified Cremo miles ahead in sanitary goodness. Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by U. S. Government approved methods. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that fill, wrap and tip Certified Cremo without the menace of spit!

Certified Cremo leaves are the choicest, tenderest that the crop affords, all ripe and mellow. Each leaf goes through a slow, expensive maturing process that develops the fullest flavor and mildness.

There isn't a bit of scrap in Certified Cremo . . . not a trace of floor sweepings. All long filler . . . all fresh, tender leaves . . . and topped off with the finest imported Sumatra wrapper.

Crush-proof . . . immaculate . . . foil-wrapped . . . Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar that the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly had in mind when he said: "What this country needs most is a good 5-cent cigar."

Certified For Your Protection

by Alfred W. McCann, D. Litt., A. B., LL.D., noted pure food expert, long active in crusades for pure foods and sanitary factories.

"Most diseases enter the body through the mouth . . . but I emphatically say that no smoker of Cremo ever runs this risk. Because the method of manufacture aims to give Cremo the same standard of purity that pasteurization gives to milk."

STOCKS REACT AS MONEY GOES UP

Prices Slide When Rate Is Boosted to 12 Per Cent; Market Closes Heavy

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Heavy buying of the public utilities, a dozen of which soared to new high records, featured the mixed price movement in today's stock market.

Motor, copper, railroad and amusement shares presented several points of strength, but the rallies invariably brought increased offerings of stock, with the result that but few of the gains were fully maintained. Trading started off at a terrific pace, but slowed down when soft spots cropped out in several sections of the list.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent, but subsequent calling of loans resulted in an increase to 12. A rise in the London rate, it was pointed out, might mean the withdrawal of foreign balances from New York and have a direct bearing on our own credit situation, which continues tight at a period when normal conditions would call for relatively easy rates.

CHAINS SHOW GAINS

Except for another batch of favorable earnings statements, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. Chain store companies reporting seven months sales, made a particularly good comparison with the corresponding period last year.

Wide fluctuations took place in some of the public utility stocks. Laclede Gas sold off 5½ points to 304½, soared to a new high at 325 and then fell back to 310 by early afternoon. General Public Service ran up 10 points to a new high at 95. Pacific Lighting, Brooklyn Union Gas, Pacific Gas and Electric, American and Foreign Power and Southern California Edison ran up 4 to 8 points to new peak prices. Engineers Public Service, Standard Gas and Electric, Utilities Power and Light, General Gas and Electric A and Consolidated Gas also moved into new high ground. Peoples Gas, North American Company and Public Service of New Jersey sold off 2 points or more on profit taking.

WESTINGHOUSE JUMPS

Westinghouse Electric continued its spectacular advance by climbing nearly 11 points to a new high at 240, and the first preferred jumped 15 points to 230. General Electric dropped 6¼ points. Hershey Chocolate common and preferred, International Silver, American Shipbuilding and American Can also topped their previous high prices of the year, the gains ranging from 1 to 8½ points.

Establishment of a new top price for the year by New Haven at 117 and a break of 9 points in New York and Harlem were the contracting features of the railroad group. Canadian Pacific rallied briskly after being sluggish for a week or more.

Prices slid down when banks called loans and the call money rate rose to 12 per cent. General Electric dropped 8½ points, Union Carbide 6, North American 4½ and American Telephone and Telegraph 4. Many others were down from 2 to 4 points, including New York Central, Atchison, United States Steel, American Can and International Telephone and Telegraph. The close was heavy. Sales approximated 3,800,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Big arrivals of wheat at Omaha and Chicago tumbled prices headlong downward early today, with belated rains in Canada adding impetus. Receipts of wheat at Omaha today totaled 1,100 cars and in Chicago 876 cars. Opening 1¼ to 3 cents lower, wheat values afterward showed a decided further drop. Corn and oats were also weak, with corn starting ⅝ to 1½ cent off, and subsequently continuing to fail. Provisions held steady.

Reports at hand today indicated that the on-rush of newly harvested wheat to market had temporarily swamped handling facilities at Omaha. Dispatches from there said the day's receipts of wheat, estimated at 1,100 cars, had filled railroad yards to the limit and that other trains of wheat were being held back. In Chicago today's receipts of 1,211 cars were more than five times the total of a year ago. Under such circumstances and with speculative buying power here greatly reduced as compared with what has recently been the rule, prices for future deliveries gave way fast under urgent pressure of offerings.

Rains in parts of the Canadian Northwest attracted notice as a contributing force today, toward lower prices for wheat. The fact, however, that the Canadian harvest is only a week to 10 days off led to comment that it was too much to expect that 11th hour moisture could save a badly damaged crop so near to harvest time.

LONE STAR GAS UP IN LOCAL TRADING

New Stock Establishes New High Record Price; Dixie Gas Continues Its Rise

Stock displayed further strength at the opening of the new week on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today.

Fuel stocks took a more prominent position in the trading with Local Star Gas moving up to a new high record price for the new shares. Buying of the issue was in heavy volume and represented a continuance of the demand which made its appearance in the issue late last week. Rights to purchase additional shares, accruing to holders of the old stock, expire today and the strength in the new shares confirmed predictions made previously that the elimination of the rights would be followed by a stronger market for the shares.

Dixie Gas, in which there has been heavy trading for a week or more, continued its rise in the early market today and established a new high figure in the initial dealings. Dixie's earnings for the half year showed marked inprovement over the first six months of 1928 with net equal to $1.77 a share on the common. In the first half last year the earnings were equivalent to only 47 cents a share on the common.

There were no spectacular movements in the industrial section during the early trading, but most of the recent leaders displayed a firm tone. United Engineering was off fractionally from Saturday's close, but there was no noticeable selling in the stock. Screw and Bolt was in demand again, but did not break out of its recent trading range. Standard Propeller was moderately active around the best levels of the movement.

Morgan and Other Merger-Makers Should Tell Public

By B. C. FORBES

THE advantages of some big mergers are easily understood by the public. The advantages of others strike the public as being confined mainly to those engineering them.

Not enough pains have been taken by capitalists and bankers who have been effecting mergers to explain how the results will benefit the public. The reasons for important bank consolidations have been told reasonably well. But there have been gigantic industrial, public utility and other mergers without any adequate effort to convince the public why they should favor them.

Unless more and better educational work is done, the present state of mergers may bring on an unpleasant aftermath.

HERE is a sample of the kind of information and explanation which the public can grasp; it is furnished the writer by Joseph Wilshire, president of the Fleischmann Company, which figures as the backbone of a consolidation of food companies which has been sponsored by J. P. Morgan and Company.

"In this era of mergers, the value of sound economics as a basis of any combination of businesses is paramount. It would seem to the casual observer that manufacturing methods have reached so high a standard of efficiency that further savings are difficult to achieve. However, a great opportunity for lowering cost of goods to the consumer lies in the economies that can be made in a consolidation of the distributing activities of certain businesses which are combined together.

"THE delivery system of the Fleischmann company covers 13,000 towns by direct delivery, 35,000 towns by one-day package delivery. The distribution serves 30,000 bakers and from 275,000 to 300,000 grocers.

"To use this distribution system to its maximum value by employing it to deliver not only what have been known in the past as Fleischmann's products but other high grade products was the purpose of merging the Fleischmann company and other companies to be operated under the name Standard Brands Incorporated.

"Yeast is perishible. Perishable goods must reach the consumer in good condition. The Fleischmann company maintains at its distributive units unusual refrigeration facilities which enable it to distribute Fleischmann products in A-1 condition. A valuable service has thus been rendered to the people of the country and this service when expanded to embrace other food products will increase proportionately in value."

YOU and I can understand how, instead of confining this amazing distribution machinery to one small product, economy could be effected by delivering other foodstuffs at the same time. The best brains of the country are now diligently studying how the cost added between the journey from the producer to the ultimate consumer can be substantially cut. America has learned better than any other nation how to produce economically; but the problem of distributing at low cost has not yet been solved.

THERE may, therefore, be great significance underlying the entry of the powerful house of Morgan into the field of food manufacture and distribution. Standard Brands Incorporated may be destined to become a gigantic organization fashioned to fit into the improved economic machinery so early desired.

IT is not believed—at least in the financial world—that Morgan and company were inspired to put through this Fleischmann deal simply for any profit realizable by floating the consolidated company. It is believed, rather, that what is now the foremost banking house in the world has been moved by larger consideration. By the prospect of being able to further a plan calculated to render a genuine economic service—and, of course, thereby yield a profit commensurate with the service rendered.

MORGAN and company should lose no time in telling the public very frankly and fully what real service they hope to do for the public by their recent entry into the public-utility field on a billion dollar scale.

The public needs such assurance, such enlightenment. It is short-sighted to keep them in the dark.

JULY BUSINESS MORTALITY

Another month having passed, more data have been compiled giving an indication of the trend of this nation's business mortality, according to R. G. Dun & Co. The July statistics, however, disclose unusually small variations, on the whole. That is especially true of the number of commercial failures, which was 1,752 last month, or 15 less than occurred in June. For three consecutive months, numerical decreases have appeared, and the total for July is only 29 above that of a year ago. Considering the larger number of firms and individuals now engaged in mercantile enterprises, the latest exhibit is favorable. A moderate rise, however, is shown by July's liabilities of $32,425,519, comparing with the amount for June, and last month's aggregate is not far from 10 per cent in excess of that for the same period for 1928.

Over 100 Bank Mergers In Quarter

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Bank mergers in the United States during the first quarter numbered more than 100, of which 42 involved resources of $12,000,000,000, or one-sixth of the total banking resources of the country. In New York City alone during the first seven months of the year there were nine major bank consolidations.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Although trading was heavy with large blocks of stock changing hands and the ticker dropping about 20 minutes behind the market, prices today followed an uneven course on the curb exchange. The main trend was downward. The investment trusts generally gave a good account of themselves with several breaking through to new high ground.

There was little change in the money situation, call money renewing at 10. Selling was partly attributed to the conservative advices sent out over the week-end by brokerage houses with qualms about the big increase in brokers' loans. Earnings statements continued to reflect improvement in industry generally for the first six months of the year.

Widest breaks were in the Insull group of stocks which, in the last few weeks, have made sensational advances to record high prices. Middle West Utilities fell back nearly 25 and Insull Utility Investment 15. Moderate declines also were registered by Electric Investors, United Gas Improvement, American Superpower and Duke Power. Electric Bond and Share continued to press its advantage won last week, mounting more than 2, and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore moved up more than 4. Consolidated Gas of New York rights opened on a block of 50,000 unchanged at 8⅞. Commonwealth and Southern and Niagara Hudson Power were quiet.

Shenandoah Corporation common was a strong spot in the investment trust group, but Goldman Sachs trading, its sponsor, eased off. Interstate Equity held around 22½, while Transamerica, which controls Interstate's sponsor, rose more than 2. New highs were reached by Electric Power Associates, Guardian Investors, Reliance Management, Southern Corporation and Utility Equities.

Hygrade food rose more than a point. The company announced a long list of new directors and an affiliation withh Beacon Oil Company, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey subsidiary. Hygrade will operate refreshment stands at Beacon stations.

Aero Supply was quiet following announcement John J. Raskob had acquired a large interest.

Aluminum Company, which moved up 79½ points Saturday, added 15 points more today, while its subsidiary, Aluminum Limited, rose nearly 40.

Gulf Oil was the strong feature of the oils, advancing over 4 points in the face of unfavorable developments in the industry in the past week.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Baldwin Capital To Remain Same

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—Notices mailed to stockholders of Baldwin Locomotive Works disclose that stated capital upon conversion of common stock of $100 par value into common stock without par value will be $40,000,000, same as present authorized capital. The 800,000 shares of new no-par common, which will be exchanged for present 200,000 shares of $100 par will be represented by $20,000,000, and the 200,000 shares of 7 per cent $10 par value preferred will constitute the other $2,000,000.

Should stockholders approve conversion of present common into new no-par common at their meeting October 3, stockholders of record September 7 will receive on November 1 four new common shares for each old common share held. Balance of 2,000,000 new common shares authorized will remain in treasury for future corporate requirements.

COPPER MARKET IMPROVES

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—A better tone was noted in the copper market last week. Foreign demand has been maintained at a very good rate while there have been indications of reviving domestic interest. These included reported purchases of 10,000 tons by a brass fabricator to cover a large order for finished products, although other large domestic consumers have not yet re-entered the market. Purchases from abroad were estimated at 15,000 tons for the week. The quotation for electrolytic was unchanged at 18 cents delivered in the Connecticut valley.

Tin prices were quite narrow and demand from both consumers and dealers was moderate. Foreign markets also showed no particular change.

Lead was without special change. London was decidedly firm and this was said to have brought about improvement in the volume of consuming demand here, both for August and September shipment.

The zinc market was quiet and without change.

Antimony was quiet. Consumers were fair buyers recently as a result of the war scare and are now covered in the way of prompt requirements.

Record Deliveries For American Tin

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—American tin deliveries for the first seven months of the year established a new high record of 55,055 tons, an increase of more than 7,000 tons over the previous high record established in 1926. July deliveries, according to figures made public by the National Metal Exchange, totaled 6,965 tons, about 500 tons less than the record June figures, but 1,420 greater than for July last year. Deliveries so far this year indicate an annual rate of approximately 96,000 tons, which would exceed last year's deliveries by 18,000 tons.

British India Gets 2,793 Water Pumps

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Ordinary hand pumps for raising water from wells, as manufactured in the United States, are possibly articles of almost more importance in world trade than in domestic trade. The last monthly customs report shows that 2,793 such articles were shipped to British India, a notably dry country, which accounted for one-third of the total exports. Almost every other country in the world got a few pumps in the same period, 193 being credited to Turkey, 205 to South Africa and 150 to Egypt.

Marlin Rockwell Earns $3.86 Share

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Marlin Rockwell Corporation and subsidiaries report for June quarter net profit of $699,308 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equal to $1.92 a share on 363,145 common shares, against $515,190, or $1.42 a share in June quarter of 1928.

Six months net profit was $1,402,014, or $3.86 a share, compared to $965,806, or $2.66 a share in the first half of 1928.

Of the total production for June, 4,697,034,000 kwh. were generated by fuels and 3,071,756,000 kwh. by water power.

Outlook for Sheep Market Held Promising

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—The Department of Agriculture in its midsummer sheep and wool outlook report today indicated a fair outlook for the sheep industry during next year, due partly to high competing prices of other meats and to the reduction in the lamb crop this year.

Demand for wool, the report said, is expected to be well maintained in this country with some improvement in foreign demand.

The decreased slaughter of cattle and calves and the high price of beef during recent years, the report declared, has helped maintain the demand for lambs. The department expects the cattle slaughter to remain relatively small during the next two years with the relative continuation of the higher demand for lamb.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 3 to 5 points on buying promoted by reports of continued hot weather in the Southwest, but the demand was limited and prices soon weakened under realizing or liquidation.

October contracts sold off from 19.04c to 18.88c and March from 19.45c to 19.32c by the end of the first half hour, making net declines of about 6 to 10 points.

A private report was published placing the condition of the crop at 70 per cent and the indicated yield at 15,378,000 bales, which was very closely in line with the average of the private reports published last week.

Owing to the holiday there were no cables from Liverpool, where the market will reopen for business tomorrow.

The market eased off to 18.82 for October and 19.26 for March later in the morning or about 14 to 15 points net lower. There was enough buying at these figures to absorb the immediate offerings and cause rallies of a few points.

At midday trading was quiet, with the active months showing net declines of 6 to 12 points.

Two more private crop reports were issued, one of them making the condition 69.5 and the indicated yield 15,442,000, while the other placed the condition at 69.4 and the indicated yield at 15,390,000 bales.

International Silver Kites on Market as Earnings Show Increase.

INTERNATIONAL Silver was among the selected stocks to run into new high ground during the day. One of the largest silverware manufacturers in the country, this company is experiencing a much heavier demand for its products than in previous years, with net profits for the first half year running at the rate of $4.84 a share, or an increase of some 70 per cent over the same period last year when earnings were equivalent to $2.91 a share. The bulk of earnings are as might be expected, rolled up in the final half year coincident with the holiday season. The company earned $13.54 a share for 1928, $10.63 of which was reported for the final six months. With only about 91,200 common shares outstanding, it is conservatively estimated that earnings for the full year of 1929 will run well above $16 a share.

Endicott Johnson has suffered a substantial decline in the stock market since its earnings statement for the June half was published showing a sharp reduction in net income. However, a good part of the decrease was attributable to exceptionally large charge-offs which have strengthened the company's position and improved the outlook for a good earnings showing for the last half of the year. This prospect is heightened by a large inflow of orders in the late spring which necessitated capacity operations in the sole leather and uppers leather tanneries. Sales are running about 10 per cent ahead of a year ago and output is around 120,000 shoes a day. Firmer hide prices have helped to strengthen the tone of the shoe and leather industry. Endicott is steadily expanding its lines, particularly in women's footwear.

COINCIDENT with reports that plans for consolidation of power and light properties on the Pacific Coast are moving briskly and that early announcement of some such deals is likely, traders gave increasing attention to shares of companies operating in that area.

Pacific Gas and Electric and Pacific Lighting, two potential participants to any such plan, were in brisk demand. Buying in Pacific Lighting of late has been ascribed to interests back of consolidation plans. Pacific Gas and Electric by reason of the fact that it is already well interconnected with other properties both on the North and South, tieing in with the San Joaquin Power Company on the south would fit nicely into any big consolidation. The San Joaquin Power Company incidentally is owned by the Western Power Company, which in turn is controlled by North American Company.

Utilities again presented the strongest front as a group, with buying assuming aggressive proportions in many directions and a number of new highs being established. Evidently for the reason that the floating supply of most of the power and light issues has been whittled down as a result of inter-company buying, to more or less nominal proportions, this group is readily responsive to operations for the rise, on more than one occasion, when reaction appeared to threaten the general list, sudden strength in the utilities has tended to check selling. Strength in that group served to good purpose in that respect again today, when the market rendered nervous by fresh tightening in money and the circulation of the time-worn rumor of Secretary's Mellon's resignation being close, appeared to run into some selling.

NOT a little of the selling which made itself felt in the course of the day was influenced by the revival of rumors that Secretary Mellon's resignation as head of the treasury was an early possibility. Perhaps the element of time brings this development progressively nearer, but indications are that Mr. Mellon will not be in any great hurry about relinquishing his office. Such rumors, though denied in the past as often as they have cropped out, have served the purpose of the bears well in some instances. The head of the treasury is not now in Washington, but high officials there were quoted as usual as holding such reports without foundation in fact.

The market had also to cope with a good deal of disconcerting talk about the Bank of England discount rate. Inasmuch as Governor Norman will be home for Thursday's weekly meeting, those who are satisfied that the peak's position calls for a higher rate are anticipating an advance at that time. London's financial leaders are quoted in cables as suggesting that a higher rate is essential and seemingly unavoidable, pointing out that gold reserves are now down from last September's high of £173,659,000 to below £142,610,000, the lowest since the gold standard was reestablished in 1925. The British bank rate, however, while an advance might tend to draw home some London funds now being employed here, is not viewed as bearing so directly on our situation as was the case when London raised its rate in February. Then it was considered possible the local bank rate might also be increased but presently no apprehension is felt on the latter score.

Political Stability Means Increased Opportunity to Expand Export Business

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—American export opportunities have been brightened by a new vogue of political stability in Latin America, including the tropical countries in the Caribbean area.

One factor in making revolutions less popular has been the introduction of modern economic advantages, which depend on uninterrupted steamboat service. The larger companies order their ships to avoid ports in revolt, and people in ferment are accordingly seriously inconvenienced.

Samuel Crowther, in "The Romance and Rise of American Tropics," says:

"The Caribbean countries are in transition. They have passed rather definitely from the period of soldier of fortune and continuous political revolution to the period of the American engineer and comparative political stability. Th potential wealth of these countries is being developed in a broad and scientific manner. Wealth and purchasing power are being created as they were created in the United States. The great American experiment is being tried—and is succeeding. An economic conception is making a conquest.

"The conquest has been so utterly confused with political conquest and with imperialism that a statement of it based upon personal investigation seemed important as a contribution to the understanding of the position of the United States in world affairs."

STABLE GOVERNMENTS

Victor Cutter, president of the United Fruit Company, believes that Latin America is on the verge of a great economic expansion.

"At the present time," he points out, "their governments are more stable than ever before. Only in a few minor instances are there likely to be serious political disturbances. It must be remembered that only during the past quarter-century have means of communication developed to a sufficient extent to make possible reasonably efficient administration of law and order through the vast territories in question.

"However, with law and order established and means of communication at hand, the whole of Latin-America is on the threshold of an economic development which will astound the world. It is certain the next ten years will witness greater economic progress than all the years since the Spanish conquest.

"It is time for business men, not to engage in propaganda, but to state the facts, and even better, to act, to study the situation and prepare to increase our business relations with the vast trading area in Latin-America which is of the greatest importance to our bankers and business men.

"No sensible business man of today is imperialistic, because imperialism is an outworn policy from an economic, political, or any other point of view. Our government has on several occasions plainly stated that its aims are not imperialistic. It has also stated that it is ready to protect its citizens and their property in foreign countries when they deserve protection."

TARIFF DANGEROUS

Cultivation of satisfactory trade relations with the tropics entails an obligation to appreciate their problems and help them build up their purchasing power. The tariff makers in Congress have been somewhat oblivious of these considerations. The proposed higher sugar tariff, for example, threatens the economic welfare of the Island of Cuba, which wants to be a good customer.

LEARN SPANISH

A tip to ambitious young men: Learn Spanish. The idea was popular 15 years ago, but the European war delayed the economic renaissance of Latin America, which is now at hand.

FARM BOARD TEST

George O. Williams, vice president and treasurer of the Chicago Joint Stock Land Bank, in a message to this column, suggests an interesting index for measuring the success of the newly created Federal Farm Board.

"If you care to check up on the progress of the welfare of the farmer during the operation of the new farm board," he points out, "it can be done simply and without much effort by making a record of market quotations for a few leading crops and livestock and comparing them with quotations of the main staples which the farmer buys.

"If the spread between the things the farmer buys and the things he sells increases the problem is being solved. If not, nothing is being accomplished regardless of how high a price is obtained for farm products. This is generally recognized as the crux of the matter."

Alexannder Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, indicated in his speech at Baton Rouge that such a test would be a fair one.

HAUT-KATANGA PRODUCTION GROWING

Big Belgian Congo Copper Property Increasing Importance As World Factor.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Copper production of Union Miniere du Haut-Katanga was increased 51,367,394 pounds in 1928, this following an increase of 18,775,255 pounds in 1927. Production of 140,873,940 pounds during the first six months of this year indicates a further increase of 34,000,000 pounds in 1929, and plant capacity is nearly completed, which should add 60,000,000 pounds more to output next year.

Analysis of the figures in Union Miniere's annual report gives the following:

	1928	1927
Production (lbs)	274,920,050	196,552,656
Profit (Belg fr)	395,904,393	212,957,908
Value of franc	2.779c	2.789c
Profit in dollars	$11,002,183	$5,939,398
Tons ore mined	1,911,000	1,730,000
Yield (lbs a ton)	129.73	113.60
Cost a pound	10.133c	9.90c
Ore reserves, tons	*	78,491,000
Average grade	*	6.93%

*Reserves of ore are not given specifically in the 1928 report as previously, it merely being stated they amount to "some 78,000,000 tons of copper ore containing more than 5,000,000 tons of copper."

COST PROBLEMATICAL

There is no way of arriving at an approximation of Union Miniere's copper cost except by subtracting the apparent profit a pound from average selling price. By this method cost of production was 10.133 cents. How large a portion of this cost represents construction expense, cannot be determined, but it evidently was substantial. In all probability actual cost of production was much lower than is above indicated.

Out of last year's profits a gross dividend of 300 francs was paid on the capital and dividend shares. This is reduced by taxation to 249 francs ($6.92), against 182.6 francs a share the two preceding years.

Last year the company sold 42 grams of radium, against 26 grams in 1927. Its production of tin was larger, 419 tons, against 300 tons, and its output of cobalt in various forms and alloys was 450 tons, comparing with 350 tons the preceding year.

RADIUM SALES

Union Miniere's copper production the first half of this year exceeded that of any full year prior to 1924.

COPPER PROGRAM

Expectation now is that the leaching plant will go into commission by the end of this year and have an output of 30,000 metric tons of electrolytic copper annually. While no definite forecast has been made public, it appears likely that production will be about 282,000,000 pounds of copper this year, and more than 340,000,000 pounds next year.

When the last section of the railway being built within the Belgian Congo to connect with the completed Benguela Railway is finished, probably some time next year, equipment of Union Miniere's western mines will be undertaken.

POTENTIAL OUTPUT

It will take some years to bring them to full productive capacity, but they should be a contributing factor to an increase which ultimately should bring output up to 500,000,000 pounds of copper a year.

The plan being worked out and approaching fruition promise to reduce cost of delivering Union Miniere copper in Europe to 8 cents a pound if not less.

Crown Zellerbach Mills at Capacity

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—Pulp and paper mills of the Crown Zellerbach Corporation are maintaining capacity production schedules, according to J. D. Zellerbach, executive vice president of the paper concern. The program of improvements of Pacific Mills, Ltd., a subsidiary, with plant in Ocean Falls, B. C., is progressing satisfactorily and the plant is now in full operation. Increase in the power output will insure against possible shutdowns of this plant, Zellerbach stated.

Dixie Gas Profits Reflect Expansion

The Dixie Gas and Utilities Company during the latter months of this year will show increased profits due to establishment of gas service in seven new towns and the closing of an important wholesale contract. Franchises to supply gas have been obtained during the current year in seven additional towns in Eastern Texas, including Lufkin, one of the most progressive towns in that section. Sales of gas to six of these towns will begin on or about September 1.

Blaw Knox Official Feted at Luncheon

Samuel Harden Church gave a luncheon today at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association in honor of Albert C. Lehman, president of the Blaw Knox Company. Other guests, 22 in number, included officials and directors of the Union and Lewis Foundry and Machine Companies, all of which were recently merged with the Blaw Knox Company. Mr. Church was recently made a director of the company.

River Coal Tonnage Shows Slight Drop

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 5.—Coal shipments on the Monongahela River in July aggregated 1,234,560 tons, a decrease of 10,000 tons over the previous month's shipments. The Monongahela Railway Company handled 1,771,980 tons of coal, practically the same tonnage as in June.

Iron Ore Output For Season High

ST. PAUL, Aug. 5.—Minnesota iron ore production for this season to July 1 was 15,670,744 tons, with indications that a new production record will be established by the end of the season, according to Ray P. Chase, state auditor. For the corresponding period last year 10,082,900 tons had been mined.

Largest amount ever mined in one season was taken out in 1916 when a record of 46,199,030 tons was made. In 1923 this mark was nearly reached, with a total of 45,313,806.

Mr. Chase's figures for this year are based on royalty payments to the state amounting to $954,000. Receipts of this sum brings the state's permanent trust fund, used chiefly for education, to $69,844,210.

OIL PROSPECTS GLOOMY

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—News of the oil industry continues to be unfavorable, with reports from the trade circles indicating that a general reduction in mid-continent prices will be made shortly. Developments of the past week appear to bear out such a possibility, as another 25 per cent reduction in Pennsylvania crude was announced, while Chicago wholesale gasoline prices weakened further, present quotations of 7¼ to 7½ cents a gallon, comparing with 10-cent level of a few months ago. Weekly crude production figures again reached a new peak, output being almost 22 per cent ahead of a year ago. The industry in the next 90 days will enter what might be considered a test period. It will demonstrate whether the Lyons law, which goes into effect August 31, will result in a 200,000-barrel reduction in California output as has been predicted, as well as what the attitude of the Oklahoma and Texas producers will be. Whereas current large output is partly offset by peak seasonal consumption, this balancing influence will tend to lessen as fall approaches.

More Miles From Tires.
Make your old tires help you pay for the new! It may be economy for you to buy new tires when the old ones show wear, but it's needless waste to throw the old ones away.
There are many hundreds, even thousands, of miles of service still in them —and many auto owners who have the time and mechanical ability are seeking just such as you have been throwing away.
So advertise your used tires in the Classified Ads—it's economy for you, and economy for those who come to buy.

BUGS BAER Says

WE WON'T DODGE THIS JURY

IN another article, we spoke about our jury-system, which is prevalent wherever English is spoken in a whisper.

"Bugs" Baer

We said that if you admit you knew anything about the case in question, a husky tipstaff boots you through a beautiful, stain-glassed, memorial window, dedicated to moderation, toleration and the fine arts.

The jury system dates back to the time of Oscar the Great, who was a king while the job was healthy.

Later on, Oscar was dethroned by a jury consisting of everybody but himself.

But he became famous as the man who invented shadowing the witnesses.

Oscar used to toss a shadow on them that was six feet thick.

In medieval times, which are not very recent, Oscar tried all complaints by jury. He picked men who knew something about the case and who knew the litigants.

The result was that all juries consisted of 12 good neighbors, and who.

Now, the juries have been getting too neighborly.

Resulting in various investigations and a sealed verdict endorsing the weather reports.

In order to get selected for jury duty now, you must possess a poll tax receipt and profound ignorance.

If you admit that you know either contestant, you inherit a rollicking challenge from the opposition.

If you concede that you have read about the case in the papers, the judge smacks you with a judicious gavel.

And, if you are so reckless as to confess that you have formed an opinion on the matter, then, that is the kid's last, wise crack.

The reason why we have been studying this jury business is because we want to be on one when our milkman is tried for malfeasance in office and other political attainments.

We told that cow professor to stop our daily quart of milk while we were away during June and July.

We come back on August the Once. And there on the front veranda was exactly 61 quart bottles of milk.

He stopped the milk all right. But only when he couldn't get any more on the porch.

And of all those quarts, the only drinkable one was the last.

We tried them all. And if you want a sweet, tasty dish, just sample a quart of milk that has been standing on the porch for 61 days and nights, inclusive.

It was a tough job testing all the milk. But we are a man who never gives up without a struggle.

Frisby posed at entrance to Mammoth Cave.

MAMMOTH CAVE, KY.—"Employers lose thousands of dollars yearly because of the vacation evil. Consequently I must offer a remedy."

This was Congressman Frisby's broadside delivered a few minutes after his arrival here yesterday, to autograph souvenir postcards.

"Instead of letting every worker go away for two weeks," said Frisby, "I will represent the working class, and station myself at some popular resort. I will then endeavor to send letters to friends and relatives describing my outing, and signing the names of the various employees, who may thus remain at their posts incognito. For a small fee, I will also purchase and mail souvenirs snapshots, etc. The saving to America will be too numerous to mention."

President Must Not Disregard Law in Halting Cruiser Work

IT is hard to believe that the President of the United States would attempt to suspend any part of the 15 10,000-ton cruiser program passed by the last Congress in any way other than the law allows.

Nevertheless, Senator Swanson, of Virginia, ranking Democratic member of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, performs a timely public service in calling the country's attention to the limitations which the law imposes upon the power of the President in this vital business. Mindful of the fact that the President, under our system of government, is as much the servant of the law as the humblest citizen, Senator Swanson says:

"Congress made this appropriation for those cruisers and directed the President to expend the money in this fiscal year and no discretion is left him in this matter. He can expend it for this purpose any time he may deem proper during the fiscal year from July 1, 1929, to June 30, 1930. But he is compelled to begin the work and any amount unexpended is still available.

"The President has no authority to suspend this appropriation except upon the completion of an international agreement which must be ratified under the Constitution before it becomes effective.

"Efforts were made in the Senate to eliminate the time limit, to extend the time limit, and to give the President authority to expend the sums appropriated under the appropriation as he may deem proper. All these efforts were overwhelmingly defeated and the Senate decided that five cruisers must be begun in each one of the three years named in the authorization bill.

"It is left to Congress to determine whether the appropriation shall or shall not be made under the authorization and to what amount.

"This is clearly the legal situation. To hold otherwise would be to surrender to the President the power of appropriation which under the Constitution belongs to Congress."

And the law of Congress in this matter is re-enforced by the law of logic. As Senator Swanson further points out, any intimation that our cruiser program is to be suspended "emphasizes the impression held by Great Britain that the United States has no intention of building the cruisers." It tempts Great Britain to believe that all she has to do "is to delay matters and negotiate to keep the present status which gives her navy an overwhelming superiority over ours."

The sooner the administration makes it clear to all the world that no delay has been ordered in carrying out the cruiser program and that none will be except in the way that Congress by law has directed the better it will be for Anglo-American relations as well as for the peace of the world.

When President Hoover said the other day that he would not lay the keels of the three cruisers in this year's construction program, which has been undertaken in government navy yards, "until there has been opportunity for full consideration of their effect upon the final agreement for parity which we expect to reach," he was doubtless resorting to a sympathetic gesture by way of reply to a similar gesture from Prime Minister MacDonald.

This the President could do without disregarding the law, because the plans for these three cruisers will not be completed until late in the autumn and the prime minister expects to come here for his conference in October.

Senator Swanson's statement, however, clears the air. And it should open the eyes of all those who mistook a friendly gesture for a disregard of the plainly written law.

Friendly gestures no do harm provided they "keep within the law."

Flying Too Low

The Airfield Problem.

A Long Island golf course disturbed by airplanes taking off from Roosevelt Field near by plans to protect itself as follows:

Steel towers, 103 feet high, with steel cables stretched between them, will be built along the golf course to stop airplanes flying too low.

Golfers complain that they are compelled to lie down to avoid the airplanes.

There is probably exaggeration in this, and aviation is more important than golfing.

But it will be necessary eventually to segregate air field activities in large areas separate from golf courses and more especially from dwellings occupied by children and from highways crowded with automobiles.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WE come into the world little savages.

For the first year or two we haven't the slightest conception of the rights of the other fellow or our duty to the rest of the world. Unless we're properly trained, we never acquire any conception of our duty. Civilization doesn't just happen to us. It has to be thrust upon us, in the face of a lot of lively opposition. But with wise guidance we should be fairly well adjusted to life by the time we're three.

Virginia MacMakin Collier, in her book, "Marriage and Careers," says: "Among educators and child psychologists three years is generally considered a definite transition point in the child's life. Even a three-year-old can button all but the middle back buttons. He can lace his own shoes even if he cannot tie them and in some cases he can be trusted to wash his own hands without flooding the bathroom. He has learned to get his way by other means than tantrums and he is known, in many cases, to be a more or less peaceable and independent little citizen, becoming more and more adjusted to the life situation as he advances toward five years."

"He can button up"—that means a lot. It means that the child of three should not only be able to button up the knobs on his small clothes but he should be beginning to button up the knobs of his disposition—fasten it together—keep it within bounds.

That should be the record of a normal child of three. BUT HOW MANY PEOPLE OF THIRTY DO YOU KNOW WHO CAN BE TRUSTED TO BUTTON THEMSELVES UP AND KEEP THEMSELVES WITHIN BOUNDS?

Some of us emerge from babyhood and adolescence with our button-up lessons all learned, but many of us go through life still semi-savages, a nuisance to ourselves and everyone who contacts us. We continue to try to get our own way by pouting and whining. We remain rampantly individual . . . with the baby's viewpoint.

An individual is extremely interesting to himself. His likes and dislikes, his hopes and disappointments are of supreme importance to himself. He can get a big bang out of going through life with his emotional buttons all unfastened. But, unless he's a whacking big genius, he isn't very interesting to the world. And few of us are whacking big geniuses. Even a genius is more attractive when buttoned up, and the average, low grade citizen is positively obnoxious when unbuttoned.

You and I and the rest of the Joneses are important only as we "adjust ourselves to the life situation" and learn to act regular. We're valuable only when we can be trusted to wash our own hands without flooding the social bathroom with our uncontrolled moods. Learn to button up if you don't want to face the ostracism and contempt meted out to spoiled babies.

Bible Passages

The Guide

(St. John 16: 1-15.)

THESE things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended.

They shall put you out of the synagogues: yea, the time cometh, that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service.

And these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father, nor me.

But these things have I told you, that when the time shall come, ye may remember that I told you of them. And these things I said not unto you at the beginning, because I was with you.

But now I go my way to him that sent me; and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou?

But because I have said these things unto you, sorrow hath filled your heart.

Nevertheless I tell you the truth; it is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you.

And when he is come, he will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness and of judgment:

Of sin, because they believe not on me:

Of righteousness, because I go to my Father, and ye see me no more;

Of judgment, because the prince of this world is judged.

I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now.

Howbeit, when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come.

He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

All things that the Father hath are mine: therefore said I, that he shall take of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

The Wise Man's Books

THE wise are not content to pore
On thoughts that others gleaned before.
To them Earth offers rarer lore.

These are the books the wise man reads.
Not in dim libraries he feeds
On musty volumes, time-dimmed screeds;

Instead, fair hill and valley yield
Fresh aspects, truths too long concealed
Are to the searcher's mind revealed.

Mountain and meadow, sun and star,
All nature's wonders, near and far,
To him their secret wealth unbar.

And in each life his life may meet
He reads through triumph or defeat
The hidden meaning, stern or sweet.

No printed page the wise man needs,
But glowing manuscripts he reads
Of Earth and men, their dreams and deeds.

NATIONAL development, by FORCE of CIRCUMSTANCES, is following Horace Greeley's advice.

We're slowly but surely EATING our way across the continent.

Cities keep expanding and food acreage correspondingly shrinks with the absorption of nearby agricultural areas.

States along the eastern seaboard now hardly raise a third of their table requirements.

And vast districts between the Lakes and the Gulf are importing the bulk of daily edibles.

The original colonies are running short of timber, have no copper, little iron, scant pasturage and meager dairy herds.

New York's breakfast egg seldom travels less than a thousand miles to meet grapefruit and melon. And nine out of ten strips of bacon sizzling on New England's skillets were prairie-born.

SIX years ago, Central Park added a milk cow to its zoo, because of the many Manhattan children who had never seen one in the HIDE and FLESH.

Thus, the Mississippi promises to divide the country into two economic groups—with a strictly industrial and commercial class on the one bank, and the producers of our primary needs along and beyond the other.

The West is basically self-sufficient and rich in material wealths; for which the East has become a fabricator, distributor and consumer.

From the Ohio to the Atlantic, once abundant raw products and fertilities have all but VANISHED.

If their factories and humans, thereabouts, were obliged to subsist upon LOCALLY furnished stuffs, mills by the thousands and peoples by the millions would soon die of starvation.

NEW ENGLAND would weave no woolens, Pittsburgh forge no steel, and New York would perish from famine within a fortnight.

Southern secession merely shut down Yankee looms, but should the grange regions and trans-Rocky commonwealths discontinue regular delivery of meats, vegetables, fruits, fibers, ores, pelts, fleeces, lumber and grain—denser-crowded neighborhoods would be UTTERLY prostrated.

Young men with an eye to independence—farm lads convinced that the prospects and returns of agriculture do not compare with big-city opportunities or earnings—and savings accounts searching for substantial (if long haul) profits, are earnestly advised to examine the waiting bargains spread along transcontinental lines.

FAR-SIGHTED business is parlaying its bets by erecting plants and establishing branches closer to supplies—crossing to lands of plenty, where locations can be obtained for less, where cheap and indefinite hydro-electric power is omnipresently available, and where help may be better housed and commissaried.

History, AGAIN repeating herself, reminds us how the Adamsons have habitually moved to fresh regions with the exhaustion of earlier larders.

And so MANY of these larders are depleting that, herder-like, we're COMPELLED to occupy further feeding grounds.

Times were never riper for land booms. Jim Hill WOULDN'T have let the chance slip to compete with Wall Street for a share of the surplus billions now hanging around the stock tickers.

ANTICIPATIONS OF RELATIVITY

By Archibald Henderson

NO great discovery in science is ever isolated. It is bound by invisible cords with what has gone before. Pure science is constantly bringing to light discoveries which are apparently "useless." At the time these discoveries are made, there is obvious practical application ready to hand. The discoveries are made in the orderly course of the pursuit of truth, and not for any immediately practical end. Sooner or later, a practical use of theory will be discovered. This is the complete justification of all research in pure science. We never know when "pure" science will become "applied" science.

Research workers in pure science often express a sort of contempt for applied science. On one occasion, so the story goes, after completing a highly theoretical piece of research the English mathematician, H. J. S. Smith, exclaimed: "Thank God, there is something which can never by any possibility have a practical application!" How could he know this? How could anyone prophecy this? They certainly could not foresee that the discovery would never have a practical application.

No thought of future application in a practical way inspired Bolyai and Lobatchewsky, presumably, when they were developing the non-Euclidean geometries associated with their names. Probably, little thought of practical usefulness filled the minds of Klein and Newcomb when they were evolving their notions of elliptical and spherical space. Little did Ricci and Levi-Civita, we infer, as they were unfolding it, dream of the extraordinary role in a new mechanics their theory of the absolute differential calculus was so soon to play.

Einstein, the maker of a new physics and a new cosmogony, had his anticipators and forerunners. We think first of Gauss, Riemann, Helmholtz and Clifford. Despite his dread of the "outcry of the Boeotians," Gauss triangulated in Hanover, using the peaks Inselberg, Brocken and Hoher Hagen, in the effort to discover a deviation of the sum of the angles of a large triangle from two right angles, and thus to decide between Euclidean and non-Euclidean geometry, in regard to validity in space.

Today, according to the theory of Lorentz and FitzGerald, a moving rod, of any material whatsoever, is supposed to contract a fixed percentage of its length when it is moving with a certain definite velocity in the direction of its length. Is this unreasonable? Eddington says: "The scientific rod is a swarm of electrical particles rushing about and widely separated from one another. The marvel is that such a swarm should tend to preserve any definite extension. . . . By setting in motion the rod with all the little electric charges contained in it, we introduce new magnetic forces between the particles. Clearly the original balance is upset, and the average spacing between the particles must alter until a new balance is found. And so the extension of the swarm of particles—the length of the rod—alters."

This is the view of the new electro-magnetic and molecular physics. Half a century ago, this remarkable anticipation of the theories of Lorentz and FitzGerald was advanced by the brilliant English mathematician, Clifford, in his Common Sense of the Exact Sciences: "Because a solid figure appears to us to retain the same shape when it is moved about in the portion of space with which we are acquainted, it does not follow that the figure really does retain its shape. The change of shape may be either imperceptible for those distances through which we are able to move the figure, or if they do take place we may attribute them to physical causes—to heat, light or magnetism—which may possibly be mere names for variations in the curvature of our space."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

IT must have been some of these jokes that a fellow was telling at a party one night. He was one of these guys that has studied personal magnetism by mail and was the life of the party whether the party wanted him or not. He told a lot of jokes and talked French out of one corner of his mouth while he was playing a jew's harp with the other.

When he was on the way home in a taxi with a friend of his he says, "Say, Bob, how did my jokes get across, do you think?"

"Well," says Bob, "I ain't exactly sure, but I think most of them got across on the Mayflower anyhow, and possibly Columbus brought two or three of them with him."

Able Typewriter Lady

Many Like Her Are in American Offices.

MISS JENNIE SANDISON, PLAYING TENNIS AND EARNING A LIVING

In these two pictures you see the same girl, a first-class young typist, British name for typewriter, and a first-class tennis player.

Miss Jennie Sandison is the "All-India Tennis Champion."

She came thousands of miles from India to show the British what she could do with a racquet, powerful arms and legs, and a clear head.

In the picture on the right you see her in private life in London, earning a living at her profession while waiting for the championship games.

These pictures interest young American women that are champions with the typewriter, but many unfortunately neglecting the physical, athletic side.

Miss Jennie Sandison proves that playing tennis, marvellously well, doesn't interfere with good office work, and that being an expert "typist" need not interfere with the vigorous health that championship tennis requires.

Young American typewriter ladies, let these pictures be useful to you. Remember that there are only two kinds of ability—mental and physical.

There is only one kind of quickness of nerves, eyes and muscles.

If this girl plays tennis so well it is largely because her work with the typewriter has developed co-ordination of mind, nerves and muscles.

There's is no reason why any healthy young typewriter lady shouldn't excell in some sort of athletics.

The MOST important thing, however, for EVERY girl is to excell in the greatest of all professions, that of MOTHERHOOD.

To be the mother of a first-class baby will give you more satisfaction now and entitle you to more credit hereafter than winning all the athletic championships on earth.

SO GET MARRIED and don't wait too long.

DAY BY DAY

PALM SPRINGS, Cal., Aug. 5.—This oasis in the scorched desert threatens to become another Palm Beach for winter tourists. Balzac wrote: "The desert is God without man." But today man enjoys its immensity, silence and creeping splendor in perfect comfort.

Palm Springs is on the western rim of the Colorado desert—named for the river not the state—and is sheltered from hot winds by the snow capped Mount San Jacinto. It is 452 feet above sea level and "the season" is from October to June. Smart crowds are coming here and liking it.

The climate is dry, invigorating and the average temperature at noon is 81 degrees but at night drops to 46. There is little humidity and fogs are unknown. There are two automobile roads from Los Angeles, paved the entire distance and it is an easy six hour drive.

There are oranges and grapefruit in abundance and date farms are most productive. The charm of the desert to me is in its remoteness and aura of mysticism. Especially is this true at night when it literally whispers in monotonous undertone, in wordless rhyme.

Just now the desert is an Inferno and can be endured only for a few hours by the outlander. The heat is blistering and there is the odor of dead roses in an old book but when winter comes it blooms into a flame of strange flowers and wild plants, the loveliest I ever beheld.

On the desert at dusk little streaks of fire often leap out and dance across the barren wastes, symbolic of a world bursting with heat. The moon hangs sullen like a bloated blood-red tangerine. Night winds are soft but intoxicating. It is a marvelous cradle for the dreamer.

The greatest lovers of the desert, curiously enough, are the city bound. The native professes to despise it but rarely leaves. Dawn, like night, also casts its magic spell. There is that fascinating scent of wild sage musk, the astounding brilliance of the sun casting its chromatic irridescence. And the whispers!

The Agua Caliente (hot springs) springs in Palm Springs belong to a tribe of Indians by same name. They are isolated on a reservation near-by, picturesque survivors of the white man's prowess. An Indian always touches the well spring of an almost lost emotion for me. I want to cry. To me there is a pathetic sublimity in the haughty dignity he maintains to the last. He is the most superb figure I know in defeat and deserves far more than he has received from his conquerors.

* * *

Desert vegetation is picturesquely named. Hereabouts it includes the Smoke Tree, Indigo bush, Desert Willow, Rosin Bush, Mesquite, Catclaw and Burrow weed. The cactus growth includes the Chola, Deerhorn, Hedge Hog, Prickly Pear, Fish Hook and the Hat Rack. And if you want to feel stuck up have a lean on the hedgehog!

But real romance in nomenclature is in that of native wild flowers. A guide pointed out Canterbury Bell, Popcorn, Desert Gold, Morning Bride, Purple Lupin, Holly Hock, Larkspur, Desert Sunflower, the Bladder Pod and the Desert Poppy—all fascinating in their kaledioscopic coloring and exotic perfumes.

While we saw only varieties of lizards and a few squirrels wild life is plentiful. There are deer, bighorn, mountain lions, wild cat, coyote, coon, ringtail cat and the desert mouse and the desert rat. The birds include the rock wren, linnet, brown bird, song sparrow, Mexican canary and the Phoebe.

* * *

As one who is no great shakes for spooks, I would not care to ride over the desert alone at night. Queer whorls rise up and take grotesque shapes that seem to beckon. Even the dog's back hair stiffened. Still after being chased in Los Angeles by a catbird, his fright is not surprising.

A bearded old misbegotten buzzard in front of a typical desert lean-to was asked if it had been hot this summer. "Hotter'n a Fourth of July in hell," he replied. And that is tilting a thermometer.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

YOU might save yourself sorrow, disappointment and perhaps failure if you would realize your limitations.

Too many men get the idea that if they can make money for other men they can make it for themselves.

Thus they engage in undertakings for which they are not fitted either by nature or education and experience.

Usually they lose their money and a certain degree of standing.

They were valuable in the firms where they were employed.

But they were directed by men more capable of disposing advantageously of their production.

No ambitious man wants to waste his efforts.

But working for another man is not always wasting valuable effort which might be expended so as to get all the gain, if one working were for oneself.

It is a dangerous line of thought to be all the time feeling that the other man is getting more than his share of your effort.

You may be a good workman but more than that is needed before it is safe to branch out for yourself.

Consider well whether you are fitted to direct the efforts of others, and be honest with yourself.
